MD Faces Murder Charge?

The Crown is considering a charge of first-degree murder against a Richmond doctor who allegedly decided to withhold nourishment from a severely deformed infant.

Al Hoehm, chief prosecutor in the South Fraser Region, said a baby with massive brain deformities died in Richmond General Hospital May 24 after being denied attention for 17 days.

Hospital administrator Hugh Ross declined to comment on details of the case.

Meanwhile, a local spokesman said hospital policy in the Victoria area would prevent an incident like that in Richmond taking place.

Dr. Ray LeHuquest, medical administrator of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, said today it is hospital policy to give newborn malformed infants or malformed babies admitted to the hospital all the care needed to maintain life.

"As an example, on the fifth floor of the Eric Martin we have severely mentally and physically handicapped children and the staff work extremely hard to bring these kids along," LeHuquet said.

Hoehm said the baby in Richmond was born May 7, suffering from a condition called amniotic band syndrome, in which tissues in the mother's womb become wrapped around the fetus.

He said the baby had only a brain stem at birth.

He said police began investigations shortly after the baby's death and a report was submitted by Richmond RCMP on June 21.

He would not say if the Crown is considering laying charges against the parents, who are reported to have approved the doctor's actions, or against other doctors and hospital staff involved in the alleged decision to withhold nourishment.

"We haven't yet finished our over-all investigation over whether a parent or doc-

The Canadian Bar Association committee which Monday announced a controversial proposal to drop the Queen as head of state may have been "hand-picked to bring in a particular recommendation," Victoria lawyer John Goult said Monday.

Goult also said that Jacques Viau, Canadian Bar Association president, made contradictory advance statements about what the committee would recommend.

At the time the committee was formed, Viau was reported as saying it would recommend abolition of the monarchy but when challenged by Goult he said in a letter the committee should not be making any recommendations on changes to the monarchy.

"The committee now has made the very recommendation he said it would not consider," said Goult.

A political breakdown of the 15-member committee would "find almost all of them are Liberals," he added.

In its report the bar association's constitutional committee said the Queen should be replaced as the head of state by a person appointed by a Commons majority.

Replacement of the Queen with a Canadian is necessary for the promotion of confidence, pride and a strong sense of Canadian identity, the report said.

The bar association's committee would also abolish the Senate and transform it into a body filled by provincial appointees. The federal government, which now appoints all senators, could send members to the new chamber but they would have no vote.

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker also described the proposal as hypothetical nonsense.

"The Queen could not be removed except by a vote of the House of Commons and the Senate, and the Senate would never vote for abolition," he said after release of the committee's report.

Now You Know

PEKING — Since 1970, according to an official New China News Agency commentary released Monday, Israel has had a powerful secret ally who has contributed thousands of people to swell its small population and man its army.

The ally in question is none other than the Soviet Union, a country the rest of the world thought was one of Israel's bitterest foes. But this, says the commentary, is just sham and double sham.

"In its contention with the United States for hegemony in the Middle East," wrote the anonymous correspondent, "The Soviet Union, while handing out the signboard of 'support' for the Arab people in their struggle against Israeli aggression, has been establishing contacts with Israel in many ways, ranging from concealed collusion to the open exchange of visits."

But the real proof of an alliance, apparently, is all the people the Soviet Union has sent to Israel to help it wage aggression against the Arabs.

Thousands of Soviet Jews have requested to emigrate to Israel, often bringing persecution on their heads by doing so. However, if you follow the logic of the Chinese argument, that too is a sham.

The agency quotes Israeli ministry of immigration statistics to prove its point (which reports a total of 130,000 Soviet Jews who have emigrated to Israel).

'This is not the whole of the crime to which they are committed. According to former Israeli deputy premier Yigal Allon, Israel plans to accept one million Soviet Jews, so there are prospects of still bigger nefarious dealings between the Soviet Union and Israel."

The agency attack comes at a time when China is making new diplomatic initiatives in the Middle East to try to counter Soviet influence there.

SCIENTOLOGY CHARGES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury today indicted 11 members of the Church of Scientology, including the wife of founder L. Ron Hubbard, on charges of stealing government documents.

The indictmentsalso charge the church with recruiting members "to infiltrate various agencies and departments of the United States."

9.8% INFLATION RATE

July Price Rise Highest Since '75

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer prices rose at their fastest rate in more than three years during July as sharply higher food prices once more fueled inflation, Statistics Canada reported today.

The consumer price index, the most widely used inflation measure, was up by 1½ per cent after rising nine-tenths of one per cent in June. The last time it rose as strongly was in June, 1975.

As a result, the 12-month inflation rate in July was 9.8 per cent, up from 9.2 per cent in June. It is the highest inflation rate since November, 1975, one month after the government imposed wage and price controls.

Fresh fruit and vegetable prices were up by 17.8 per cent in July and are about 45 per cent higher than a year ago. The monthly increase largely reflects the replacement of depleting domestic supplies of apples and potatoes by higher-priced imports, Statistics Canada says.

Beef prices, which had jumped by more than 10 per cent in each of the two previous months, were up by 3.9 per cent in July. Beef costs about 66 per cent more than a year ago.

There were also price increases for poultry products, margarine and some cereal and bakery products.

The Anti-Inflation Board recently released its own report on food prices, saying it expected prices to level off for the rest of this year. Its findings were based on a more current survey than the consumer price index. However, its conclusions were later challenged by supermarket spokesmen, who said they saw no reason why food prices would level off although they might rise more moderately.

Aside from food, higher costs for shelter and increased hotel and motel charges were the other main factors in the July increase in prices. Some North American and imported autos cost more, and dental fees were increased in some regions.

The consumer price index stood at 177.7 in July, compared with 175.1 in June and 161.8 in July a year ago.

That means a standard basket of consumer goods and services that cost $177.70 in July could have been bought for $175.10 in June and for $161.80 a year ago.

The purchasing power of a 1971 dollar had dropped to 56 cents by last month.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, said the inflation figures make it more imperative that Prime Minister Trudeau recall Parliament and present measures to deal with the slumping economy.

If Trudeau has an economic recovery plan such as he promised on national television two weeks ago, this is the time to present it in detail, Stevens said.

He noted that Canada had a loss in its merchandise trade with other countries during

UVic Vice-President New Head of SFU

University of Victoria vice-president Dr. K. George Pedersen has been appointed president of Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, effective Jan. 1, 1979.

SFU said today he has been given a renewable contract to Aug. 31, 1984, at an initial salary of $63,000 a year.

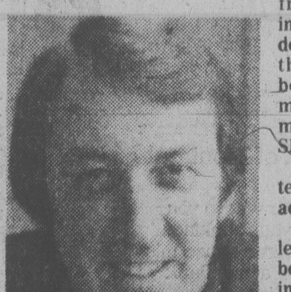
He replaces Dr. Pauline Jewett, the first woman in Canada to head the administration of a large co-educational university.

Jewett was to have remained in office until Aug. 31, 1979, but with successful completion of the search for her successor, she asked for and received an early release.

In October last year Jewett failed to win the New Democratic Party nomination in the newly-created federal riding of Burnaby.

Pedersen, 47, an academic whose special interest is educational administration, has been at the University of Victoria since 1972. He joined as dean of the faculty of education and was appointed vice-president in 1975.

His education background includes a teaching diploma from the Provincial Normal School in Vancouver (1952); a Bachelor of Arts from UBC (1959); a Master of Arts from the University of Washington (1964), and a doctorate from the University of Chicago (1969).



PEDERSEN

Pedersen spent 13 years as a teacher and administrator in North Vancouver schools, serving as vice-principal and principal at both the elementary and secondary levels.

He left North Vancouver in 1965 to obtain his doctorate and to work as a researcher and teacher at the University of Chicago.

In a telephone interview from Burnaby today, following the announcement, Pedersen said he was delighted that his appointment had been unanimously recommended by the search committee and endorsed by the SFU board of governors.

"One couldn't ask for a better reception than that," he added.

He said he is sorry to be leaving UVic because "I have become terribly fond of that institution."

"I am awfully pleased with the academic progress it is making at the present time," he added.

Married, and the father of two teenagers, Pedersen likes jogging and golf for recreation.

Dollar Keeps Sliding

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar's tailspin continued today on the world's money markets, with the U.S. currency hitting new record lows against the Japanese yen, the Swiss franc and the West German mark.

The price of gold, reflecting the dollar's weakness, soared to new highs of $216.125 an ounce in early trading in Zurich and $216 in London. The previous highs, on Monday, were $213.625 in Zurich, $214.625 in London and $215.25 in New York.

Meanwhile in Montreal, the Canadian dollar in terms of U.S. funds closed at 88.42.

The British pound broke through the $2 (U.S.) level for the first time since March 5, 1976. It rose from $1.9797 in late trading Monday to $2.0020 but later dropped to $1.9978.

The rise of the pound brought a mood of excitement in London, as it was an illustration of how the currency has improved since the crisis days of 1976 when it fell below $2 in March and then went further down to $1.55 seven months later.

It had closed Friday at $1.9917 in New York and overnight edged up to $1.9985 in Hong Kong.

In Zurich, the dollar was quoted at 1.5545 Swiss francs at midmorning, down sharply from the previous low of 1.5810 at the end of business Monday.

In Frankfurt, the battered U.S. currency was trading at 1.9172 West German marks, another sharp drop from the previous low of 1.9510 marks late Monday.

It was the fourth day in succession of new lows for the dollar against the mark and Swiss franc.

In Tokyo, the dollar plunged to 181.80 yen, 2.50 yen below the previous low Aug. 2, and closed at 182.85.

"If you think this is low, wait until next week," said one Tokyo trader.

Both Canadian Pacific Ltd. and Canadian National Rail recorded substantial profits for the first six months of the year, the firms reported from their Montreal headquarters.

CP's profit was $152.8 million, or $2.12 a share, for the six months ended June 30, up from $126.4 million, or $1.75 a share, for the corresponding period in 1977.

Most of the profits come from CP Investments Ltd., with $96.9 million, from $85.7 million, while CP Ships reported a loss of $8 million, almost double the loss of $4.6 million for the first half of last year.

CP Rail made profits of $41.2 million, up $8.7 million from the first six months last year. A statement said the improvement was wholly attributable to the second quarter when freight volume was six per cent higher than that of the first quarter which was down.

CP Air reported a profit of $4 million in the first half, up from a loss of $4.3 million last year.

CN registered profits of $61,190,000 for the first six months of 1978, the company said in its first of financial reports to be published on a quarterly basis.

The increase of $56 million over the corresponding period in 1977 resulted largely from government legislation June 30 to recapitalize the firm.

Buses Will Cost $2M Next Year

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Municipalities in the Capital Region will have to raise $2 million for the first year they take over the local transit system from B.C. Hydro.

That figure will rise to about $5 million annually when the full share of the bus system operating cost is borne by the local governments in a five-year phase-in cost-sharing formula revealed Monday by Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis.

For the first two years beginning in the fiscal year 1979-80, the provincial government will pick up 75 per cent of the costs.

The provincial share falls to 60 per cent after 1983-84.

The annual operating cost for the region is projected at between $11 million and $13 million in the first year rising to between $16.4 and $19.6 million by 1983-84.

The two local representatives on the 10 member Urban Transit Authority (UTA) — Ald. Bill Tindall of Victoria and Mayor Mel Couvelier of Saanich — welcomed the initial large provincial share.

The larger than expected provincial share is the best news since harness racing came to Sandown, Tindall said.

At the UTA's inaugural meeting in Victoria Monday, Tindall said the 75-25 split "looks like the relief we are looking for to avoid a property tax levy."

Municipal representatives in the Vancouver and Victoria areas had been worried about how much the transfer of transit systems would cost the local governments.

Under the jurisdiction of B.C. Hydro, all transit losses are spread throughout the entire province.

Couvelier also expressed relief and at the proposed formula and also noted the fact that researchers predict Greater Victoria can pay for its system solely through a gasoline surcharge of three cents a gallon up to 1981.

After that time, the mill rate will likely have to be increased rising to about 1.2 mills by 1983-84.

It is also projected a $12 annual household power levy will have to be tacked on following 1983.

Mayor Jack Volrich of Vancouver was elected acting chairman of the UTA.

Several of the representatives expressed concern that another provincial bureaucracy is being set up with about 65 civil servants and a budget of $2.4 million annually.

But Curtis reminded the board that about 22 of the positions already exist in the

U.S. Data Firm Selects Victoria as Western HQ

By AL FORREST
Times Staff

Data Communications Ltd. has selected Victoria as its western Canadian headquarters and will open for business here Nov. 1, company vice president Dave Cummings announced today.

The company, which provides computer services to real estate boards, expects to have a full-time staff of between 40 and 50 people in its Victoria plant within two years.

Start-up plans are for 12 employees in a building of about 5,000 square feet of space, allowing generous room for expansion.

"We have invested a great deal of money on the assumption we can reach our growth target," Cummings said. "I'm confident we can reach it."

Data Communications is a division of McGraw Hill.

First customer is the Victoria Real Estate Board which will have its Multiple Listing Service catalogue printed at the Data Communications plant.

The company has already contacted boards across B.C., Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba and expects to sign up a number of them as well.

World headquarters of Data Communications is Santa Barbara.

In the start-up phase, the Victoria plant will be linked to the California computer but if growth targets are met a computer will be installed here.

Cummings said Victoria is an ideal location for the western Canadian headquarters because there is a good supply of newsprint on Vancouver Island and air transport flights, which will carry the MLS books to western Canadian cities, originate in Victoria.

"There is no danger of shipments being bumped off the plane. For example, he said, if our headquarters were in Vancouver, we could find there is no space left on the plane that started in Victoria. This would be a serious problem for us because time is so vital.

"Besides," he said, "why not Victoria? It is a lovely city and transportation and communications services are as good here as anywhere."

Cummings is in Victoria looking for a site for the plant.

"Having said this I will probably be flooded with calls. But that's all right. We are working to a deadline and we want to move quickly on something as soon as we find a suitable building."

The deadline is to have the first MLS catalogue for the Victoria Real Estate Board off the presses by Nov. 3. The plant is to be operating by Nov. 1. The company is looking for a five-year lease on land and building although it is flexible on the length of term.

Use of the computer will put about twice as much information into the Victoria board's real estate catalogue. A cumulative history of each property will be included, enabling salesmen to make instant appraisals of all similar properties on the street.

Information on Victoria properties will be fed into the Santa Barbara computer where it will come out in the form of completed plates, including photos, ready for the press. The plates will then be flown to Victoria where they will be run off the press here.

Eventually all this will be done in Victoria.

"Within five years all real estate boards will be using services like ours," Cummings predicted.

"Before very long we will be able to install a device in a salesman's car, costing about $30, which will keep him up to date on listings as they come in. He will be able to ask for all new listings in the area where he is driving and they will come out in printed form."

Victoria Real Estate Board chairman Bev Highton called Data Communications a welcome new industry.

$4.5M DAMAGE FROM QUAKE

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Local officials Monday declared Santa Barbara County a disaster area in the wake of an earthquake that injured about 60 persons and caused an estimated $4.5 million in damage.

Aftershocks, most too weak to be felt, continued through the day in this coastal area as scientists tried to pinpoint the geological fault responsible for Sunday's jolting earthquake.

The county Board of Supervisors voted Monday afternoon to ask the state to declare the county a disaster area, a step that would make homeowners and businessmen eligible for loans and other financial assistance, said Jeff Samsom, assistant county administrative offficer.

He said the $4.5-million damage figure was "a very preliminary estimate. Most of it is private property."

"Most people, I'm afraid, didn't have earthquake insurance," he added.

Campfire Ban Lifted Except for Interior

The B.C. forest service has lifted its ban on campfires throughout the province except for the Penticton Creek and Ellis Creek watersheds in the Kamloops forest district.

Don Owen of the protection divison said the cancellation is effective immediately, and follows weekend rains throughout most of the province.

"The fire danger is still high in the southeastern part of the province," he said Monday in a news release. "While the rain has brought relief, we can expect more dry weather before the fire season is over."

The forest service said Monday that most of the 481 fires still burning were in the mop-up stage.

Lightning accompanying some of the rain storms during the weekend started 27 new fires, but these were quickly contained, the forest service said.

Sooke Man Falls, Dies

A 63-year-old Sooke man died Monday when he fell and struck his head on a cement pad while repairing front steps at his trailer home at 2537 Sooke River Road.

Sooke RCMP said the man, identified as Erwin Edward Demski, was working on the steps with a neighbor. They had pulled the stairs away and went inside the trailer for some refreshments. When the man came out he stepped into the void.

Demski's injuries at first appeared minor but he collapsed and went into a coma. He was dead by the time an ambulance arrived.

The mishap occurred at about 4:30 p.m.

Healing Substance: Shrinks Piles
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores. Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Oregon Miscarriages Linked to Herbicides

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has launched an intensified investigation to see if 10 miscarriages among eight women in a tiny Oregon mountain town were caused by herbicide spraying in nearby forests.

In announcing the probe Monday, EPA administrator Douglas Costle said the agency already has conducted preliminary investigations, but added, "we're uncertain at this point whether herbicides are responsible for the miscarriages."

"But," Costle added, "one of the herbicides in question, namely 2,4,5-T, has caused birth defects and stillbirths among laboratory animals such as mice, rats, hamsters and birds. Another of the brush killers, Silvex, is being studied by EPA for the same reasons."

The problem was brought to the government's attention last April when an Alsea, Ore., schoolteacher Bonnie Hill and seven other women from that area wrote an EPA official to say that they had found "an incredibly close correlation" between the dates of the miscarriages they had and the dates herbicides were sprayed on area forests by two local timber companies — Starker and Willamette — the U.S. Forrest Service and the Federal Bureau of Lands and Mines. The miscarriages occurred between 1973 and 1977.

The herbicides in question contain dioxins, and are used to destroy vegetation that competes with tree seedlings struggling to grow into commercial timber.

The chemical 2,4,5-T was used by the U.S. military as part of the notorious "Agent Orange" to defoliate jungles in Vietnam to expose enemy troops. The Defence Department stopped the defoliation program in 1970, after findings that the defoliant caused birth defects in mice and rats.

Hill's letter pointed out that 10 miscarriages "for a population our size (under 1,000)," was unusually high. "Each of us was under the care of a physician at the time of the miscarriage," she wrote, "and none of our doctors could offer any explanation for the miscarriage when it occurred."

She said that "it seems more than coincidental that so many of us have miscarried only in the months of March through early June (since virtually all of the herbicide spraying occurs between February and April.)"

Hill said the only miscarriage that did not occur during that period "happened in October to one of us who lives in an area sprayed in September of that year."

"We are not trying to make rash, unsubstantiated claims," Hill wrote. "But we are interested in seeing if there is a cause-effect relationship. Some of us do know that large acreages near our homes in our water drainages were sprayed within a month before our miscarriages."

Last month, in response to the letter, the EPA sent three investigators from its Fort Collins, Colo., research program at Colorado State University to Alsea to interview the women involved, and have them fill out a detailed questionnaire.

"It will probably be a number of weeks before EPA officials can decide, based upon the questionnaire and other information, whether the herbicides may have contributed to the Alsea women's problems," said an EPA statement Monday. "If the answer appears to be yes, the agency will consider broader study of the area to see if an abnormal rate of miscarriages exists in the Oregon population."

Hill and most of the seven other women signing the letter live in mountainous west central Oregon timberland, and were unreachable because they don't have telephone service.

But Dr. Norton Kalishman, a local health department official who knows all eight, said, "These women, especially Bonnie Hill, have done a wonderful job of trying to come to grips with the probable causes. They did as good a study as most scientists would have done."

Kalishman himself has studied the case.

LEVESQUE SEEKING DIVORCE

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Rene Levesque has filed for divorce from his estranged wife, Louise L'Heureux, says Levesque's lawyer, Claude Paquette.

Paquette said no date has been set for a hearing, but he expected it would be in the autumn.

He confirmed a report in a magazine that Levesque gave "permanent breakdown" — "rupture definitive" in French — as the reason for seeking divorce and offering alimony of $2,000 a month.

But his wife contested the request for divorce, and demanded $3,000 a month in alimony.

Levesque, who turns 56 on Aug. 24, and his wife, now 57, were married in 1947. Levesque claims they have lived apart since 1970. They have three children: Pierre, 30, Claude, 28, and Suzanne, 22.

Teary Swimmer Pulled from Sea

ABOARD BEST REVENGE (AP) — U.S. marathon swimmer Diana Nyad, crying and pleading to stay in the water despite winds that blew her 64 kilometres off course and kept her from making headway, abandoned her Cuba-to-Florida swim today before getting half-way to Key West.

"I can't quit now," Ms. Nyad told her advisers before they called off her attempt at a record 164.8-kilometre open-water swim. "I can't quit. You don't understand. Is there another place to go?"

"A 50-hour swim won't make it," navigator Rich du Moulin replied.

Ms. Nyad was still stroking strong before she was pulled aboard her escort boat at 7:54 a.m. EDT about 136 kilometres southwest of Key West. She had been in the water for approximately 44 hours.

She had persisted despite getting seasick and weary and even though her mouth blistered and her tongue swelled after she was stung by poisonous jellyfish.

But she couldn't fight the currents and wind. Du Moulin reported she was making no progress toward the U.S. coast.

On Monday night, her operations manager, Ken Gundersen, had said she had made it more than half-way and was "coming on strong to Key West" and would not abandon her swim across the Florida Straits despite the problems she had encountered.

Gundersen said Monday night that the party had altered its planned course as it tried to cope with waves, winds and the Gulf Stream current.

A second swimmer trying to set a record for open-water swimming, English-born U.S. resident Stella Taylor, 46, was reported within sight of shore lights early today in her attempt to swim to Florida from the Bahamas through 160 kilometres of shark-inhabited waters.

Ms. Taylor was reported to have stopped taking solid foods, switching to soft drinks only as she battled seasickness, but a crew member said she was "going just as strongly as when she left." The swimmer had to climb out of the water three times Monday because of a persistent shark that eventually was shot.

The swelling was the second crisis in a struggle that began Sunday afternoon when the 28-year-old Nyad entered the water at the Cuban beach of Ortejaso, about 80 kilometres west of Havana.

She encountered vicious waves her first night out. Salt water washed into her mouth. She retched pitifully. By evening she was screaming at her attendants: "You can't start like this! You can't start like this!"

Israelis Given Pledge

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration has assured Israel that future military and economic aid will not be linked to the outcome of the Camp David, Md., summit on the Middle East, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance told the Senate Foreign Relations committee Monday, according to informed sources.

Testifying at a closed-door session, Vance said he gave the assurance that aid would not be held hostage against the outcome of the Sept. 5 conference to Prime Minister Menahem Begin last week in Jerusalem, the sources said.

Those fears were evidence by questions directed at Vance Monday during his report to the committee on his five-day trip to the Middle East last week, which produced agreement by Begin and Sadat to meet with Carter at Camp David.

The United States currently provides about $2 billion a year in total aid to Israel. The assurances from Vance against reprisals evidently helped produce a euphoric reaction by Begin to last week's visit and the invitation to the summit.

Balloonists Make Headway In Atlantic Attempt

BEDFORD, Mass. (Reuter) — Three U.S. adventurers trying to make the first crossing of the Atlantic in a balloon were reported making satisfactory progress today in their craft Double Eagle II.

Max Anderson, 43, Ben Abruzzo, 47 and Lawrence Newman, 31, were about 600 nautical miles northeast of St John's, Nfld., travelling northeast at 23 knots at 4,330 metres, a spokesman at their monitoring station said.

Their position was fixed by a reading from a satellite.

Anderson reported in a radio message that the balloon's oxygen and heating systems are in use and working well.

Monsoon Floods

NEW DELHI (AP) — Swollen by the monsoons, the Ganges and other major rivers flooded more than four million acres in Uttar Pradesh state during the weekend and drowned 29 people.

Phone, Mail Chaos

LONDON (AP) — A work slowdown by technicians has a strangehold on Britain's telephone service. Pay phones take the money and do not work. Phones do not ring when numbers are dialed. Wrong numbers are common, and it is difficult to make international calls.

Communications experts say only about one international call in 20 from London is being completed, and businesses dependent on fast exchange of information are feeling the pinch.

About £50 million ($108 million) worth of new telephone equipment is lying idle because no one is available to install it, said a spokesman for the Post Office, which runs the telephone service. That means more and more phone booths are taking in coins but not working.

To make matters worse, the Post Office says the go-slow by 125,000 maintenance engineers has bogged down the mail too.

Post Office officials and representatives of the engineers union that has been pursuing the slowdown for 10 months met again Monday to talk over the union's demand for a 35-hour work week but no result was exepected for days.

"We've still got service to all countries, except for Mexico and Sri Lanka from certain parts of this country," a Post Office spokesman said. "Whether or not you get through on a given call depends largely on luck. If there's a circuit free, you get through right away. Otherwise not."

He said 2,300 out of 12,000 international circuits were out of order Monday.

Second-class mail has been slowed to a crawl because postal sorting equipment, fans, conveyor belts and elevators are not being maintained and first-class mail is given priority. Air mail, handled through a separate system, also has been slowed down.

Tina Going Flat-Hunting

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Shipping millionairess Christina Onassis Kauzov, back with her new Soviet husband Sergei after a brief separation amid divorce rumors, is expected to go apartment hunting with him in Moscow today.

The couple was reunited late Monday nine days after Christina, 27, suddenly put off a Siberian honeymoon and flew alone to Athens.

After returning to Moscow, she issued a statement through a British reporter saying she had only been away on business and will be making other business trips from time to time.

Monday night she refused to speak to other Western reporters but told the British reporter she already has denied rumors of trouble with her husband.

Kauzov, a former Soviet shipping official who met her while working in Paris, was not at the airport to meet her.

The couple was reunited at the two-room suburban apartment of his mother, Mariya Sergeyevna, and later drove together to the airport to pick up her baggage.

Of the divorce rumors, Mrs. Sergeyevna told reporters by telephone: "Only for people who do not understand love should there be any questions."

Kauzov said during the weekend he was searching for an apartment — a hard task in Moscow where the state controls almost all homes — and hoped Christina would help when she returned.

Observers here said they believe the couple might be spared the delays usual when Soviet citizens marry foreigners, and receive clearance to buy a co-operative apartment.

These are in buildings built with money invested by their future tenants, who can only sell them with official approval.

A Thorny Question

Elected officials in the four core municipalities are surely facing one of the thorniest questions they have had to deal with in some time as they ponder the fate of the downtown library. There are few blacks or whites in the issue; it has become a question of trying to form a coherent picture out of a dozen hazy shades of grey.

Even the library board members most strongly in support of the current controversial proposal to lease space from the provincial government for the new central library agree the plan is far from perfect, and most of the politicians who voted against the idea admit, at least in private, to having a few qualms about their decision.

The only fact on which virtually everyone agrees is that a new central library is sorely needed for Greater Victoria. The old Carnegie building at the corner of Yates and Blanshard was constructed more than 70 years ago; despite a later addition, it is grossly inadequate to meet the needs of a modern library system.

It is too small, it is so designed that only about half the total space is available for public use, staff are crammed into corners and rabbit-warrens of passages, there is almost no parking available.

The other basic fact that surely should be accepted by everyone is that a new central library is going to be expensive. Whether the library board decides to accept the lease proposal or to try to find some way of building its own new structure, the taxpayers are going to end up paying at least a little bit more.

Accepting those facts, what remains is the question: is acceptance of the provincial lease offer the best way to get the badly-needed new facilities?

The provincial offer would have the advantage of providing the library board with a more-than-adequate building for the central library quite quickly. It meets the basic needs of the library system: it would provide about 16,000 more feet of space than the Carnegie; it would be designed so that staff could work efficiently and so that the public would have access to a much higher proportion of the space; ample underground parking is provided; like the Carnegie, it is is centrally located.

Moreover, to put the library in the provincial space — ground floor at the corner of Blanshard and Broughton — would do wonders for that now-sterile part of downtown. The people brought into the area by the library would surely lead to a surge in retail sales and business for surrounding shops, offices and restaurants.

These are all good reasons for the municipalities to go along with the provincial proposal. Yet opponents of the scheme are quite right too when they say that the leasing plan has some serious disadvantages.

The one heard most often is the old saw that at the end of the lease period of 10 years, the board would have spent $4 million but would have nothing to show for it. Although this is true, it really is a valid argument only for Victoria city, not for the other partners — Oak Bay, Saanich or Esquimalt.

The Public Libraries Act prohibits library boards from holding land in their own name; therefore, the land would have to be owned by the city with a trust agreement of some type being drawn up to cover the library use. It would be the city that would end up owning land and building at the end of the partnership agreement.

It would stand to gain then from a decision to buy and build rather than lease, but none of the other municipalities would. Surely it makes little difference to the taxpayers of Saanich or Esquimalt whether their council is paying its library rent to the provincial government or to Victoria.

A more serious argument against leasing is the rigid structure into which the library board would be tied. It would have little or no flexibility to introduce new design concepts into the library.

Also, the board could well be put very much at the mercy of the provincial government through the lease. Although the terms of the first 10-year lease are not terribly unfavorable to the board, the province would probably have an immense amount of power when the time came to negotiate any renewal. At that point the library board likely would have nowhere else it could possibly go, so it would have to accept whatever onerous and unreasonable terms the province chose to impose.

These arguments, just as strong as those in favor of the lease plan, all support the idea that buy-and-build would be better. But they lead to what must be considered the trump card of the lease supporters: the question not of whether the lease plan is the best way to get a new downtown library but of whether it is the only way to get one. In other words, is build-and-buy a realistic alternative?

The evidence appears to be that, at this time, it is not. No site is readily available; the possibility of expanding on the present library has proven to be grossly unsatisfactory.

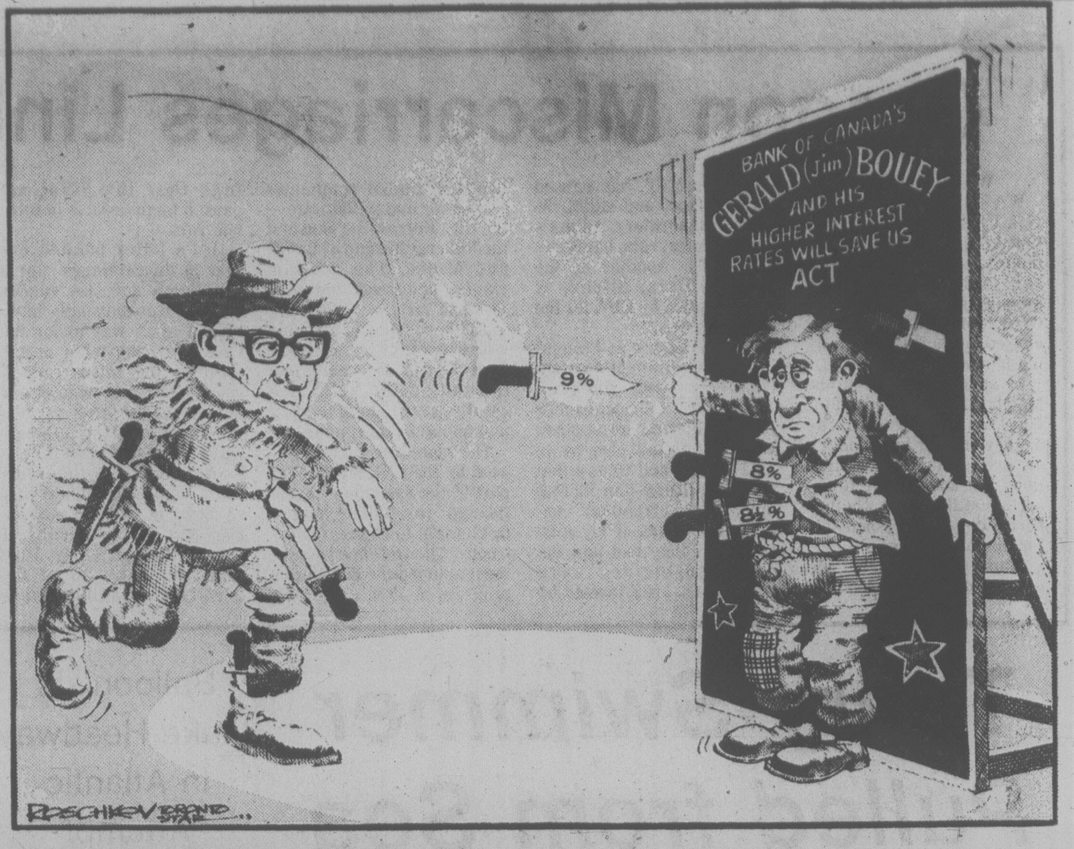
The difficulties involved in negotiating the lease among the four municipalities would be no less in negotiating a proposal to buy-and-build. It would be unlikely that a deal could be negotiated in less than two years after a site was found. After that, it would probably take at least another three or four years to plan and build the facility. A referendum might well be necessary, another time-consuming and difficult procedure.

The chances are probably no better than even money that the new building would be ready before the Carnegie reached an irreversible level of disrepair.

Perhaps therefore the most logical solution is that the four municipalities should agree now to the 10-year lease arrangement — Esquimalt should reconsider its decision to reject the lease, and the other three should continue to support it — but should make it clear that this is only a temporary stopgap.

Even as they are moving into the Blanshard Street building, they should begin to search for sites and to plan a building of their own to be completed in 10 years' time. It is quite likely to take the full decade to find a suitable site, negotiate a deal, then plan, design and construct the new library.

This is not a good solution, but there do not seem to be any good solutions to this problem. And it is probably a better solution than either planning for a permanent lease arrangement for the library or forcing library service to deteriorate by making it stay in the crumbling Carnegie building while inter-municipal squabbles go on for years.



CLAUDE ADAMS

How to Find Local CIA Man

WASHINGTON — Want to expose your local CIA agent? Philip Agee, No. 1 on the agency's hate list, tells you how in a new underground publication that is circulating throughout the U.S.

Only a few hundred copies, mailed to selected groups and individuals, have trickled into the country, but they have already sent shivers up the collective spines of right-wing congressmen and CIA officials.

Naturally enough the publication, called the Covert Action Information Bulletin, also worries the 5,000 CIA spies around the world, who recall the 1975 assassination in Athens of Richard Welch after another Agee magazine named him as a CIA official.

Gone Too Far?

Agee, who left the agency in 1968, wrote a controversial "diary" about his 12 years of dirty work in South and Central America in which he named names and described operations, and is now believed living in Rome, says in the premier issue of CAIB that "we will never stop exposing CIA personnel and operations whenever and wherever we find them."

Even critics of the agency here in Washington feel that the avowed socialist has gone too far, although there is some question about how much damage he can do the U.S. foreign intelligence-gathering network with his Who's Who and How-to-Expose-Them manuals.

Nevertheless, Agee's formula for rooting out the dastardly spooks pulls no punches. For example, he notes that when the CIA men have been uncovered for all the world to see, forget the niceties.

"Bring pressure on the government to throw them out," he urges. "Peaceful protest will do the job. And when it doesn't, those whom the CIA has most oppressed will find other ways of fighting back."

Agee's do-it-yourself guide for CIA-busting presumes that most CIA operatives are working under diplomatic cover around the globe.

The first recommended step, then, is to obtain a list of all the Americans working in the U.S. mission, embassy, consulate or other installations in the particular country. The list, Agee tells, "can be acquired through a friend in the host foreign ministry, in the American embassy, or by some other means." Use your imagination.

Next, the amateur spook-hunters can secure copies of public documents like the U.S. foreign service lists and Biographic Registers, which are both published by the U.S. State Department, from a local library.

The host country also publishes diplomatic lists, which contain the names and addresses of the high-ranking staff in the mission.

Compare the listings in the U.S. documents with those published by the host countries. If there are any omissions in the former material, you are getting close. "Most of these", remarks Agee, "will be CIA people purposely left off the state department lists."

Now that you have your list of suspects, get in touch with the new Agee publication (it has a Washington-area post office box number) and it will follow up on the leads, and publish all information it can confirm.

The last step is the easy one. Stage public demonstrations, and watch the spies run for cover. "Naturally," Agee says, "as new CIA people replace the old, it will be necessary to repeat the process, perhaps every few months".

In its first issue, the Agee group "exposes" the CIA station chief in Jamaica, and prints a brief biography.

Working with Agee on his latest project are a half dozen other U.S. radicals and former CIA people. The group was last seen in Havana, at the 11th World Festival of Youth and Students, a well-known Communist front organization.

The Central Intelligence Agency, naturally, is aghast. "Incredible, unbelievable," a CIA spokesman said when asked about the publication.

"The motivation of these people has got to be more than that they're just ticked off at the CIA. This goes beyond whistleblowing."

Worse than Philby

Legislation is before both houses of congress that would prohibit former intelligence agents from naming names and "blowing" secret operations. Penalties would include a fine of up to $10,000 and-or as much as 10 years imprisonment.

Last week, an irate Georgia congressman, Larry McDonald, described Agee as a man "who could have taught the notorious Kim Philby lessons in treachery."

But it is unlikely that authorities will try to stamp out Agee's latest effort — the line between "treason" and freedom of the press is too tricky for congress to try to define, especially in an election year.

And as one senate aid moaned in an interview this week: "There is nothing in the law books that could lead to the seizure of this material."

Test Tube Babies

Outside of his having listed the principal moral concerns troubling people today over the issue of the so-called "test-tube" baby, it does not appear that Frank Rutter contributed much to the controversy by his article 'Tube' Baby A Moral Issue (Victoria Times, July 31).

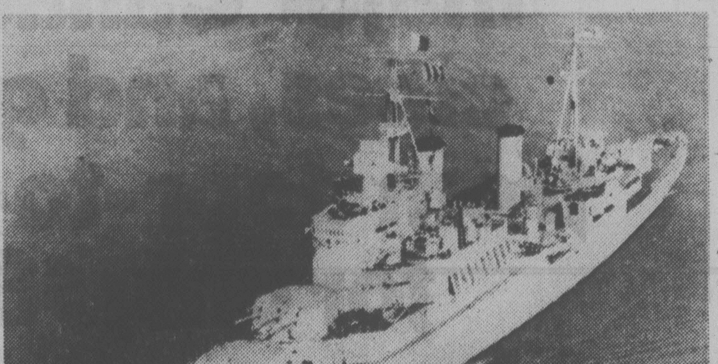
However, page 16 of the July 26 Victoria Times carried two related news items worth pondering. The smaller of the two, datelined Vatican City, reported the (predictable) reply of 'a Vatican spokesman', Father Franco Pastore, when asked about its attitude to the at-that-time pending birth of a baby conceived by artificial insemination: the church was opposed to such means of conception because they violate "the law of nature."

In current speculative Catholic thinking, however, the "natural law" theory (borrowed from ancient stoic philosophy) is open to much criticism and has been for many years.

Nevertheless, setting aside the natural law concept for the moment, there is hidden in the second item, taken from the Washington Post, perhaps a more contemporary argument against the artificial production of conception. Andre Hellyers provides it. Since several "embryo" babies must be conceived before one is selected to be implanted in the mother's womb, the others are destroyed, a form of abortion death. So far in human history no one has come up with a convincing alternative to the Christian assumption that God created the human soul at the precise moment that the body is conceived, human life being a body/soul continuum, and therefore it is obviously immoral to separate body from soul by killing the former at whatever stage of life, that is, at any time after conception.

Joseph Fletcher's contention, also mentioned in the Post article, "that all these things are perfectly natural . . ." (otherwise they would not "work") could equally well justify such other horrors as hijacking, assassination, rape, capital punishment and atomic annihilation; they all "work".!

Surely Jeremiah was right: "More torture than all else is the human heart, beyond remedy; who can understand it?" Indeed, who would want to understand it? To what depths of self-justifying evil humankind is subject when we forget God and lose respect for human life. — Robin Terry, 524 Dallas Road.



HMCS Uganda served in the Pacific Ocean during Second World War.

Uganda Veterans

While my wife and I awaited the veterans of HMCS Uganda (who were parading to St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church downtown), we proposed to sit in the cool of the church rather than endure the hot sun of last week's heat wave. However, we found the front doors had no handles on them, so we couldn't find respite within.

But we learned later from a Uganda veteran and his wife, who were married in that same church 30 years ago, that it was necessary to remove the handles in order to keep vandals out.

What a sad commentary on our times! Here were men assembling to thank God for deliverance from all the perils HMCS Uganda endured in action, only to find in peacetime there is chaos, even 33 years later.

For when our churches are no longer sanctuaries from evil, our nation is in a bad way.

Our prayer is that the young will learn something of the veterans' hope for a better world, and as we did in war time do their duty and make the effort to do something constructive — not destructive — and contribute thereby to the common good now.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Ray Graham who read the lesson and whose committee made our reunion such a memorable one, and Reverend Howie whose touching sermon left many a wet eye for comrades who won't return. — J. W. Essex, HMCS Uganda veteran.

What's Civilized?

I arrived in Victoria a year ago and I love this beautiful city with some unique 'old world' charm, small alleys, squares and interesting architecture.

However when we get back to the archaic drinking laws, out the door goes the charm which is so much a part of the way of life in Europe.

Ald. Robin Blencoe (Times, Aug. 4) supports the idea of liquor being served on cafe sidewalks. This is civilized drinking, despite what Ald. Glazier may think, or has he not visited Europe for the past three or four hundred years?

I hail from 'down under' as does Max Low, and New Zealand had the world's worst drinking laws a decade ago but has come a long way since then. Many pubs have permanent beer gardens where all types of liquor are served under trees on nice lawns.

The recent beer garden (although for a good cause) in the Inner Harbor with trestle tables, paper cups, loud music and police standing like prison wardens at each end would make most Europeans laugh. Large impersonal drinking places create behavior problems. Many people go out to get "smashed" and these attitudes will be maintained with beer parlors and large indoor drinking places.

By changing the drinking atmosphere the attitude will change by having small outdoor cafes and beer gardens in the summer time serving liquor in the European style. A quieter, more personal contact is made between people where one can make new friends, have a bite to eat, a glass of wine and watch the world go by.

I don't care what the merchants say: if we closed off Government Street to traffic in the summer, had potted trees, outdoor stalls, and cafes serving food (and wine and beer for a start) I bet the business would increase. Every city in Europe has a 'walking street'.

Please Victoria lets get with it. Write to Robin Blencoe, the Times and the Liquor Administration Branch and lets give Victoria a real civilized flavor. Let's grow up a little. And Murray Glazier should pop over to Europe this summer and open his eyes, but he had better not tell them about our 'civilized' drinking in Canada. — Neville Morrison, 1409-620 Toronto Street.

Machiavellian

If a majority of the public wants to get rid of the political party in power and replace it with another, but the incumbent party won't call an election if the polls are unfavorable, why don't all the citizens who want a change, pretend to favor the present government for the benefit of the polls. The government encouraged by this favorable reflection, would consequently call an election; then when it came time to vote, they could all support the party of their choice? — Joan Bittorf, 1073 Davie Street.

Lacrosse Justice

Commissioner Burton's lack of a clear decision on the fist swinging brawl following the final whistle of the recent lacrosse playoff game, leaves the impression of a man lacking both intestinal fortitude and conviction on how grown men should act in a professional sport.

The Western Lacrosse Association has the privilege of policing itself — an honor it should guard in this day of increasing government controls and overburdening bureaucracy. However, lacrosse and other sports are in jeopardy of losing this respect if they allow the Burtons to consistently sit on the fence in the face of vicious, senseless, and possibly crippling assaults.

I am admittedly a Victoria fan, but I do not feel Mr. Burton should have found a scapegoat in a (Vancouver) Burrard, but rather he should find the all-important reasons for such mindless attacks, and point the finger where it belongs, be it Shamrock trainer, Burrard player, or the fan. He alone has the ability to deal with the situation, and in such a manner as to eliminate deathly smoldering feuds.

Burton's duty is to deliver justice in this league.

I as a fan, have the gut fear that too soon, a young man is going to be physically robbed of his ability to continue as a productive individual in society. Mr. Burton either fails to understand his job and the high regard the fan has for such a position, or I am terribly wrong in thinking that someone can return sanity to our national sport. — John Farmer, Box 338, Sooke.

THE GLOBE AND MAIL
An Editorial

The state of the nation's dental health is not good. A survey conducted by Nutrition Canada between 1970 and 1972 found that two of every five Canadians over 19 lacked teeth in their upper or lower jaws. Ninety-six per cent of all Canadian adults had dental decay, the leading cause of tooth loss among people under 35.

In a report on the study issued last summer, the federal health ministry said a "tremendous backlog" of problems existed which could be resolved successfully only through sustained prevention and treatment. And although six years have elapsed since the end of the study; although 5.4 million Canadian subscribers and dependents are now covered by group dental insurance; and although many children are reaping the benefits of fluoridation in water and toothpastes (which together, according to the head of the University of Toronto's children's dentistry department in 1975, reduce children's cavities by 75 per cent), we have little reason to be smug about the subject.

Yet Dr. Art Stoyshin, president of the Ontario Dental Association, felt no qualms about lecturing the Legislature committee studying Ontario's health care system on the evils of the Ontario Health Insurance Plan. "You all realize the problems the government has (with OHIP)," he said. "In a free market we (dentists) have been able to deliver service."

Service with a toothy smile. Not only can dentists make full use of the free market system, boasts Dr. Stoyshin, but they are unencumbered by government "meddling" and by an approach which he says permits freeloading members of the public to abuse OHIP. "If they didn't have a free ride, they wouldn't be utilizing all the services they have up to now."

It is bad enough to hear Dr. Stoyshin adopt a superior attitude on behalf of a professional association which deals primarily with patients who can afford to pay its fees. It is worse to have him aim his darts at OHIP, conveniently ignoring the fact that if our collective health were in the same shape as our collective dental health, many of us would be unable to work — that however awkward and ill-mannered aspects of OHIP may appear, the service (like the private plan medical service before it) is still meeting the medical needs of people whose dental needs are, according to the Nutrition Canada survey — the last authoritative one on the issue — being widely neglected.

We don't doubt that the dental profession serves its patients efficiently. We merely wish Dr. Stoyshin thought a bit more about those who feel they can't afford to pay and end up not going.

'Who Needs the Olympics?'

JAMES CAMERON
Manchester Guardian

The controversy about whether or not the free world, as it is called, should boycott the Moscow Olympic Games in order to demonstrate our disapproval of the sickening parody of the dissidents' trials seems to me about the silliest political debate for years. Don't bring sport into politics, they say, as though there were any international confrontation that is not a political involvement. I propose a few more slogans: Keep politics out of Palestine; keep sport out of Wembley; keep sex out of Soho; keep waffling out of Westminster. Just try.

Pitiful

If the East-West philosophical conflict is to be symbolized by the spectacle of apolitical athletes running and jumping around in arenas then we are in a pitiful plight. The misbegotten concept that sporting encounters iron out disputes and heal ideological wounds is so preposterous it hardly needs consideration, when it is manifest to anyone that these encounters are manipulated to magnify national differences and exacerbate tensions.

Otherwise why should Olympic teams parade under national flags, and the whole charade be presented as a patriotic issue? "Ruritania wins the 100 metres." "Outer Mongolia triumphs at the obstacle race."

Hurray for them, but it was neither Ruritania nor Outer Mongolia that had anything to do with it; it was Mr. This or Mr. That, and the reason why the Russians and the Americans will win most things is because they are numerous enough and rich enough to develop a caste of physical specialists, or absolutists, who do nothing but run about and jump. What that proves I do not know.

Let me declare interest: I am in favor of boycotting the Olympics whether they be in Moscow or Peking or Albania or East Cheam or the Orkney Islands or the South Pole, if only because thus we may be spared the terrible take-over of the press and TV by thick thighs and gasping triumphs for which, I am absolutely certain, nobody in his real heart gives a damn.

I suggest the replacement of the luckless SALT talks by the PEPPER: Prevention of Promotion, Publicity and Exploitation of Runners.

The Olympic Festival originated, reasonably enough, in Olympia in the Peloponnesus about 1500 BC, in honor of Zeus and "for competition in literature, art, drama and rhetoric, and the Spartan exercises of endurance and strength with an especial view to war." Somewhere along the line the literature and art dropped out; only the rhetoric remained.

The reconstituted Olympics have brought no Brotherhood of Sport; they have brought recrimination, acrimony and bitterness. In Munich recently they brought death, with the killing of the Israeli competitors. The fact that even their location is in dispute is an argument for forgetting them.

Argentina

What earthly good can be done for Shcharansky, Orlov or Ginzburg either by running races in Moscow or refusing to do so? We played football in the World Cup in Argentina, which is a vicious and oppressive regime, and our TV even gave us cutaways of the awful President Videla, looking as though he wanted to be sick, as indeed did I.

Did our presence in Argentina make a whit of difference to the savagery of its administration? You may be totally sure it did not. (The fact that my home team, Allie's Sallies, were trampled on and humiliated has no bearing on the case; if that is the way Scotsmen react to stimulant drugs God help us when they go on to tranquilizers). If we had nobly refused to play football in their dismal country would the Argentinians have bitten their lips and decided to mend their ways? Like hell they would. Are Shcharansky and Ginzburg hanging on the decision of Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee? We may be sure they have greater worries.

If for some unexplained reason the Olympics have to be held, what wholly non-controversial venue could be found? As Fenner Brockway has just pointed out, "There are at least 80 governments in the world which deny human rights, some of them allies of the West, imprisoning dissidents without trial, often torturing them."

Tortoises?

Where then does one go? The Galopagos Isles, for the first Olympic Giant-Tortoise Race, with a gold for anyone breaking 100 metres in 100 hours?

You will have detected that I am not an athlete nor a student of athletics. It is true that I swam the Channel five times; probably a world record. If pressed I will admit that it was the Channel between Broughty Ferry and the Fife coast of the Firth of Tay, a good two miles, as I recall; not to be belittled, however. Nobody televised that. Possibly because in those days there wasn't any television.

Were I Lord Killanin I would boycott the Moscow Olympics, if only for the sake of peace and quiet. On the other hand, if we want to do the Soviets a bad turn perhaps we should encourage them. Apparently everywhere that has the Games finishes up in the red. Montreal lost $800 million on the 1976 Olympics, and the ratepayers are still reeling. Mr. Tom Bradley, the Mayor of Los Angeles, has formally withdrawn his city's bid for the 1984 Games, and very wisely, too. God forbid that London should put in a bid, as has been widely hinted. If every precedent is followed it can only end in tears.

Hurdles

Unless, of course, the world for the first time in its life takes my advice, and stages a one-off straight contest, anywhere it likes, for a half-mile hurdles between Mr. Brezhnev, Mr. Carter and Uncle Jim. Even I will tune in for that.

KILLANIN . . . let Russians suffer

HABITAT:

A Legacy Of Inertia

By GEOFFREY LEAN
London Observer

Two years after the United Nations Habitat conference in Vancouver decided to set up an agency for tackling the world's urban problems, UN Secretary General Kurt Waldheim has yet to decide who should be its head.

After much haggling the agency has a name (the UN Habitat Centre) and a location (Nairobi), but it does not yet really exist.

By the end of the century, man is expected to be predominantly an urban rather than a rural species. The population of towns and cities will have multiplied about 13 times in a century, while that of the world as a whole will barely have quadrupled.

This massive and rapid change is helping to make the cities the crucibles of many of the world's social and environmental problems. In rich countries the cities have become symbols of a sense of alienation and malaise. They have the most acute poverty, the highest crime rates and the greatest potential for violence. Pollution originates mainly from the cities, and they are the greatest consumers of energy.

In the poor world, where the cities are growing four times as fast as in developed countries, the stresses are even more acute. Vast slums are proliferating, with no schools, social services, sanitation or safe water. Soon they are likely to be the predominant condition of urban life in the Third World.

In the face of the crisis, the Habitat conference decided to set up a small but effective secretariat combining the staff and resources of three existing elements in the UN system: the Centre for Housing, Building and Planning, the Habitat Foundation and the staff working on the problem in the United Nations Environment Program.

The centre was to press national governments to increase their own programs in the field, channel aid to help meet these problems in developing countries and carry out its own projects.

It was also to act as a clearing house for ideas and information.

But the three existing sections that would have been merged into the new centre have been in limbo for two years, and staff are leaving. David Runnals, vice-president of the International Institute for Environment and Development, which was heavily involved in the preparation of Habitat, describes the situation as "castastrophic."

He says: "Before the conference the UN response to the Habitat issues was terrible, but at least there were some people working away at them in the system. Now the situation is worse." He blames "sheer bureaucratic bungling" and lack of interest by governments.

Dr. Waldheim is hoping to appoint an executive director "in the not too distant future," said a spokesman. "If we get a good active person, he can pull the situation back again."

That Summer Stillness . . .

By GARY LAUTENS

Jackie and I are alone in the house for the first time in nearly 19 years, all three children being away on vacation, and it's made a tremendous difference in our lives.

Here are just a few things we've discovered:

You can kiss without anyone saying, "Cut that out."

You can turn on the radio and get the same station you had on when you turned it off, and not a blast of rock 'n' roll.

You can spend an evening at home and never hear the telephone. Ditto the front door bell.

Two bath towels can last an entire day.

You can serve liver and bacon (with onions) and not get a barrage of "Yuk!"

You can serve dinner AFTER 6:30, even as late as 6:35, and the world will not necessarily come to an end.

You can get something on TV besides Laverne and Shirley, Monty Python, and reruns of Adam 12.

A mother can try as hard as she wants but she cannot cook for two people and, if she makes chili, it will last anywhere from nine days to two weeks.

A quart of orange juice can be placed in the refrigerator at 4 o'clock and still be there at 6 o'clock, with no sticky spots on the kitchen floor.

A person can pick up the newspaper and find the comic section, even if the edition has been in the house for over 60 seconds.

Besides holding coats, books, wet bathing suits and bicycle parts, the chesterfield in the front room can be used to sit on.

The family dog can find ways to put in the day without having anyone blow up her nose with a straw or, during a deep sleep, shout "Bow wow!" in her ear.

You can step into a bathroom without somebody bellowing, "How long will you be?"

You can get all your socks back washday.

A person can go 24 straight hours without having to say, "Don't you think you should have put a paper on the floor first?"

It is also possible to spend garbage night doing something other than scraping gum off the bottom of a wicker wastebasket with your fingernails.

You can sleep through an entire night without keeping one ear open to make certain everyone's in, and the front door double-bolted.

You can buy enough ketchup.

You can get yourself a treat at the market (black cherries, for example) and not be forced to hide it at the back of the refrigerator behind the broccoli.

A pair of jeans can fit on a clothes hanger as well as on the bedroom floor.

A dinner can be stretched out past six minutes.

A conversation can be held around the breakfast table without a single mention being made of driving lessons, and the absolute necessity of having same as a birthday present.

You can shop at the supermarket with $100 and not run short.

An adult can go 12 minutes without discussing somebody's complexion problems, and still not suffer any withdrawal pains.

There is such a thing in the world as left-over pie.

You can dress without going to somebody else's closet to retrieve your belongings.

Without too much effort, it is possible to balance on all four feet of a kitchen chair.

Finally, we've discovered our stereo can be turned down.

Be still, my heart!

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market continued to decline in active mid-afternoon trading today despite a preponderance of gaining issues.

Trading halts issued about 11:30 a.m. continued in shares of Simpsons, Ltd. and Simpsons-Sears Ltd. at the companies' requests pending an announcement.

In earlier trading, Simpsons was up ⅛ to $6⅞ a share. Simpsons-Sears Class A shares last traded at $8½ a share.

Controlled Foods International Ltd. rose ¼ to $6½ a share on the sale of 4,300 shares after falling back from a new high of $6¾ a share following a one-hour trading delay at the opening.

The company has declared a special 90-cent tax deferred dividend on common shares payable Sept. 1 to shareholders of record Aug. 25.

Among other industrials, Great Lakes Paper dropped 1¼ to $32¾.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell today, dragged down by fears about the declining dollar.

The market has weathered a good deal of negative news in recent weeks without slumping, but analysts said the depressing dollar news combined with the previous news to push the market down.

Texaco notched its second straight day atop the most-active list, dropping ⅜ to $26. The company said Monday it had made the first find of natural gas in the Baltimore Canyon area off New Jersey, but warned that it was not yet sure of the commercial significance of the discovery.

Also active were LTV, off 1¼ to $12; Boeing, down 1⅜ to $71; and Eastman Kodak, which fell ⅝ to $64⅜.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 413,000 shares traded, compared with 306,700 exchanged up to the same time Monday. Bank of Montreal climbed ⅛ to $23¼, St. Lawrence Cement A ⅜ to $17, Macmillan Bloedel ⅛ to $22⅝, Imperial Oil A ¼ to $21¼, Hudson's Bay Co. ⅜ to $23⅜ and Interprovincial Pipe Line A ⅜ to $17. CP Ltd. tumbled ⅛ to $21¾, Alcan ⅜ to $35⅛ and Seagram ¾ to $28¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices moved moderatley lower near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was down 2.5 to 511.1 an hour before the close. Leading industrials and oils declined, while gold shares dropped with the lower bullion fixing. Canadian stocks eased.

Canadians Earning More

TORONTO (CP) — The Administrative Management Society, a non-profit organization in the United States, says Canadian office workers are earning more than their U.S. counterparts for the third straight year. Figures from the society's annual Office Salaries Directory show the average weekly Canadian salary for 12 clerical jobs is $191, up from $178 in 1977. The comparable U.S. figure is $176, up from $165. The figures do not take into account different currency values.

CATTLE

CALGARY (CP) — Receipts at the Calgary Public Stockyards totalled 940 head, consisting of a normal run of good condition slaughter steers and heifers and a light run of slaughter cows of mixed quality.

Trade was active on a broad demand from local buyers with price advancing 50 cents on heavy steers and $1 on heavy heifers.

D1-2 cows brought prices $1.50 higher from yesterday's close with the youthful heiferette variety commanding prices to $51.50. A few good bolongna bulls priced steady.

Steers A1-2 over 1,000 pounds 62.50-64, A3-4 61.50-62.50 and B and C 56-61. Heifers A1-2 over 850 pounds 57.50-60, under 850 pounds 57-59, cows D1-2 43-45.50, D3 39.50-42.50, D5 38-40. Good bulls 48-51.

There were light runs of short-keep heavy feeder steers which sold steady at 66.60.

Despite Bad News, Wall Street Bulls Charge

NEW YORK — The bulls are running again on Wall Street. But the question troubling some leading analysts is whether their hooves are actually on the ground.

In the face of what would normally be considered some poisonous news for the stock market — high interest rates, record gold prices, double-digit inflation and a floundering dollar — the market has moved on heavy volume to what are its best levels in more than a year.

Some analysts have explained the market's behavior by saying that investors already have discounted all of the bad news and are now anticipating a peaking soon in interest rates and a gentle slowing in the economy that will ease inflation with minimal damage to output and corporate profits.

"The fundamentals are looking a bit better, the negatives have been pushed back into their respective corners and positive psychology is taking force," Smith Barney Harris Upham and Co. comments in its latest market perspective. "Our advice is to enjoy! It's been a long time coming."

Other analysts are not so sure that things have actually improved, and label such a scenario as wishful thinking.

The note, for example, that total federal and private borrowing for the 12 months ending next June 30 is projected to reach an all-time record level of just over $370 billion — hardly the environment to allow interest rates to abate unless the Federal Reserve Board plans to keep the monetary spigot wide open, thereby fueling inflation.

And while there are signs the economy is cooling from its second quarter surge, there is no indication yet of a slowdown that would allow inflation to retreat significantly, let along harbinger an actual recession.

"We're not rip-roaring bulls," says Leon Cooperman, head of the investment policy committee at Goldman Sachs. "While the market looks higher near term, for it to make any significant progress, we would have to see the current business cycle come to an end and see some downturns in interest rates."

Cooperman says that such an outlook is not yet in the cards. "And if the economy turns out to be stronger than expected, and financial pressures turn out to be more intense," the market coud be vulnerable though he believes the downside risk is not very large either.

The best explanation for the market's behavior does not involve the outlook, so much, as the dynamics of recent trading.

The thundering herd that has been driving the market forward is made up mainly of so-called institutional investors — the pension funds, insurance companies, mutual funds and bank trust departments — who can account for up to 80 percent of the daily turnover on the New York Stock Exchange.

The portfolio managers for these multi-billion-dollar institutions have been having a hard time keeping even with the stock market averages in recent years, let along beating them.

Partly as a result of this poor performance record, they have been steadily reducing the amount of assets invested in the stock market. In 1972, for example, 74 percent of these institutional assets were deployed in equities. By last year that number was down to 60 percent, and most recently it had dipped to about 55 percent.

Given the steady increase in overall assets, the amount of dollars that have been held back from the stock market is even more significant, running into the tens of billions.

So when there is the least indication that the market is about to make a move, the performance-conscious institutions, though they may lack conviction, have simultaneously rushed into whatever opening is available so they won't be left on the sidelines, lagging behind the market averages once more.

"The fear of missing the trend is the dominant force in this market," said Robert Walsh, a vice president with A.G. Becker Inc.

"Because of the amount of cash they are sitting on, there is a lot of concern on the part of the institutions to get it back into the market," he added, "and that has created a stampede — no doubt about that."

With all of the negative economic news around, "it's a little hard to make much sense about the day-to-day activity in the market," Walsh said. "If history is any precedent, we are not in an environment that sits very well with the market for a long period of time."

But the Becker analysts acknowledged these short-term trading factors would well send the market higher in the next few months, carrying the Dow as high as the mid-900s.

The longer-term outlook, in his opinion, is less sanguine. "Over-all we think the market is in the process of peaking out' he said. He indicated that his firm is in the process of advising clients to get the equity portion of their portfolios down to 30 percent.

But Jack L. Rivkin, senior vice president and research chief at Paine Webber Mitchell Hutchins cautions that "investors can be too smart and anticipate too much." Rivkin believes the economy is continuing to advance and that any prospect of a recession has been pushed out for at least another year.

"An extended period of real growth could well lead to a sharper slowdown when a recession comes," said Rivkin. "But if an investor pushes out that possibility for another 12 months, he could continue to see the market run away from him. So from our point of view, there's a greater risk right now being out of this market than being in it."

SENIOR STAFF APPOINTMENTS

Deputy Minister of Forests, T.M. Apsey is pleased to announce the appointment of P.J.J. Hemphill as assistant deputy minister (finance and administration), R.W. Robbins as assistant deputy minister (operations), and W. Young as assistant deputy minister (chief forester). These three executive appointments are the first in a series to strengthen senior administration in preparation for the reorganization and decentralization taking place to meet the demands and challenges presented by the province's new forest and range legislation.

Chances are you own Canada Savings Bonds. But do you know all you should about this attractive investment?

Canada Savings Bonds are a safe and popular investment purchased by close to a million Canadians each year. But how well do you know the facts about your existing CSB holdings?

For example, if you bought regular interest CSB's in 1977, you still have the option until August 31, 1978 of exchanging them for compound interest bonds, which allows your money to go on working for you.

There are many other considerations such as accrued versus cash reporting of CSB interest, capital gains or interest income treatment of CSB "Bonus" payments and the use of the $1,000 tax-free allowance on CSB interest income.

Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities has prepared a booklet "FACTS ABOUT CANADA SAVINGS BONDS" which discusses these points among others and includes data on all 13 outstanding CSB issues. Write or call today for your free copy.

Bob Forgets Reds To Plague Pitchers

By ERNIE FEDORUK
Times Staff

Bob Potts has stopped thinking about Cincinnati Reds and is concentrating on the Northwest Baseball League's pitchers.

The shift of attention has transformed the Victoria Mussels' outfielder into one of the hottest batters in the league, providing another reason why the Mussels have turned things around.

John Bush had a productive night at the plate but Potts continued to do his thing — hitting — as the surging Mussels made it eight wins in their last 10 starts by tripping Bend Timber Hawks 6-1 in a rain-abreviated meeting Monday night at Royal Athletic Park.

Bush, the designated hitter, lashed out a two-run single to ignite a five-run Victoria first inning. He then came back with another run-scoring single in the second inning to wrap up scoring in a game called after 5½ innings because of rain and field conditions.

But Potts also was an obvious contributor to help pitcher Matt Reeves claim his second victory.

A 20-year-old native of Seattle, Potts started Victoria's scoring by crashing a towering double that drove Doug Morganti home with the first run. Potts doubled again in the fifth for a two-for-two performance that boosted his batting average to .338, best among the Mussel regulars.

Both of his doubles clanged off the outfield fences. Potts, manager Jim Chapman and most others on hand felt both hits would have been home runs on a clear night.

Potts concedes "things have been going well."

Much better, he agrees, than the start.

It wasn't a great getaway.

"I was determined to show Cincinnati that they made a mistake," said Potts. "I started to press and as a result I just wasn't doing the job."

Cincinnati, he explained, assigned Potts to Eugene Emeralds last season. As a 19-year-old, he hit .315 with 12 home runs.

"I figured that might have earned me a chance to play double A ball," he added. "I was disappointed."

Picked up by Victoria, he was determined to prove Cincinnati was wrong.

The determination backfired. He didn't hit as expected and finally, as the season turned into July, Potts found himself riding the bench.

"Chapman kept me out of the lineup for four or five games. I said to myself 'Hey, you'd better get your act together.' When Chapman put me back into the lineup, I got four hits.

"I've sorta forgotten about Cincinnati now."

The only thing that bothers him now is that Mussels' official program lists him as being 23. He's 20, but the scouts probably know that now.

While the company of Bush and Potts sparked the offense, Reeves took care of things on the defensive side. He held the Timber Hawks, who sport an awesome team batting average of .299, to a mere three singles.

Fred Divito got the first. Jim Bennett and Mike Connolly collected the others in the second inning to account, along with a wild pitch and an error, for Bend's only run.

The same two teams meet again tonight and Wednesday and then Mussels hit the road for a five-game road trip.

Meanwhile, Grays Harbor and Walla continued a torrid battle for the Northern Division lead with a victory apiece.

Walla Walla Padres handed Eugene Emeralds their 13th loss in the last 14 outings, 12-6.

Grays Harbor Loggers stayed a game ahead of Padres on the consistent tight pitching of Dave Jannusch, who scattered eight hits for a 3-1 victory over host Salem Senators.

It was the tenth victory of the season for Jannusch against one loss, making him the league's best percentage pitcher.

In Eugene, Emeralds outhit Walla Walla 11-9 but left 13 men on base. Al Richmond drove in three runs for the Padres with a home run in the third inning.

NEW JUNIOR RECRUIT TO JOIN IRISH TONIGHT

Victoria Shamrocks are back from the Commonwealth Games; coach Nirmal Dillon is pleased with his team's performance in the two-game series against Nanaimo Timbermen; and for tonight's Western Lacrosse Association semi-final playoff game against Vancouver Burrards in Vancouver he has one player change and perhaps a surprise.

The addition is Jeff Whitney-Griffiths of McDonalds junior club. McDonalds were eliminated from the junior playoffs by Burnaby Cablevision on the weekend.

Whitney-Griffiths played one game with the Shamrocks in Vancouver earlier this season and impressed Dillon.

"He really played well," said the Shamrock coach.

Dillon said he wasn't sure who would be dropped to make room for Whitney-Griffiths.

Defenceman Jerry McKenna, who missed the last game here, won by Burrards, will also be in uniform. McKenna has been on vacation but played in the "demonstration series" for the Irish at Edmonton.

Dillon said the Rocks, who trail the series against Vancouver 2-1, played solidly against Nanaimo, particularly in the final two periods of the second game. "We used the trip wisely," said Dillon.

Shamrocks won the opener of the series with Burrards here 20-7, but then dropped the second game at Vancouver 10-8 before losing last week, prior to the Edmonton trip, 12-10, at Memorial Arena.

"We will have to play better," Dillon said simply.

Burrards have eliminated Shamrocks from the playoffs in each of the last three years, last year's final going seven games.

Fifth game of the series will be played here Wednesday night.

Cosmos Get 'Kicked' As Willey Sets Records

By Canadian Press

Alan Willey figured he'd be lucky if he could score just once Monday night against New York Cosmos.

Willey got his wish, and then some, adding four more second-half goals which enabled him to set two North American Soccer League playoff records as Minnesota Kicks romped to a 9-2 upset of the defending league champions in the opening game of their two-game series.

"When I scored the first time I thought, 'Great, I scored a goal against the Cosmos,'" said Willey. "But then they just kept coming, especially at the end when the Cosmos were way behind and couldn't play defence."

Willey's five goals and 10 points established new NASL playoff records, and the nine goals was a team high for the Kicks and broke the league playoff mark set by the Cosmos in 1977.

Elsewhere in playoff action, Tampa Bay Rowdies got a goal from Arsene Auguste in the 60th minute to beat San Diego Sockers in the first game of their two-game series.

"There's not much you can say about a 9-2 game," said Cosmos' coach Eddie Firmani. "It was just one of those bad nights. You could have put a girls' team out there and beat us."

Charley George stunned the Cosmos and the near-capacity crowd of 45,863 when he scored just 52 seconds into the game. He also collided with Cosmos' goalkeeper Erol Yasin on the play, giving Yasin a mild concussion which forced the Cosmos to insert Jack Brand.

At 18:32 the Cosmos' Werner Roth scored on his own goal, giving the Kicks a 2-0 margin, and Willey's first goal at 29:28 sent Minnesota into halftime with a 3-0 cushion.

Giorgio Chinaglia's goal at 48:19 gave the Cosmos a ray of hope, but Minnesota's Ace Ntsoelengoe booted in a short shot five minutes later with what both sides called the most crucial goal of the game.

"At 3-1 we were still in the game if we could have kept our defence," said Firmani. "We didn't have to give up playing defence at that point, but we did."

Willey, the fourth-leading scorer in the National Conference with 21 goals and 45 points—both Kicks records—went on a four-goal, second-half rampage which was only interrupted by Gary Etherington at 83:30.

The 21-year old Willey drilled his second of the night at 63:28, put in a header at 69:05 to make it 6-1 and then hit from 25 feet out at 77:27 before Etherington's goal.

Willey added another at 84:44 and Chico Hamilton finished the scoring with only 51 seconds remaining.

The series resumes Wednesday night in East Rutherford, N.J.

At San Diego, Auguste scored at 60:31 on a free kick about 10 yards outside the Sockers' penalty area. The shot hit the Sockers' Heinz Stickel and deflected past goalkeeper Alan Mayerand into the corner ofthe net.

"They got a lucky goal and we couldn't come back," said San Diego coach Hubert Vogelsinger. "We certainly had the shots to win it, and had enough chances to make it a 5-0 game. But that is what the playoffs are all about.

"We really created chances throughout the game, but on some of them we waited a split second too long," Vogelsinger added. "I really thought we had the edge over their defence. But we'll have to come back tougher (Thursday night) in Tampa."

WHITECAP PILOT COACH OF YEAR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Tony Waiters of the Vancouver Whitecaps, named Monday as coach of the year in the North American Soccer League, immediately classed the award as "an honor for the whole club."

Waiters will be presented with the award at the NASL banquet in New York prior to Soccer Bowl 1978 Aug. 27.

Waiters, a former head coach of England's Plymouth Argyle and former coach at Liverpool, Coventry and Tranmere, took over the helm of the Whitecaps following the resignation of Eckhard Krautzun, midway through the 1977 season.

He immediately change Caps from a defence-minded team to one which stressed attack through fluid moves, with the whole team moving as a unit.

Vancouver finished second in its division last year. This season, after several months of non-stop recruiting in Britain, Waiters and assistant coach Alan Hinton led the Whitecaps to their first division title.

The team finished the regular season with a 24-6 record, tied with New York Cosmos for best in the league, although New York had more bonus points.

"When you look at the record and awards we have achieved this season—Phil Parkes finishing at top goalkeeper, Alan Hinton smashing the league record for assists, Bob Lenarduzzi becoming the top North American on the scoring list, the team setting a league record of 14 consecutive wins, and now this one—all of them reflect totally on the team and on the club, not on individuals, Waiters said Monday.

The Whitecaps face Portland Timbers here Wednesday in the second leg of their home-and-home series in the second round of the NASL playoffs.

Timbers won the first game 1-0 on a Clyde Best goal Saturday in Portland which means the Whitecaps must win Wednesday night's regulation game to force a 30-minute, sudden-death mini-game for the series. If the mini-game is required, it will follow the regular game after a 10-minute intermission. First goal in that mini-game would decide the series, but if no goals are scored, the series would be decided on the NASL shootout system.

Yankees-Orioles Series Benefited Neither Team

By Canadian Press

New York Yankees and Baltimore Orioles, delayed by four power failures in a weird weekend series, are in danger of having their own lights put out by Boston Red Sox.

After splitting the four-game set, the second-place Yankees find themselves eight games behind the Red Sox and fifth-place Baltimore is 11 games off the pace in the East Division of baseball's American League.

"The only one who gained ground during the series was the concessionaire," said Baltimore pitcher Don Stanhouse.

The first and third games of the series were cut short by rainstorms, involving delays of three hours and three minutes. The power failures of Saturday and Monday nights made the fans wait another hour and 39 minutes.

When the teams finally started Monday, Yankees went on to clip the Orioles, 4-1.

Elsewhere, Milwaukee Brewers edged the Red Sox 4-3, Texas Rangers downed Chicago White Sox 4-3, Detroit Tigers blasted Kansas City Royals 11-2 and Cleveland Indians shaded Minnesota Twins, 4-3.

In the National League, Dave Parker — once again healthy — drove in three runs and Omar Moreno scored three to lead Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-4 victory over the slumping Cincinnati Reds.

"I'm just swinging the bat real well right now," said Parker, whose average has climbed to .303 after dipping below the .290 mark only three weeks ago.

Parker is not only swinging better but he's finally getting over the effects of a collision with New York Mets catcher John Stearns that fractured his cheekbone and later forced him to wear a modified hockey goaltender's mask on the field.

His two-run, opposite-field homer in the second inning gave Pittsburgh a 5-0 lead off Paul Moskau, 3-3. It was the 21st homer this season for Parker, matching his total for all of last season. He added a run-scoring single in the fourth.

In other games, Chicago Cubs blasted Atlanta Braves 13-7 and Houston Astros blanked St. Louis Cardinals, 6-0.

"This is definitely the worst series I've ever been involved in," said Baltimore shortstop Mark Belanger. "In the minors we only had six lights on a pole, but at least they stayed on."

The Yankees won 4-1 Monday night, with the help of a two-run, ninth-inning homer by Graig Nettles, but not before two light towers in back of home plate malfunctioned just as they did three times on Saturday.

They went out this time as reliever Rich Gossage of the Yankees was about to deliver a 3-2 pitch to Eddie Murray in the eighth inning.

"Murray might have set a record for the backward broad jump when the lights went out," said Nettles, who claimed the repeated delays and four ejections by the umpires didn't faze the Yankees.

"We're used to weird things in our carnival-type atmosphere," Nettles said of the sometimes-turbulent Yankees. "It's part of the circus. We're used to distractions, they follow all year."

PLYMOUTH MEETING, Pa. (AP) — Scotland's Belle Robertson took medal honors with a round of 72 Monday in the qualifying round for the U.S. women's amateur championship.

Robertson prevailed by two strokes in leading qualifiers.

Her round was highlighted by a four-iron shot into the cup at 14 from 165 yards for an eagle.

Defending-champion Beth Daniel of Charleston, S.C., and Canadian champion Cathy Sherk of Fonthill, Ont., both qualified at 77.

Bellies Gain Final

SURREY, B.C. (CP) — New Westminster earned a berth in the Western Canada Junior Lacrosse League final against Burnaby Cablevision after edging Richmond Roadrunners 11-10 Monday night.

New Westminster took the best-of-seven, semi-final series 4-1.

Burnaby advanced to the final Saturday after sweeping their best-of-seven series with Victoria McDonalds four-straight.

Steve Manning and Brian Cowie scored two goals each to power the Salmonbellies to Monday's win over Richmond.

Hudon Making Charge For Sandown Honors

Joe Hudon appears to be making a late charge for the driving title in the inaugural harness-racing meet at Sandown Park.

While Hudon is having his best streak of the 42-day-old meet, current leader Keith Linton appear to be in a slump.

In the last six days, Hudon has recorded 11 victories to Linton's three.

Unofficial records show Hudon has moved into second place with 42 winners in 179 trips while Linton has 51 in 190.

Only 15 days remain for Hudon to close the gap.

Hudon gained on Monday, with victories in the sixth and eight races while Linton managed one win in the third.

Dave Jungquist, the early leader, failed to get a win Monday and is now third with 38 wins and Jim Mohorich is fourth with 29.

Only 867 fans showed up Monday to wager $56,978, nearly $12,000 below the meet average.

HOUSTON (AP) — Philadelphia Eagles' quarterbacks Ron Jaworski and John Walton riddled Houston Oilers' porous secondary for three touchdowns and a 28-10 National Football League preseason victory Monday night.

Jaworski completed eight of nine passes for 123 yards in the first half, including an eight-yard TD pass to Keith Krepfle. Wilbert Montgomery ran six yards for another score to give the Eagles a 14-10 halftime lead.

Walton took over quarterbacking duties for Philadelphia in the second half and threw touchdown passes of eight yards to Ken Payne and 41 yards to Oren Middlebrook.

Lions Seeking Consistency

By Canadian Press

Saskatchewan Roughriders and their former coach are both looking for their first Canadian Football League win of the season tonight—but in two different games.

The Roughriders, now 0-4 for the season, play British Columbia Lions in Vancouver while Hamilton Tiger-Cats' coach John Payne, formerly with Saskatchewan, makes his 1978 league debut as his team visits Ottawa Rough Riders.

The Ottawa game is the first of a home-and-home series for the two eastern conference clubs while B.C. and Saskatchewan are finishing a similar series, the Lions winning their last contest 43-14.

"We'll be looking for consistency to prove we can play more than one good game in a row," said Vic Rapp, B.C. coach.

"We haven't had it yet this season. We've been up and down. I think the jury is still out—until we can put something together"

Lions, 2-1-2 in the West, could move into first place with a win tonight.

The Roughriders did accumulate 383 yards last week but it was mostly because quarterback Ron Lancaster had to throw a lot to play catch-up football.

Former Lion Mike Strickland has given Saskatchewan a running game, and now leads the western conference with 360 yards in 16 carries, 15 yards ahead of Lions rookie Larry Key.

The Lions have activated fullback Harry Holt, the Arizona speedster who will be replacing Calvin Culliver, out for the season with torn knee ligaments.

"Harry's blocking is questionable," said Rapp. "He played more as a wide receiver at college although he did play some in the backfield. He'll be a little nervous at first but he will settle down.

Holt gained notoriety by getting out of a five-year stint with the United States Navy because he is a sleepwalker.

Injuries have plagued Lions this season. Two weeks ago Key suffered a hamstring pull from which he has recovered, but Culver is out for the season with a knee injury.

Saskatchewan head coach Jim Eddy said Monday it was too early to reveal any lineup changes but there will be "some different situations" because of the team's performance last week.

Eddy said the Riders realize they must defend against the long touchdown pass and eliminate many of their own errors.

In the other game, Payne leads the Tiger-Cats into Ottawa after being hired by Hamilton owner Harold Ballard to replace Tom Dimitroff, who was axed following the team's 27-9 loss Wednesday to Winnipeg Blue Bombers in Hamilton.

Dimitroff had a 2-2 CFL pre-season record and the Tiger Cats are currently in the eastern conference basement with a 1-3-1 regular season record.

"We have formulated a game plan with the quarterbacks (Jimmy Jones and Tom Shuman) and Lauri (offensive line coach Niskanen)," Payne said. "We haven't made any changes, but there are some adjustments.

"I haven't been able to do an extensive evaluation of the personnel yet, but I also don't want to dwell on the past," he said. "There are some things we have to strive for. We have to get some constituency and we have to eliminate mistakes."

Saanich Club Splits First Two Contests

Saanich Menzies Plumbing enjoyed a victory and suffered a loss Monday in its first two games in the "A" division of the Canadian peewee lacrosse championship tournament.

Plumbers opened with a 12-9 decision over Windsor Wizards but suffered a narrow 8-6 loss to Burnaby Malkin and Pinton in the feature game before about 200 fans at Memorial Arena.

The tournament continues through the week with play getting underway at 9 a.m. each day. All "A" division games are at Memorial Arena, "B" division squads will square off at Esquimalt Sports Centre and "C" division play is at Pearkes Arena.

In the feature game, Brent Menzies scored for Saanich at 13:56 of the third period to knot the score 6-6 but clubmates were hit with two penalties on the next play.

Robbie Dick scored what proved to be the winning goal for Burnaby on the powerplay and Gregor Young fired the insurance tally just after Saanich returned to full strength.

Shawn Kuhlman, who hit a post with a shot in the dying minutes, scored once for Saanich. Other single markers were notched by Alex Walton, Jamie Rigby, Nicky Beggs and Danny Krystalowich.

George Milne played a solid game in the Victoria goal with 29 saves, including 13 in the second period.

In the win over Windsor, Walton, Clay Crust, Jason Brown and Steven Sajn set the pace with two goals each and singles were added by Danny Philips, Shawn Kohlman, Philip Flynn, and Gary Schubak.

Richmond Baykey's Barn Builders emerged as the lone double winner in the "A" division with a 13-5 victory over Rexdale, Ont., and a 13-3 win over Wizards.

A total of 33 teams are playing in the three divisions of the tourney.

England Crushes Kiwi Side

NOTTINGHAM, England (Reuter) — England crushed New Zealand by an innings and 119 runs in the second cricket test Monday to take a winning 2-0 lead in the three-match series.

The New Zealanders, who trailed by 309 runs on first innings, folded sadly in their second innings after reaching 127 for 2 and were all out for 190 shortly before the close of the fourth day.

Somerset all-rounder Ian Botham was England's man of the match, taking three wickets for 59 runs in New Zealand's second innings to add to first-innings figures of six for 34. During the match he passed 50 wickets for England in only his 10th test.

The New Zealanders looked set to put up a brave fight as 21-year-old opener Bruce Edgar batted stubbornly for 60 in four hours. But after rain briefly interrupted play in mid-afternoon, their batting fell apart and the last eight wickets went down for just 63 runs.

DISCUS STAR SNAPS MARK

DRESDEN, East Germany (AFP) — Evelyn Jahl of East Germany has set a new world record for the women's discus with a throw of 70.72 metres (232 feet, one-half inch), beating the former mark by 22 centimetres.

Jahl, 22, the reigning Olympic discus champion, established the record with her first throw in a national club championship tournament.

VICTORIA TIRE

ELIMINATE WINTER TIRE CHANGEOVER

Goodyear Tiempo: The All Season Steel Belted Radial.

Now you can buy an all season radial tire that gives you the smooth quiet ride of a summer radial and handles winter like a snow tire. Over 10,000 biting edges give Tiempo traction and pull on snow and ice... without studs! How?
The tread rubber retains flexibility and traction at below freezing temperatures.
Tiempo meets Rubber Manufacturers Association standards as a snow tire yet on dry pavement the unique centre "whisper" rib design suppresses noise for a quiet ride.
Just think, you may never have to go to the expense or trouble of changing over to winter tires again.

COMMUNICATIONS . . . RATHER THAN POLICEMEN

Military Played a Key Roll

EDMONTON (CP) — It's a long way from peace-keeping in the Middle East or Cyprus to the Commonwealth Games, but the expertise the Canadian Forces have developed over the years in logistics and communications helped make the XI Games one of the smoothest-run operations in its history.

The military contribution by nearly 1,000 men and women from across Canada saved organizers millions of dollars in services. Without their help and the equally long days put in by many of the nearly 8,000 volunteers, the 10-day Games could not have succeeded.

Unlike the heavy security at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, the military kept a low profile in their jobs of communications and transportation.

As media movers, military drivers were available from the 700-strong transportation force at almost any hour to handle the nearly 4,000 aacredited media personnel.

But the most important role for the Canadian Forces at the Games was one of liaison with civilians in communications, helping with the results service that was superior to the Montreal Olympics after the bugs were quickly ironed out on the first day.

"The public is getting used to the Canadian forces doing this kind of thing," said Maj. J. Wayne Blatchford of Victoria, communications officer from defence headquarters, Ottawa, who was in charge of a 23-man force.

"For example, if we held another international competition and we said no, I don't think it would be politically acceptable."

One of the things the Canadian Forces hoped would be noticed was that at the Commonwealth Games they played a communications role and not one of being policemen.

"At the Olympics you saw a lot of people in combat readiness with weapons. Several timeq, when wearing a uniform around here I've been asked, 'Oh, you must be in security.' But it's communications. They hardly understood there was any contribution in that area. So the Canadian Forces do much more than security."

Blatchford said in an interview.

At each sports site, a military man acted as assistant venue communications manager maintaining close liaison with the media.

The computer equipment and the copiers provided a broad range of information that even surpassed the Montreal Olympics although about 2,000 athletes were involved compared with 6,000 in the Olympics two years ago.

The treasury board contributed about $2 million to national defence headquarters for the Games, but the actual worth of the military contribution could be higher.

"There's some cute little accounting going on," Blatchford said. "The department of defence is trying to keep tabs on how much this is really costing the Canadian forces."

CASA Fights Talent Drain

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto Star has charged the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association is launching an "all-out drive" to keep Canadian swimmers from attending United States colleges on athletic scholarships.

The Star said officials in Edmonton said that after the 15-gold-medal performance at the Commonwealth Games the time is right to get tough with the U.S. system that has traditionally lured top swimmers away.

G. L. Filippelli, newly-elected president of the association, said the association is prepared to invoke sanctions against coaches, clubs and athletes who do not support its program, the newspaper said.

The Star said among the measures proposed by the association are:

—Canadian swimmers going to school in the U.S. will no longer be able to qualify for places on Canadian national teams by submitting times achieved in meets south of the border, but must qualify by competing in Canadian events.

—Coaches considered "unsupportive" of the Canadian program—those, for instance, who advise swimmers to head south, will never be named to coach national or international teams.

—Swim clubs whose coaches or officials actively promote the U.S. system may be cut off from association money or funds they receive from the federal government.

The Star said that in addition, Filippelli and Larry Tapp, president of the Aquatic Federation of Canada, will pressure Canadian universities this fall "to get serious about their swimming programs."

Only a few Canadian universities have full-time swim coaches and programs as competitive as those in U.S. schools.

Sore Toe, Not Elbow Smith's Main Problem

TORONTO (CP) — When Stan Smith last appeared in the Canadian open tennis tournament, nobody disputed his top ranking in the world.

He was the top seed in that 1973 tournament, and a year earlier had beaten Ilie Nastase of Romania in the Wimbledon final before leading the United States team to victory over Romania in the Davis Cup final.

He returned to the 1978 version of this $210,000 event as its 11th seed, having experienced a five-year period of mediocrity because of tendinitis in his arm—more commonly referred to as tennis elbow.

The tournament's top seed this year is Eddie Dibbs of the U.S., who upset Smith in the first round of the 1973 tournament and marked the beginning of a long struggle for the 31-year-old Smith.

On Monday night, the Sea Pines, S.C., native improved his showing of five years earlier by defeating Paolo Bertolucci of Italy 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 to advance to the second round of the tournament.

This time around, his biggest concern was his toe.

"I dropped my briefcase on it last week and had to stay off it for four days," Smith said.

His performance Monday night gave little indication of that layoff as the American blasted hard first serves at the unprepared Italian on the clay surface at York University tennis centre.

Rejean Genois of Quebec City was the only Canadian to win a match on Monday, beating Robin Drysdale of Britain, 6-4, 6-0. But Genois has drawn the top-ranked Dibbs, who received a first-round bye, in a second-round match today.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico, the tournament's fourth seed, defeated Canadian national champion Harry Fritz of Toronto, 6-3, 6-3, in another first-round men's match.

Marjorie Blackwood of Ottawa and Lise Senn of Toronto both dropped first-round women's singles matches. Blackwood, who won the Canadian national title on Sunday and complained of the scheduling of her early match Monday, lost 4-6, 6-1, 6-3 to Michele Tyler of Britain while Senn, who lost to Blackwood at Ottawa, was defeated 6-4, 6-1 by Kate Latham of the U.S.

Rob Bettauer of Vancouver will take on Chris Lewis of New Zealand in a first-round men's match, while Greg Halder of Toronto, who drew a first-round bye, takes on second-seeded Brian Gottfried of the U.S.

In women's play, top-seeded Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia beat Lele Forood of the U.S., 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, and Viviana Gonzalez upset eighth-seeded Jeanne Evert, Chris's sister, 6-4, 6-0.

HOLDS DENTURES FIRM WITHOUT DAILY "FIXINGS"

Snug Cushions hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks

No more "fixings" every morning with messy powders or creams. Even if dentures need "fixing" after every meal, here's important news. Snug cushions restore dentures' holding power so dentures stay comfortably tight for weeks. Snug, the soft, effective temporary aid, forms a "comfort bond" between dentures and gums. Sticks to dentures, not to gums. Rinse, scrub or soak Snug fresh and clean. Easy to remove, but won't wash off or flake away. So, end daily "fixings"! Use Snug to hold dentures comfortably tight for weeks.

Theatre Funds Voted By Oak Bay

Victoria city council may be asked to reconsider its opposition to providing additional funding for the renovation of the Royal Theatre, after Oak Bay council joined Saanich Monday night in approving its share of the extra $190,000 requested.

The theatre's three owner municipalities had originally approved a $400,000 upgrading budget, but city council balked last week at the additional request from the Royal Theatre management committee.

Mayor Mike Young cast the deciding vote in Victoria's 4—3 negative decision. Saanich had earlier given its approval, although Mayor Mel Couvelier urged his council not to sanction such a "premature" move.

Both Young and Couvelier apparently believe it is shortsighted to allocate nearly $600,000 to Royal Theatre improvements, because they believe there are good prospects that senior government funding will be available for a new arts and convention centre.

But Ald. John Goult, Oak Bay's representative on the Royal Theatre committee, said Monday night that no such structure could be planned and built in the next five years, and the present building needs urgent attention.

When the committee meets Wednesday, Goult said, it will probably ask Victoria to reconsider its no-vote.

Greenpeace Confronts Soviets

The Greenpeace Foundation's anti-whaling expedition encountered the Soviet Union's whaling fleet 800 miles north of Hawaii on Monday.

The Greenpeacers, working from their vessel MV Peacock, were carrying out routine testing of their inflatable craft for seaworthiness and long-range communications when they saw several dead whales and three Russian harpoon ships.

"We were all surprised," expedition co-ordinator Dr. Patrick Moore said. "We were on an intercept course heading toward the fleet and there they were."

Immediately upon seeing the whalers the Greepeacers carried out a 3½-hour confrontation with the Russians that was successful in saving at least three whales, they claim.

The Greenpeace Foundation has been conducting ocean-going protests against whaling since 1975.

Hide Shortage Boosting Shoes

By ESTELLE DORAIS

MONTREAL (CP) — The price of children's footwear will go up by at least $2 a pair and that of adult footwear by $3 a pair at the end of this year because of a shortage of hides, the chairman of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association of Canada said Monday.

Don MacLeod told a news conference manufacturers requiring hides bid for them on a world market so that currency fluctuations have meant that Japan is able to buy hides for 60 per cent less while the U.S.$and Canada buy at between 60 per cent and 80 per cent more.

"There's a lot of bidding going on now in the hide market, especially by Far Eastern countries," he said.

Peter Dunham, president of the Canadian Tanners Association, said the price of hides has risen to 61 cents a pound from 42 cents a pound in the last year and from 14 cents a pound three years ago. Canadian manufacturers pay an extra 13 per cent because hides are sold in U.S. funds.

"We have never seen hide prices at the level at which they exist today except for one incident in 1919," Dunham said.

MacLeod was emphatic in attributing the footwear price increase to the hide market and said it had nothing to do with the application of import quotas in December, 1977.

He said the quotas, together with the devaluation of the Canadian dollar and temporary retail sales tax cuts, have resulted in a "buoyancy" in the footwear industry.

"This buoyancy is to a great extent reflected in an increase in employment in the industry," he added.

About 14,000 people worked in the footwear industry in 1977, compared with 19,000 in 1974, about half and half in Ontario and Quebec, said Jean-Guy Maheu, president of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association.

Maheu said the import quotas will create 3,000 jobs directly, of which 1,500 were created by the end of June, and another 1,500 jobs indirectly in the tanning industry and suppliers.

MacLeod said the industry felt the first "real impact" of the import quotas in March in terms of the number of orders booked, orders which are being delivered now.

While imports have decreased because of the quotas, exports have not gone up, he said, adding as capacity increases to 80 per cent from 60 per cent in the plants, exports will go up.

Five new factories have opened since the quotas were imposed—three in Quebec, one in Ontario and one in Manitoba, and Canadians bought two U.S. firms—Savage Shoes Ltd. and Denny Stewart Ltd.

Highway Link 'Dead Issue'

Highways Minister Alex Fraser has heeded the concerns of Saanich council and killed a proposal by ministry officials for a major east-west artery across the municipality.

The announcement came Monday little more than a week after Saanich Mayor Mel Couvelier had met with Fraser and Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis (the Saanich MLA) to explain Saanich opposition to the highway link.

Curtis announced provincial approval of Saanich's rezoning bylaw for the North Quadra area, which had been stalled several months because the highways ministry said the municipality had failed to protect the right-of-way for the proposed route linking Roy Road, Vanalman and north Quadra at Beckwith via an overpass spanning the Patricia Bay Highway.

"This (the bylaw's approval) means the east-west link is a dead issue," Curtis added.

While Couvelier welcomed the decision today, he said Curtis' statement does not make it crystal clear that the proposed overpass at Vanalman has been scrapped.

If it has been ruled out, he said, then the entire proposal appears to have been shelved. But if not, the future of the route section on the west side of the Pat Bay Highway is still in doubt.

Saanich officials are attempting to clarify the position and a full report will be presented to council's lands, planning and housing committee next week.

Killed by Pirates

ZAMBOANGA CITY (AP) — Pirates killed five passengers aboard the 70-ton motor launch Vinirose in the southern Philippines, wounded seven others and escaped with more than $22,000 worth of cash and valuables, the coast guard reported.

LeBlanc Skips Out On Trollers

There will be no confrontation today between federal Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc and West Coast trollers who have been banned from fishing sockeye from the Adams River run.

LeBlanc, who had been fishing in northern Vancouver Island waters during the weekend on the federal fisheries vessel Tanu, left Monday for Newfoundland.

"I am not sure he was aware that the trollers wanted to meet with him," J. R. MacLeod, director of federal fisheries, said Monday.

"He had a prior commitment to speak in Newfoundland I hardly think it possible for him to get back for the meeting in Ucluelet."

LeBlanc's parliamentary assistant Hugh Anderson, the MP for Comox-Alberni who also was invited to today's meeting, was not available Monday.

Trollers, who had held protest meetings at Ucluelet and Winter Harbor on Vancouver Island during the weekend, had threatened to defy the ban if LeBlanc did not meet with them, however, the situation appears to have calmed considerably since then.

Only a handful of the trollers out of Winter Harbor defied the department's ban by fishing for sockeye on Sunday and none were fishing Monday.

Most of the 500 trollers now fishing off the west coast of Vancouver Island are members of the Pacific Trollers Association which has supported the ban against sockeye.

"Our meetings were organized by individual fishermen who are concerned about their livelihood," said Alan Meadows, one of the organizers and a former vice-president of the association.

"The association views the ban as a management tool and agrees that fisheries needs to make an accurate count of the run," he said. "There are a number of things involved in this, especially the way the ban was imposed without any warning.

"If we can't fish sockeye on a lean year, what can we fish? How do we fill out a season?

"We are prepared to go along with conservation but we want the government to get on with its salmon enhancement program," he said.

Trollers lost their rights to fish in United States waters earlier this year, lost a rich fishery from the temporary closure of the Swiftsure Bank and now are faced with poor runs of spring and coho salmon.

From Barkley Sound to Johnstone Strait, the rich Adams River run of sockeye is stalled on their homeward migration by a tongue of warm water, Meadows said.

Plea Date Set in DREE Fraud

A Saanich couple and a Vancouver businessman charged with defrauding the federal department of economic expansion of almost $28,000 will appear in provincial court in Victoria Sept. 5 for plea.

Alexander and Marie Sievewright of 4124 Cabot Place, and Harry Lloyd Clarkson of Vancouver were charged early this month following a year-long investigation by members of the RCMP commercial crime sections in Vancouver and Victoria.

The RCMP allege Sievewright, a projects officer for DREE in Victoria, and his wife accepted secret commissions totalling $27,900 from Clarkson's company Sunshine Charters between May 1, 1975 and Oct. 31, 1977.

In addition, Mrs. Sievewright is charged separately with possession of $3,000 cash obtained by fraud.

CENTRES OFFERED UNIVERSITY COURSES

The University of Victoria will offer more than 50 credit courses in B.C. communities this fall.

On Vancouver Island, a course on three-dimensional arts and crafts will be held in Duncan; English, geography, political science, theatre, education, history, sociology and psychology in Nanaimo; Parksville, linguistics; Campbell River, history and creative writing; Courtenay, anthropology and educational media; Port Hardy, a program of courses ranging from library education to psychology.

Seven courses in education and two in theatre will be offered in Nelson; Kamloops, music; Kelowna, reading and language; Quesnel and Prince George, choral and classroom singing.

Funding was provided by the Universities Council of B.C. and the ministry of education.

Curtis Against Role For Region

A proposal to expand the role of the Capital Region District by taking over water distribution, library services and grant functions has been unofficially squelched by the man whose sanction would be needed for such a change.

Municipal Affairs Minister Hugh Curtis said Saturday he would not support the proposal raised by Saanich Ald. John Mika and endorsed by the regional board last week for referral to its executive committee.

"Under no circumstances would I consider additional functions of that magnitude for the foreseeable future at least," said Curtis.

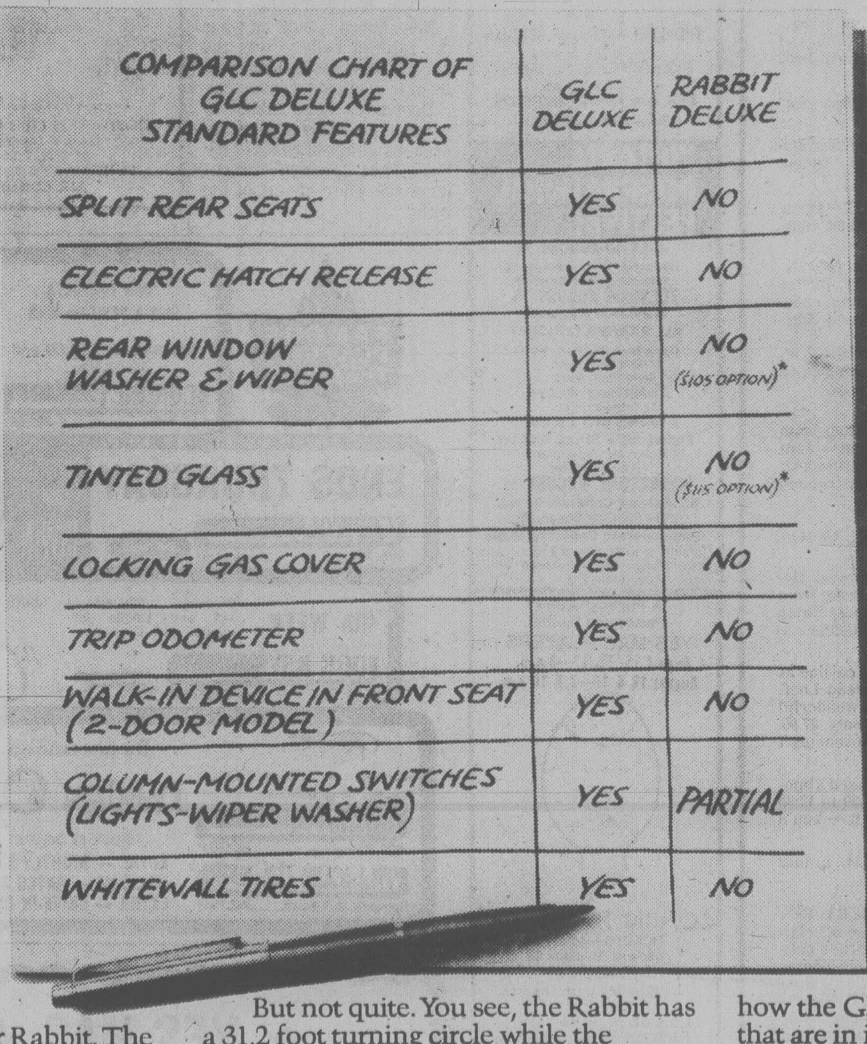
To broaden its range of statutory functions the board would need provincial cabinet approval for an amendment to its letters patent.

Any application for such an amendment would have to be forwarded to the cabinet via Curtis, who said his recommendation would be "against it at this time, if not for a longer period of time."

Second Casino

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Two Las Vegas businessmen have announced plans to construct a 1,000-room hotel and casino on the Atlantic City boardwalk near Convention Hall. The Royale Atlantic Hotel is expected to cost between $101 million and $105 million, Robert Maheu, former Nevada operations chief for the late billionaire Howard Hughes, and Grady Sanders said at a news conference in Las Vegas.

A MAZDA GLC COMES WITH STANDARD FEATURES A VW RABBIT DOESN'T HAVE. AND GOES FOR ABOUT $1,200* LESS.



COMPARISON CHART OF GLC DELUXE STANDARD FEATURES	GLC DELUXE	RABBIT DELUXE
SPLIT REAR SEATS	YES	NO
ELECTRIC HATCH RELEASE	YES	NO
REAR WINDOW WASHER & WIPER	YES	NO ($105 OPTION)*
TINTED GLASS	YES	NO ($115 OPTION)*
LOCKING GAS COVER	YES	NO
TRIP ODOMETER	YES	NO
WALK-IN DEVICE IN FRONT SEAT (2-DOOR MODEL)	YES	NO
COLUMN-MOUNTED SWITCHES (LIGHTS-WIPER WASHER)	YES	PARTIAL
WHITEWALL TIRES	YES	NO

The VW Rabbit is one of the better small economy cars you can buy today. It's also one of the most expensive.

If, you've got the extra money to throw around, then there's no problem. But, if paying from $5,545* for an economical car isn't your idea of being economical, then maybe, you should consider an alternative.

The Mazda GLC Deluxe.

And, the biggest reason to consider the GLC is because in a lot of ways, it's just as good a car as the Rabbit, but costs a lot less. Some $1,200 less.

To give you a better idea of how good the GLC Deluxe is, let's compare it to the Rabbit.

And not just the regular Rabbit. The Rabbit Deluxe.

To start, take a look at the Comparison Chart. The Rabbit is widely known as one of the better equipped small cars.

Yet the GLC rivals it here. These days, a great economy car should give you great gas economy. And the Rabbit does well. It gives mileages of 72 km/gal on the highway and 47 km/gal in the city. It's almost as good as the GLC which gives you mileages of 78 km/gal on the highway and 63 km/gal in the city.

In the area of handling, the Rabbit has very nimble steering. In fact, it almost matches the GLC.

But not quite. You see, the Rabbit has a 31.2 foot turning circle while the GLC's turning circle is only 29.2 feet.

What does that mean? It means, it's easier to maneuver the GLC in heavy traffic, and in and out of tight parking spots.

Today, the ideal small car can't be too small inside. There's got to be some breathing room for the passengers. And both the GLC and the Rabbit give you roomy interiors. (The GLC wins on some interior dimensions and the Rabbit wins on others.) Too bad a lot of other small cars can't be so generous with room.

Also, both the GLC and the Rabbit give you plenty of cargo space. Except, the GLC gives you an added advantage the Rabbit doesn't have. Split rear seats. With them, you can fold the complete seat down flat for cargo space. Or fold either half. And leave an extra seat in the back for a third person. Both cars give you excellent visibility. Both cars give you fully reclining bucket seats. Both cars give you power assisted front disc brakes. And both cars have been thoughtfully built and thoroughly inspected. (A GLC goes through 2,500 specific checks on final assembly alone.)

In fact, as we said earlier, in a lot of ways the GLC is as good a car as the Rabbit. Which raises an important point.

If the GLC comes so close to the Rabbit which is completely out of its price class, imagine how the GLC stacks up against the cars that are in its price class. Need we say more?

MAZDA GLC

We thought of it.

*Price comparisons are based on manufacturers' suggested list prices (2-door GLC Deluxe and 2-door VW Rabbit Deluxe) available at time of publication.
Based on Transport Canada approved test methods for 4-speed manual transmissions for GLC and Rabbit. The actual mileage you get will depend on your car's condition and equipment, your driving habits and road conditions.

The total price of a Mazda 2-door GLC deluxe including freight and dealer preparation cost is $4,508. Individual dealers may sell for less. The total price of a VW Rabbit 2-door deluxe is about $1200 more.

The Voice of an Angel Making It

HOLLYWOOD — Cheryl Ladd came here in 1971 to sing. Two flop records later, she tried acting. Last season, she got her big break in Charlie's Angels after Farrah Fawcett-Majors left it.

Last week, Billboard magazine's Top 100 pop music chart said one tune, Think It Over, was 48th in ranking and headed for greater popularity. The singer: Cheryl Ladd.

At 27, the pretty, blonde-haired Huron, S.D., native finally is succeeding in her original goal. She began singing while a tyke, then, after high school, toured in a band before coming here.

Miss Ladd, lunching on fish in her trailer behind the 20th Century-Fox sound stage where her series is made, said the record companies "weren't breaking down by door."

"When I first came to LA, the music was all hard acid-rock groups or Joan Baez-Joni Mitchell."

She said she is of neither musical persuasion. Her bag simply is pop, which in the case of her debut album for Capitol Records, Cheryl Ladd, is of a melodic, gently rocking nature.

Those who don't know she began as a singer usually dismiss her as just another pretty TV star out posing as a vocalist, she says.

However, Capitol executives knew her work, she said, from the early Hollywood days when she cut a single record for them (the other single that flopped was for another label).

The Charlie's Angels exposure didn't hurt, either.

"If I were just coming to them off the streets, it would be a much different situation," she said. Not only would the interest be less, so would be her freedom in choosing material.

Holy Relic Stolen By Wino?

NEW YORK — Police believe a "wino" may have stolen a relic of St. Elizabeth Seton — the first native American ever canonized — from a lower Manhattan church.

Police said Monday the relic — a bone in a silver-plated V-shaped reliquary — was taken over the weekend from Our Lady of the Rosary Church and replaced with a half-pint bottle of wine.

The church is built on what the faithful believe was the site of the home St. Elizabeth lived in when she converted.

Detectives have talked to winos in the lower Manhattan area, handing out cards in the hope that someone might know the whereabouts of the relic.

Under Fire

SAN FRANCISCO — Lawyers for Patty Hearst, attempting to discredit F. Lee Bailey's job of defending her, charged Monday that Bailey is to be paid $225,000 to write a book about her trial.

In papers filed in U.S. district court here, Miss Hearst's new lawyer George Martinez said his client's seven-year prison sentence for bank robbery should be set aside or reduced because of "an impermissible conflict of interest between trial counsel and the defendant."

The documents ask Judge William Orrick for permission to delve into Bailey's alleged negotiations with G. P. Putnam Publishing Co. of New York City and the firm's editor-in-chief Walter Minton.

BANDLEADER DROWNS

NICE, France — British bandleader Victor Sylvester drowned Monday morning while snorkeling.

Sylvester was under water for about 15 minutes before being hauled onto the beach near Lavandou. Resuscitation efforts, including cardiac massage and a blood transfusion, failed.

Sylvester was using a tube snorkel to look at underwater life. Officials said he may have experienced heart trouble in the water.

Sylvester was a master of strict-tempo ballroom dancing. His "slow-slow-quick-quick-slow" dancing lessons on BBC radio in the 1930s made him known to millions, and he went on to rival Bing Crosby and The Beatles in record sales, selling more than 55 million discs. His book on modern ballroom dancing sold more than a million copies.

He was largely responsible for the fanatical interest in ballroom dancing that thrives in Britain. Millions still watch a regular television series, Come Dancing, in which couples glide, Sylvester-like, through the fox trot, tango and other dances.

Before the Judge

Judge Blake Allan was surprised Monday in provincial court when a man sentenced to an extra nine months in jail was upset because he didn't receive a longer term.

Reuben Jefrey Wallace, 32, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering and to being unlawfully at large from the Jordan River forestry prison camp.

Crown counsel Nicholas Lang told the court Wallace walked away from the minimum security camp Aug. 1 while serving a sentence for auto theft.

He said Wallace broke into the Native Friendship Centre, 1298 Gladstone, on Aug. 5. When arrested by city police, Wallace said he broke in to get the address of his common-law wife who worked at the centre.

Wallace had a criminal history going back to 1964 which included three previous convictions for escaping lawful custody.

Allan imposed a six-month term for the break-in, to be served consecutive to any sentence he has remaining, and a further three-months, consecutive to the break-in term, for being unlawfully at large.

"Why don't you just give me federal time," Wallace said as he was being escorted out of the courtroom. "I don't want to do provincial time."

A sentence of two years or more is required for a prisoner to serve time in a federal penitentiary.

Sources said that some inmates prefer serving time in a federal institution because they believe they do not have to work as hard as in a provincial jail.

Two young men who had a lavish meal Saturday morning at Paul's Restaurant, 1900 Douglas, were given suspended sentences and placed on six months probation after pleading guilty to obtaining food by fraud.

James Howard Butler, also known as James Howard Turner, 21, of no fixed address, and Donald Lee Daniels, 24, also no fixed address, walked into the restaurant shortly after midnight with a combined total of three cents in their pockets.

Lang said they ordered a steak, seafood platter, an order of deep fried prawns, a side order of oysters and clam chowder, worth $28.10.

Butler said he came from Toronto 10 days ago, had not worked since last year and was collecting unemployment insurance benefits.

"Too easy, isn't it," commented Allan. "Just too easy."

Daniel also said he had not been employed since last year.

Butler, who did not have a criminal record, was given the suspended sentence and six months probation while Daniels, who had a record, was also given 50 hours of community service work.

Allan made no restitution order.

A 19-year-old caught speeding July 31 on Hillside was given a 30-day jail sentence after pleading guilty to driving while his right to obtain a licence was under suspension.

Lang said Mark William Khol, 1825 Fairfield, was clocked at 93 kmh in a 50-kmh zone in the 1400-block and admitted to police he was suspended from driving.

Khol was convicted of impaired driving April 8, 1978, and fined $400 and was also convicted of hit and run May 24, 1978, when his right to obtain a driver's licence was suspended for one year by the motor-vehicle branch.

Fined for drinking-driving were: Russell Calvin Schrader, 21, of 232 Island Highway, $600; and Patrick David Steele, 47, of 904 Hillside, $500.

Hand Reattached

PARIS (AP) — A man's hand, chopped off with a machete during a fight over a woman, was reattached by doctors at the Boucicault Hospital in Paris. The hospital said 24-year-old Maurice Bottin's hand was cut off during a fight in Le Havre.

OPENING TONIGHT at Langham Court Theatre is an original Canadian satire entitled Coming Together. With script by Ian Johnston and music by Doug Pashley, it is a production of the Yes Mac Players, a young Nanaimo-based company which evolved through Malaspina College. Theme of the satire is "the Great Canadian Giveaway Show" and in it Trudeau, Levesque, Broadbent and Clark compete for the Grand Prize on "your National network." It will be seen at Langham Court for five nights ending Saturday, with two shows Friday and Saturday at 7 and 10. The producers warn that there is some full frontal nudity.

Kindergarten Founder Dies Here

A memorial service will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at McCall Bros. for Jon Pettersen, founder with his wife Gladys of the Jiminy Crickets Kindergarten.

Rev. Laura Butler will officiate at the service, which will be followed by cremation.

Pettersen died at his home, 3962 Cedar Hill Road, on Sunday.

Hundreds of children passed through the kindergarten between 1952 and 1972. The initial enrolment of 40 children rose to an enrolment of 240 students and 28 teachers after the kindergarten added Grade 1 classes.

Born in Myssen, Norway, Nov. 30, 1903, Pettersen was a skier of some note in his native Norway prior to emigrating to New York in 1921. He studied medicine for four years, worked in a number of jobs during the depression years, coming to B.C. in 1930.

For many years he ran his own fishing trawler Sunshine, then spent six years in the copper mine at Britannia Beach.

He and his family moved to Victoria in 1942 to work as a foreman and master welder at the Victoria Machinery Depot until the opening of the kindergarten.

He was a member of the Oak Bay Kiwanis Club for many years.

He is survived by his wife, Gladys; son Alfred of Tacoma, daughter Linda (Essery) of Victoria, brother Birger of View Royal, sister Nora and brother-in-law, of New York; brother Alf in Norway, and four grandchildren.

Dutch Feted By Vets

Members of Victoria's Dutch community were entertained at an open house Saturday by the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada.

President Tommy Thomas expressed thanks for hospitality given Canadian soldiers during the Second World War.

Jock Stewart of Vancouver, dominion vice-president, told of plans for veterans to revisit scenes along the Maple Leaf Route from Holland to Germany next summer.

Christian Thurkow of Vancouver, consul-general of the Netherlands, said the returning veterans would find the Netherlands changed but assured them of a warm welcome.

Nick Baarda, vice-president of the Netherlands Association of Vancouver Island, renewed the thanks of the Dutch people and said many of them would not be in Victoria now if they hadn't been liberated by the Canadians.

MAKING UP for her role in The Good Woman of Setzuan is Jane Sowerby, one of 30 high school students from all over the province involved in UVic's Senior Secondary Summer Theatre Workshop production of the Brecht play. The production is culmination of six weeks training with UVic theatre faculty and all the students have participated in various aspects of the production. There will be performances tonight and Wednesday in the Phoenix Theatre at 8.

2,4-D Ban Urged

Victoria Ald. Robin Blencoe said today he has sent telegrams to two federal ministers urging them to impose a national moratorium on the use of phenoxy herbicides such as 2,4-D.

Blencoe said that recent national research council findings indicate potential health hazards are associated with phenoxy herbicides and a moratorium should be in place until research is completed.

Blencoe expressed his concerns to Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan and Health and Welfare Minister Monique Begin.

Blencoe said in a release that "when human health is at stake we really cannot take chances."

He said, "Senior levels of government cannot ignore this matter. I would hope B.C. Environment Minister Jim Nielsen and other environmental officials and agencies of the provincial government will heed the research council report and act accordingly."

Last month Blencoe requested city council to suspend the use of 2,4-D in Victoria parks but his recommedation was rejected.

MD Facing Murder Charge?

tor can end a life. There are complicated moral and ethical questions involved," he said.

He added the Crown could avoid charging the doctor by referring the case to the Supreme Court of Canada, asking the court to rule on the legality of the type of case without ruling on the specific incident.

The Crown might also simply drop the case, he said.

A panel of Seattle specialists has been commissioned by the Crown to report on the medical aspects of the case.

The report, which will try to determine whether the child could have been kept alive by extreme surgical methods, will be studied before a decision on charges is made.

Hoem said the report also deals with how to treat similar cases in future.

He said the Crown may take a month to decide what legal action to take. The final decision will be made in consultation with Neil McDiarmid, director of criminal law in the attorney-general's ministry.

Dr. R.C. Talmey, Richmond coroner, said he had heard of the case but was not officially involved.

"It was really not a coroner's case. I wasn't informed of it as an unnatural death," he said. "The child was condemned to death (by his deformity) the moment he was born."

Burning Ban Lifted

The ban on backyard incinerator burning has been lifted in all municipalities except in Victoria.

The ban was imposed in July in view of extreme fire hazards caused by hot, dry weather.

A spokesman for the Victoria fire department said the ban in Victoria has nothing to do with the fire hazard.

"The burning ban is an anti-pollution measure," he explained. "It is imposed during the summer months."

While the ban has been lifted in Oak Bay, residents must still obtain a fire permits for backyard burning or for beach fires.

PILOT ERROR BLAMED

CASTLEGAR (CP) — A pilot's misjudgement led to the fatal crash in July of a Con-Air water bomber at the airport in this southeastern British Columbia community, said Carl Loeblich, city coroner Monday.

Loeblich said in his report that the death of Pilot Robert Smith of Chillack on July 25 was accidental and was due to Smith's attempt to manoeuvre the plane beyond its capabilities.

Loeblich said the crash occurred when the pilot banked the plane too sharply during a demonstration of the water bomber for forestry personnel.

The Ministry of Tranport is preparing a report on the crash.

Wilkinson Jail Ruled Negligent In Death

The operators of Wilkinson Road jail were negligent in not having adequate fire-fighting equipment on the premises when a fire broke out in an inmate's cell June 4, a coroner's jury has found.

The jury, while commending staff and inmates for fighting the fire under difficult conditions, endorsed a recommendation from provincial fire inspector Reginald Perkins who called for major upgrading of fire safety equipment in provincial jails.

The six-member jury gave its verdict Monday night at the conclusion of an inquest into the death of inmate John Richard Marlow who died July 2 of injuries he received in the fire.

The jury concluded Marlow's death was a suicide.

The jury said, despite their criticism of B.C. Building Corporation and the Corrections Branch which operate the building, there was probably little anyone could do to save Marlow's life even if proper fire fighting equipment was at hand.

Evidence given at the inquest revealed Marlow had set fire to his mattress and placed it against his cell door. But when guards went to put the fire out, the hose was too short to reach the cell and CO2 fire extinguishers then at hand had little effect.

Prices in July Up by 1.5%

June, a $4.5-billion deficit on government spending in the first three months of the financial year that started April 1, and a national jobless rate of 8.4 per cent.

The likely result of today's inflation figures will be to force labor groups to demand bigger settlements, Stevens said. Most major settlements have been about 6.5 per cent this year.

He also blamed the impact of the devalued Canadian dollar, now worth about 89 cents U.S., which drives up prices for imported products.

Ed Broadbent, New Democratic Party leader, said at a news conference later that the latest inflation figures show the verage worker earning about $13,500 annually will suffer a real loss of income of about $500 this year. Wages are rising at only about a six-per-cent rate, while prices are going up at nearly 10 per cent, cutting into incomes, he noted.

Meanwhile, the government is holding special committee hearings into constitutional matters, rather than on the economy, Broadbent said. It's about time the government "came to its senses" and recognized the seriousness of the country's economic difficulties, he said.

It is inevitable that the inflation figures will lead to bigger wage requests and a more vicious cycle of income demands to offset rising prices, he said.

The only bright spot Statistics Canada reported was decreases in men's clothing and footwear prices that were large enough to offset increases in prices for women's and children's wear in July.

Three years ago, Trudeau announced the government was setting a target of four per cent for the inflation rate by October this year. Finance Minister Jean Chretien continues to say inflation will be down to seven per cent by year-end.

But with the July rate more than twice the target originally set and rising, there are still some hefty increases coming for certain products.

Bus Transfer Cost Formula

transit services division of his ministry.

They will be switched over to the new UTA and many of them transferred from Vancouver to Victoria where the UTA will be based.

More than half the buses in the province are already owned by the province in the various communities where it runs the bus service.

The rest are owned by B.C. Hydro and other private carriers and will eventually be all brought under the umbrella of UTA and rented out to the participating municipalities.

Curtis said he wants the head office in Victoria because of the need for communication among deputy ministers, assistant deputies and other senior department heads of the several ministries involved in the system.

He said the civil service must understand the UTA exists and is not some distant thing. "This is the seat of government and if the capital was Chilliwak I would make the same designation.

"Too often ministries operate in a vacuum and I don't intend to let that happen in this case."

Curtis reminded the interim board members that while he does not officially sit on the board or have a vote, he intends to participate in discussions and offer suggestions as well as carry the board's views to cabinet.

After 42 Years Jail, His Goal: a Boys Town

'I lived only to kill and destroy'

Arthur Meunier did time with the likes of 'Creepy' Karpis, Vito Genovese and the Birdman of Alcatraz

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

A former cellmate of such notorious criminals as Al "Creepy" Karpis, Vito Genovese and the "Birdman of Alcatraz" is spearheading a drive to develop a Boys Town on Vancouver Island.

Art Meunier said in an interview a group of 14 concerned citizens including himself is looking at possible sites, including 50 acres at an undisclosed location in the Cowichan district.

Meunier, who has spent 42 of his 53 years behind bars, said the group, which is in the process of incorporating as a society — Boys Town B.C. — intends to launch a national campaign to raise funds for the project.

He hopes to raise between $45 and $50 million over the next 10 to 15 years to develop a town for boys who are orphaned or rejected by their families.

Inspired by Father Flanagan's Boys Town created in the 30s near Omaha, Nebraska, Meunier said his model would eventually become home for as many as 2,000 boys aged six to 17.

The boys would run the town under the guidance of a board of directors comprising teen-age representatives and adult members.

Vocational, educational, technical and spiritual help would be offered.

Meunier said money he earns through speaking engagements, a yet-to-be-published biography written by Province reporter David Virtue, and a possible film of his life, will all be invested in the venture.

Meunier has been working on the idea for more than eight years coincidental with a religious conversion he experienced in 1970. It represents, he said, retribution for the years he has wasted in jail.

"I've lived such a life of rejection," he said. "I just can't stand by and see kids rejected. That's a crime in itself."

Born and raised in Moncton, N.B., Meunier was orphaned at the age of three when his parents died in a boating mishap.

He was placed in a foster home where his foster parents, impoverished by the depression, taught him to steal coal and groceries.

One day when he was 11 he was arrested by police and when they brought him home his foster mother was so enraged he'd been caught she beat him on the head, breaking his jaw and nose. She hurled him out on to a snowbank and told him never to return.

Meunier said he didn't know where to go so went back to the police station. They didn't know what to do with him either. And so he ended up in nearby Dorchester prison.

In the 42 years that followed Meunier said he was never out of prison for longer than three or four days. His fellow prisoners became his family. They were the only ones who cared. He was lost without them.

He acquired a reputation for being a tough, recalcitrant inmate, given to violent outbursts. Once, he said, he stole 40 pounds of cyanide and was going to use it to wipe out the staff at a prison in Indiana but police caught him before he could get the chance. Another time he stabbed a guard in Michigan.

"I lived only to kill and destroy," he said.

Prison officials considered him sociopathic and invariably placed him in solitary confinement.

He served time in 105 institutions throughout Canada and the United States on charges ranging from fraud and forgery to theft.

His worst experience, he said, was a term at the federal prison at Kilby, Alabama — the "Devil's Island of U.S.A." For 31 months he was confined to his cell, shackled by the neck.

While there, he said, he had a gall bladder attack and two inmates who were professional nurses operated on him with a razor blade to remove the gallstones.

Although he never had any formal education, he turned to books in 1963, taught himself to read and write and eventually completed grade school and a university program in penology.

He said he knew Creepy Karpis, who achieved notoriety as the only man J. Edgar Hoover ever personally arrested.

Bob Stroud, the Birdman of Alcatraz, also was his friend.He said he was at Stroud's bedside when he died in the Springfield, Mo., hospital prison.

He served time in a cell next to Vito Genovese, after whom the Godfather was modelled, and knew many of the Mafia heavies, including Lucky Luciano and Joe Valachi, the first Mafia figure to reveal the inner workings of the organization to U.S. authorities.

He was in Millhaven the same time as Harold Ballard, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs and convicted embezzler.

"A normal guy," he said. "Everyone liked him because he had money."

In 1976, a reporter for a small newspaper in Minnesota wrote a Christmas story about Meunier's life. It was picked up by the national press and overnight, Meunier became something of a celebrity.

When he was discharged from prison in March, 1977, television crews from the major networks were waiting to record the event.

He was deported to Canada and the press followed.

He's appeared twice on Canada A.M. and was a guest on CBC's Front Page Challenge. He's discussed penology, particularly as it relates to juvenile offenders, with innumberable officials in Ottawa, including several cabinet ministers, he said.

He's spoken to scores of groups across the country and has been invited to be the main speaker at the Calvanist Youth Federation meeting at Queens University in Kingston later this week.

But it's all to one end, he said — to establish a Boys Town in B.C.

"I think I survived all those deplorable years for just that," he said.

Officials Dubious On Hotel Scheme

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Civic leaders were skeptical today about a proposal by developer Henry Eng to build a hotel and convention centre on the west side of the Inner Harbor.

A number of aldermen expressed doubts the development will ever get off the ground, largely because of traffic and servicing problems to the site which is immediately south of the Johnson Street bridge.

Eng's plans for the 6.3-acre site he leases from the province have been kicking around for months with little apparent progress.

On Monday, however, a spokesman for Eng announced a 99-year lease had been signed for the property, replacing the previous short-term lease and bringing the project a large step closer to reality.

But Ald. Bill McElroy said: "I don't think they're all that serious about building. They've got a lot of hurdles to jump over yet.

"My personal feeling is that he (Eng) is holding out all these plums in order to secure that 99-year lease from the province."

McElroy said the site became much more valuable when it had a long-term lease attached to it.

He said that if the project were to go ahead, however, Eng would have to solve the sewer and traffic problems that would be created.

A hotel and convention centre adjacent to the bridge would need an access to Esquimalt Road.

"That is one of the worst streets for traffic accidents and problems in the city," said McElroy.

He said 22,000 vehicles per day go by there and there's an average of 43 accidents in that stretch every year.

"Can you imagine the headaches if there was a major hotel there adding to the traffic flow?"

McElroy also said servicing of the lot would be extremely expensive "and I don't see why we should pay for it."

McElroy is in charge of council's traffic and transportation committee.

Ald. Bob Wright said he's heard a lot of talk about the project but "I'll believe it when I see it."

He said putting together a proposal for a large development is a great way to get a 99-year lease with the province.

"But if he's serious and wants to build a hotel and convention centre over there I'm not going to stand in his way — more power to him," said Wright, chairman of council's land use and planning committee.

Ald. Bill Tindall, in charge of downtown economic development, said Eng had passed a major hurdle in signing his lease with the province but "there's a long road ahead."

Tindall pointed out that although council has approved the project, subject to a long list of conditions regarding traffic and servicing, it has ranked the site low on its priority list.

Earlier this year council endorsed an advisory planning commission recommendation which listed the Eng site as seventh over-all as a location for a civic centre.

George Giles, responsible for the Capital Commission, said the proposed project has the full approval of his department.

Trio Held In Theft At Gallery

Victoria police have arrested three juveniles and recovered most of the $12,000 worth of electronic equipment stolen from the legislative press gallery over the weekend.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the boys, two aged 14 and one 15, were picked up Monday night.

They will appear in family court charged with breaking and entering and theft.

Stewart said two portable Teleram computer terminals, worth about $6,000 each and owned by the Vancouver Sun and The Province newspapers, were found in one boy's homes.

Six tape recorders, some pocket radios, a camera and a set of binoculars also were recovered.

Officers hope to find the rest of the stolen goods, some of which were dumped near the Legislative Buildings.

Stewart said the thieves entered the building Saturday afternoon during normal visiting hours and lowered the equipment in broad daylight out of a third storey window in the press gallery.

He said they put the equipment in sacks and rode off with them slung over their bicycles to their homes about two miles away.

Police aren't sure what the boys intended to do with the equipment although Stewart said one of them is something of an electronic whiz.

Job Downturn Starting Already

There are growing signs Victoria is in for an unusually severe winter of unemployment, Canada Employment Centre regional manager Stan Purdy said today.

"Last winter was bad but this year will be worse. I don't know how much worse it can get."

The downturn is already starting, in the midst of the tourist boom.

The evidence:

— In July the number of people in the region on unemployment insurance rose to 11,866, up from 9,761 at the same time last year. The dollar payout was over $3 million, up from $2.4 million last year.

— At the beginning of August there were 13,500 looking for work in Victoria, up from 12,000 at the same time in 1977.

— Only 50 per cent of the young people entering the labor force in the Victoria area are able to find work this summer during the peak of the tourist boom.

— The tourist flow will decline within a few weeks and there are not enough major new industries starting here to take up the slack.

"As far as the winter season is concerned, things are getting worse, not better," Purdy said.

To head off these worsening conditions, he said, the region should be doing two things: working harder to attract new industries and acting now to organize tourist events for the fall-winter-spring season.

Purdy said extending the tourist season would be the easiest route to cushioning the blow of the winter slump.

"It isn't too late to do something now about this. This is very important to the Victoria economy."

The summer tourist season has been good, he said, but Victoria is developing a pattern of summer boom, winter bust, and the highs and low periods will become more severe unless more attention is given to off-season tourism and the development of non-polluting industries.

Things will be tougher here this winter than in Vancouver, which has a more diversified economy to help cushion the blow.

Purdy said it is easy to forget about the coming winter because things are so good in Victoria right now. In July, for example, jobs were coming in to the Canada Employment Centre at the rate of 150 a day, up from a daily average in the range of 70 to 80 during April, May and June.

But the region must plan ahead or it will face severe problems this winter.

Nursing Home Curb Asked

The James Bay Lodge nursing home should not be permitted to accept senile patients who can wander away, a coroner's jury has recommended.

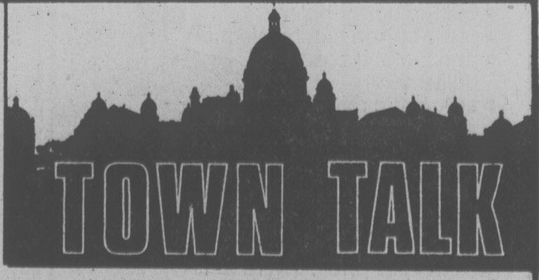
The body of Roy Frederick Harris, a 66-year-old resident of the lodge, was found July 25 in the Inner Harbor near the foot of David.

Harris had wandered away from the lodge and either slipped or jumped into the water and drowned.

The jury also reccomended that a facility be established to handle that type of patient.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he will send the recommendations to the attorney-general.

The lodge is not permitted under its operating licence to restrain any resident without the expressed permission of the person's physician.



McDermott: $47,000 Took Flight

It cost Canada $47,000 to fly convicted bank robber and jail escaper Jon McDermott half way around the world and back.

McDermott, 32, who fled to Australia after escaping from William Head prison in 1974 while serving a 12-year term for bank robbery, was flown back to Canada under RCMP escort last January.

He was sent to the B.C. Penitentiary to serve the remainder of his term.

But McDermott was freed after applying for parole in June and was immediately deported to his native Australia.

His wife, Denise, said Monday her husband was told the cost of the extradition and deportation proceedings, together with the cost of flying RCMP officers to Australia and all the air fares plus the cost of keeping him in jail, came to $47,000.

Mrs. McDermott, who said she and her 18-month old daughter — who have been living on welfare since flying back to Canada from Australia — are hoping to join McDermott in about two months.

She said she was not told her husband had been deported to Australia.

"I called the penitentiary at the end of last week to arrange a visit and they told me then he had been flown to Sidney a week earlier," she said.

If you ever wondered how tough it is for handicapped people to get around, you'll have the chance this week to find out first-hand.

The Greater Victoria Handicapped Action Committee will run an obstacle course in Hillside Mall Friday and Saturday to give people an awareness of what it's like to be blind or confined to a wheelchair.

Committee spokesman Elly Bowerman says anyone can take part.

The group is hoping to attract some dignitaries to start the event. Among the names mentioned are Mayor Mike Young, Premier Bill Bennett, and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm.

The course moves to Mayfair Mall Sept. 1-2.

The committee will sponsor an art exhibition at Emily Carr Art Centre, 207 Government, Sept. 18-29 featuring works by handicapped persons.

A raffle will be held of two paintings and a lamp with the proceeds going towards a variety of art programs for the handicapped.

Four bronze plaques, depicting events of special significance to the city, will be unveiled at 1:30 p.m. Friday on the Causeway at Belleville by acting mayor Bill Tindall.

One will be in honor of John Guzzwell, who single-handedly circumnavigated the world in his sailboat Trekka, leaving Victoria on July 10, 1955, and returning on Sept. 12, 1959. The plaque has been sponsored by the Thermopylae Club.

Another plaque will depict the sidewheeler tug Isabel, built in Victoria in 1866 for Capt. Edward Stamp. The plaque has been donated by Stamp's descendant Capt. Gordon Mesley.

A third plaque will honor Capt. Will Gardner of Gardner Tugs and Scows, who had six tugs in his company. The plaque has been provided by his son, George M. Gardner of Seattle.

The fourth plaque has been provided by Victoria city council and marks the arrival of the city's first black settlers in 1858.

Here's the Score on Our Wine Drinking

Something else to think about until the beer strike ends — British Columbians are still Canada's biggest drinkers of wine.

We are hardly drunken sailors when it comes to imbibing, though. We swallowed just over two gallons apiece in the past year. Eliminating those under age, it works out to about two glasses a week.

Does this confirm the claim made so often by our minister of consumer affairs that wine is the drink of moderation?

Perhaps. The report from the Canadian Wine Institute counts only commercial sales, and there are a lot of people making their own wine these days, but even then consumption is still insignificant when compared with such grape-loving nations as France and Italy.

The beer strike will have to go on much, much longer for Canadian drinkers to approach their level of wine consumption — 50 or 60 times ours.

The report also points to a painful irony for Canadian oenophiles: consumption of Canadian wines has increased over the years to a respectable 16 million gallons a year, but palates trained on fizzy varieties named for fanciful varieties of wildfowl thirst for more sophisticated stuff.

Consumption of imports stands now at 19 million gallons annually. It was only 2½ million gallons in 1964.

Blood: Not All That Simple

your health

By L. L. COLEMAN, M.D.

My blood is type O. I've been told that it's safe for me to give blood to all other people. Does this mean that if anything happens to me and I need an emergency transfusion I can take blood from anyone else? — Mr. B.L.

Dear Mr. L.:

No, it does not. People with type O blood are called "universal donors." Such blood can be used with safety to transfuse most other people. Yet universal donors with type O can be transfused with blood only by other people with type O blood.

The major classifications of blood are listed as A, B, AB and O. Type A and type B are the two most common ones. There are many subdividions and sub-classifications of blood, all of which are important to a hematologist, the specialist in blood conditions.

Rh factors and M and N sub-groups have special meaning from the genetic point of view. The M and N groups are of particular interest since they have been used from the legal point of view in trying to establish cases of paternity. However, not all states have accepted this legalistic approach to the paternity of a child.

Many readers have asked if it is important to know their blood type and if they should carry some such identification. This may be helpful in some emergencies. Yet, even under the most dramatic circumstances, special agglutination coagulation tests are done in order to insure the greatest safety for the recipient of a transfusion.

My husband has had a cigarette cough for many years. I always worry that one day this will affect his heart. I'm very concerned. Maybe if you wrote about it he might be more inclined to listen to you than to my nagging. — Mrs. P.C.

Dear Mrs. C.:

Nagging someome to stop smoking has never been very effective. In fact, the nagging may cause greater annoyance and tension and therefore be responsible for even more concentrated smoking.

Perhaps a more sensible approach is for us to coordinate our efforts and show your husband that a chronic cough can, indeed, put a greater load on the functioning of the heart.

Cigarette smoke acts as an irritant to the lining of the bronchical tube. The lungs then try explosively to get rid of that irritation. The heart-lung relationship is a very important one. Over a long period of time great pressure is put on the heart and the blood vessels.

In addition are the very definite effects of tobacco on the small coronary arteries that nourish the heart. The threat of emphysema of the lungs is a constant one to those who have a long-standing "smoker's cough."

Have your husband take a good look at a package of cigarettes and ask himself if the tobacco in it is worth sacrificing his health, happiness and, perhaps, his life.

Canada is well endowed with fresh water. It probably has more lakes than any other country in the world. Our lakes, including our share of the Great Lakes, contain about one-seventh of the world's fresh surface water, and our rivers carry to the sea almost nine per cent of the total flow of all the rivers in the world.

So states the six-page illustrated folder Water Use In Canada. The folder also says that water is the key to Canada's development. It provides the mosture needed for food production, supplies renewable energy for industry, provides access to raw materials and plays a vital part in their processing. Since water is essential for most industrial operations, as industrialization increases, so does the use of water.

In addition, water provides an economical means of transportation for bulky raw materials which make up a major part of our export trade.

It is also worth remembering that much of the recreation which Canadians enjoy during their vacation is water-oriented, like swimming, fishing, boating and waterskiing.

Christine Johnson, left, and Roberta Pazdro discuss women and the visual arts

They Went One Better

Three young women, two University of Victoria graduates and an undergraduate, have been delving into the "diverse and important, yet often unrecognized activity of women and the visual arts in British Columbia."

They are Christine Johnson, Roberta Pazdro and Anne Franklin.

With a grant from the citizenship branch of the Secretary of State at Ottawa to help conduct this Victoria Status of Women Action Group summer project, they have talked to local historians, ethnic groups and to women in public affairs about the place of women in these arts as volunteers, patrons and as artists.

Now, with research almost concluded, they are writing a brief on their findings and by Aug. 27, their office in the history and art department at UVic, will be closed.

It would be easy then for these three young women to say "mission accomplished" and turn their thoughts to other fields of endeavor.

That is not the way it's going to be.

Talking to Christine and Roberta (Anna is off somewhere in the interior) I learned the trio believe their research has tapped a fascinating and valuable area.

As Christine puts it "one that would not be studied very much, if at all, in the context of art history. Or, for that matter, in the broader history of the province itself."

Through this research, and the brief they are preparing, they hope to bring to light certain aspects in our history that will give us a new understanding of our own heritage.

They have not so much been looking for the great or the best "as we have been trying to objectively document what is there."

Here both young women made it quite clear they want the facts they have gathered to be read, used and enlarged upon.

"We had become increasingly afraid however, that like many other studies undertaken on special grants, our findings might be shelved and forgotten," Christine said.

"We don't want that to happen," Roberta added. "We want our findings to be easily available to everyone who is interested in this phase of history."

So, they went to Dr. Larry Devlin, head of the UVic continuing education department, and proposed that he consider including in his autumn program, a course on women and the visual arts in B.C., based on their research.

Dr. Devlin was enthusiastic and named Nora Hutchison to help co-ordinate an 11-week course Wednesday evenings from Sept. 20 to Nov. 29.

Textiles of early women settlers will be the theme for the first Wednesday evening.

In explanation Christine says "an important source of women's contributions to history can be found in their home crafts, often anonymously made and predominately functional."

Yet, these crafts are as crucial as politics and trade were to the survival of an early colony.

Each week a different phase of the history of women and the visual arts will be presented under such intriguing titles as the Art of Leisured Women, Forgotten Professionals, Women in Early Art Organizations and Arts and Carfts of Ethnic Groups.

In this last connection, Roberta reminded me that the astounding variety of arts made by native Indians, Doukhbors, Ukranians and other ethnics provide us with a rich and exciting cultural heritage.

Other titles are Emily Carr — A Survey of her Changing Style; Katherine Maltwood, Her Art and Collection; Women Photographers in British Columbia; Moder Women Artists, and an Evening wth Artist Pat Martin-Bates.

The course ends with Support Behind The Arts: Women Volunteers and Patrons.

Here Christine and Roberta speak enthusiastically of the "many unknown volunteers who through their time and work, provide the support network for art organizations . . . and the patrons who play a primary role in promoting the arts in more ways than fiancial support."

Throughout the 11 weeks there will be slide shows, discussions, gallery visits and guest lectures all planned to highlight work that has often remained quietly hidden in museum storage areas, newsclipping files, old drawers, attics and albums.

Anyone interested may obtain further information through the Department of Continuing Education at University of Victoria.

SPEED READING COURSE TO BE TAUGHT HERE IN VICTORIA

Arrangements have been made for "Excell-a-Read" Academy Ltd. of Vancouver to conduct their famous Speed-Reading and Study Technique course to a limited number of people here in the Victoria area. This course can train the average person to read five to ten times faster and with better comprehension, concentration and improved retention. The course guarantees to triple a person's reading speed, but the guarantee is a bare minimum as the average graduate will complete the course in excess of 2,000 wpm and with better understanding. For those who would like more information a series of FREE (hour and ½) meetings have been scheduled. These lectures are open to the public (above age 14) and the course will be explained in complete detail, including a tuition that is far less than that of similar courses. You only have to attend one free meeting for complete details on entrance requirements, class schedules and classroom procedures, and there is no obligation to enroll. These free orientation lectures will be held in the Saanich-Victoria Branch Library, Victoria, Thursday, Aug. 10 at 7:05 p.m.; Friday, Aug. 11 at 7:05 p.m.; Saturday, Aug. 12 at 10:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m.; Monday, Aug. 14 at 7:00 p.m. and Wednesday, Aug. 16 at 7:00 p.m.

If you are a business man or a professional person this course is an absolute must. If you're a college student, or a college-bound high school student then this course is a necessity. Be sure to attend one of these most informative meetings, and find out how easily you can learn to read the average book in less than one hour and with much better comprehension. This course is available to industry upon request.

Diet Freaks Stump MDs

TORONTO (CP) — Anorexia nervosa — the psychological disorder that leads adolescents to diet themselves to the brink of death — is becoming increasingly common, but doctors say they do not always know why and do not know how to treat it.

"It is becoming more common," said Dr. Paul Garfinkel, whose clinical time at the Clarke Institute of Psychiatry is devoted mainly to treatment of the disease.

In a weekend interview, Dr. Garfinkel said the case of a 24-year-old Windsor-area woman, Beverly Pillon, is not typical.

"This would be a typical ease, except that she was more overweight to begin with."

Miss Pillon said in an interview last week that she began dieting at age 16 when she weighed 280 pounds. Now, at 5 feet, nine inches tall and a frail 90 pounds, she says she wants "someone to help me — to make me better."

Dr. Garfinkel said that at her original weight, Miss Pillon's desire to lose excessive poundage was not unreasonable. With most cases of anorexia nervosa, the individuals do not necessarily need to lose weight and their desire to do so is ridiculous, he said.

"We're not sure what the cause is," he said. "Usually it relates to autonomy and self-identity. They don't see themselves accurately; it's a kind of self-deception.

"These are people who equate their worth with body size . . . appearances. They don't realize that happiness can't be measured in pounds."

Dr. Ruth Baruch, a resident in psychiatry at the Hospital for Sick Children, said the incidence of the disorder is increasing.

Dr. Baruch said that in the last two months, she already has treated one case.

Anorexics can be treated using drugs to stimulate appetite, but behavior modification — giving patients favors for gaining weight — is the most widely used therapy, she said.

Glen Renfrew, a clinical research associated with Miles Laboratories Ltd., said he knew of one case in which an eight-year-old girl suffering from the disease was cured through treatment with thyroid pills.

Renfrew said he learned of the case while researching a new thyroid test several years ago. The girl was in hospital when a thyroid test showed her thyroid gland was abnormal.

Renfrew said that doctors, believing she was suffering from a thyroid condition, treated her with thyroid pills only to learn later the treatment cured the girl of anexoria nervosa.

Youth Clinic

Young readers' questions on human relations and sex are answered by a panel of experts: Marion Powell, medical doctor; Blair Shaw, psychologist; Graham Cotter, clergyman; and Bruce Vichert, social worker. Send questions to Youth Clinic, The Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, B.C., V8W 2N4.

Dear Dr. Cotter: I am a 16-year-old girl who is quite confused. I had been going with a guy for three years until he broke off with me this spring to go with another girl.

Then I met a really nice guy. During the summer my "ex" came running back to me. I was unsure who to go with, but I told him I was interested in the new one.

Now I and the new one have broken off and I am back with my "ex." My problem is that the "new" one asked me to go on a weekend ski trip, which my parents would allow; but I have a boyfriend and don't want to hurt his feelings.

Who should I go around with and should I go on the ski trip?

ANSWER: Since you are not engaged or married, you are free to go on the weekend and still keep up a good relationship with your "ex." He felt free to move between you and another girl and back to you: Perhaps now you can give him a gentle lesson in maturity and show that it is quite possible to have two friends of the opposite sex at the same time.

You feel a kind of moral commitment to him, but it should only mean that you discuss your feelings and his feelings with him — and with the other boy, too. If they do not leave you free to date both of them then you have to decide how much freedom from commitment or how much dating with either of them you want.

Dear Dr. Powell: A few months ago you answered a question about French kissing. Can you help end a disagreement between a friend and I about the term "hickey?" I say that a hickey is a bite but my friend says it isn't. What is it, how do you give one, and how do you hide one or get rid of one is you get one?

ANSWER: A hickey is the bruised mark left behind after muscular action of the mouth and lips. It may result from biting or sucking strong enough to cause haemorrhaging under the skin but usually without bleeding.

I would suggest you ask the next friend you see with a hickey how he or she acquired it. That is easier than a long explanation from me. It is part of necking and at one time or another everyone gets one of these marks.

There is no way to cover the bruise with make-up. Turtlenecks will usually cover the area where hickeys are most likely to be. As far as getting rid of a hickey, time heals all bruises. A few days and all evidence of the activity will disappear.

Dear Mr. Vichert: My friend and I are 13 and in Grade 7. All of the girls in our class smoke cigarettes, but we don't. We feel left out because we don't want to hang around them that much. We always make up excuses but feel that one day we will have to go along with them.

ANSWER: Some things are really worth being left out of, and smoking is one of them. You will also be left out of spending a lot of money on cigarettes. You will be left out of a lot of ill health. You will be left out of a lot of trouble with your parents.

I don't think that you need to make up excuses to your friends for not joining them in smoking. Just tell them it is something that you are not going to do. If your friends cannot respect you for your own decision then they have lost something.

The girls in your class should try to live up to your standard rather than try to pull you down to theirs. Smoking is a bad habit — don't get pressured into it.

Dear Dr. Shaw: I am a 13-year-old girl going with a 14-year-old boy. My parents are very strict and don't allow my brother and I to have girlfriends or boyfriends.

This guy has asked me to go to his cottage for two weeks. I told him that my parents wouldn't let me go because of their strictness. He said that if I won't do anything with him he'll drop me.

I really love this guy and want to go to his cottage. I can't talk to my parents because they say that they don't want to discuss it. It's hopeless. I've tried everything. Can you think of anything?

ANSWER: You seem to be saying that your parents are not saying what you want to hear and so you think you "can't talk with them." Talk is a two-way street and you would really benefit from some practice in listening to your parents. Then try explaining to them what you want, hope for, are worried about, feel bad about, etc.

I have no doubt that you are honest when you say that you don't intend to do anything wrong. But your parents have had the experience and the trials of real life so much more than you have.

It would be foolish for a girl of your age to go for even a day to a lonely cottage with a boy where the two of you may do things you didn't intend to — and which may bring you more sorrow than the pleasure was worth.

Bio-dex

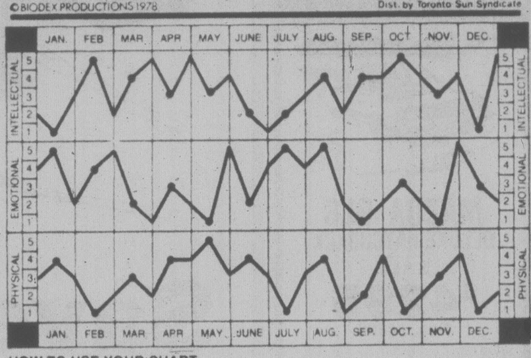
Aug. 16/78

By Ken J. Michaels

Your computerized biorhythm

© BIODEX PRODUCTIONS 1978

Dist. by Toronto Sun Syndicate



HOW TO USE YOUR CHART:

Locate your month of birth. The dots on each graph highlight your biorhythm readouts. Check the scales on the left or right for your Intellectual, Emotional and Physical factors, from 1 to 5. Add these three numbers to obtain your Bio-dex. The Bio-dex is computed on average population age based on official Government statistics.

BIO-DEX READOUT:

0-5 Negative Cycle-	A new job opportunity may not be all it seems. Take time to be sure it's right for you.
6-10 Neutral Cycle-	You're concerning yourself too much with another's misfortune. Don't ignore old friends.
11-15 Positive Cycle-	Time to return a favor. Do it now while you're on top of things and feeling benevolent.

Be selective about the areas of your activities. Spreading yourself too thin will wear you out before you're finished. The more you scatter your interests, the less headway you'll make in each. Focus yourself carefully: what interests you most? Start from there, and let the unimportant commitments go, so that you can truly achieve in a few selected areas. Then even a low Bio-dex won't drive you to despair.

dear abby

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago my wife seemed to turn frigid, and last week I learned the reason why. She's been having an affair with a friend of our son's!

My wife is 38 and very well built, and this kid is 16 and big for his age. (He was 15 when it started.) He hung around our house a lot, but I always thought he came over to see our boys. (We have three, ages 10, 12, and 16.) It never dawned on me that something was going on until I saw my wife kissing him goodbye in the yard. Then she said, "I love you." (I read her lips.)

I had a long talk with her and she admitted that she was having an affair with this kid, but she said she still "loved" me and it was only a harmless little fling. (How "harmless" can it be if they are having sex?)

I told her I didn't want to see that boy around our house anymore. Should I tell his parents? What should I do now? We've been married for 18 years. I'm 39 and have never been unfaithful in my life. We had a wonderful marriage until she started fooling aound with this kid. Please advise me.—CAN'T SLEEP.

DEAR CAN'T: You can't tolerate an extramarital affair, whether you call it "fooling around," a "fling" or whatever. Nowhere in your letter do you say that your wife has agreed to stop seeing this boy. If she insists on seeing him, you should insist that she get counseling. And remind her that she is contributing to the delinquency of a minor!

DEAR ABBY: Someone wrote to ask what you would think of a woman who would take a job as a live-in housekeeper for a single man, and you replied, "I couldn't care less. But if I were to give it one moment's thought, I would assume that housekeeper was KEEPING—not PLAYING—house."

God bless you, Abby, for keeping alive the supply of live-in housekeepers for the rectories of celibate clergymen! A man pays a housekeeper; he supports a wife.—FATHER LIEDERBACK.

DEAR ABBY: What would you do if your husband came home with lipstick on his shirt, trousers, underwear and some on his neck, too? Also, Sheldon has hairs on his coat, and they were a color like nobody in our family has. (Looks like a redhead.)

I questioned him, and he swore up and down he didn't know how any of this stuff got there.

Sheldon works in an office with just one woman. I've never met her, but he says she's as homely as a mud fence. I want to trust him, but with all this evidence, how can I?

SHELDON'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: First I'd find out if this "mud fence" has red hair. If she has, I'd suspect that she was close enough to Sheldon to transfer the above-mentioned evidence.

P.S. Any man who comes home in that shape can plead "amnesia" and get away with it.

Home Power by Fusion Still Long Way Distant

WASHINGTON (AP) — An experimental fusion device has achieved a temperature 10,000 times hotter than the surface of the sun in what U.S. government energy officials call a significant step toward the distant goal of fusion power.

The U.S. energy department said Monday that Princeton University scientists heated gas to a temperature of 60 million degrees Celsius, confirming earlier predictions that the key temperature element of fusion is achievable.

Dr. John Deutch, energy research director for the department, told a news briefing that while the advance is technically significant, it is not a breakthrough that would deliver fusion power to the United States in the near future.

"The results at Princeton, I don't believe, will affect our present time frame," Deutch said.

The department expects scientists to demonstrate the feasibility of fusion power in the early 1980s by developing reactors that produce more energy than is used to run them.

Through the rest of the 1980s and into the following decade, researchers will assess engineering problems and design commercial reactors. A demonstration power plant should be operating by the mid-1990s, Deutch said.

Commercial power from fusion plants should be going into homes in the United States "sometime in the first decade of the 21st century," he added.

Fusion is a way of freeing great amounts of energy by forcing together the nuclei of light atoms. Two abundant forms of hydrogen — deuterium and tritium — fuel the reaction. Both are obtained from seawater.

Fusion opens the way to virtually unlimited energy, produces little radioactive waste and poses little threat to the environment.

CHINESE SPUD MEN VISITING

Potato specialists from the People's Republic of China are in B.C. today as part of a technical fact-finding mission on Canadian seed potato production, a government spokesman said Monday.

J. Y. Zacharias of the agriculture ministry's field crops branch said the visit is the culmination of a cross-Canada tour for the Chinese representatives which began in the maritimes.

The delegation consists of Li Chin Hua, associate professor at the North China Agricultural Institute; Prochen Muang, chairman of the Potato Research Institute; and interpreter Chao Wei Chun.

Gambling Fever Grabs Alberta

EDMONTON (CP) — Gambling fever is suddenly so rampant in the province that Albertans spent the equivalent of $230 per adult in search of winnings in 1977.

But the craze has analysts stumped in their search for a cause according to a government spokesman.

The $276-million total includes about $111 million that Albertans spent directly on licensed gaming events which have caught on dramatically in the last three years, figures released Monday show.

Such events drew a comparatively small $52 million in 1974.

Calgarians edged out Edmontonians $43 million to $40 million on licensed gaming last year, according to the statistics from the gaming-control section of the attorney-general's department.

But Calgarians spent more than three times as much on pull tickets compared to the provincial capital's residents. The figures indicate Edmontonians favored bingo instead.

Freezing Weather Hits Coffee Crop

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Freezing temperatures in Brazil's southern state of Parana have damaged about 200 million coffee trees, and the bad weather is expected to continue for several days, authorities said today. The reports drove coffee prices up sharply on the London commodity market.

September delivery prices were quoted today in London, a major coffee trading centre, at about $1.35 a pound for unroasted green beans and November deliveries at $1.22 a pound. Before the freeze reports, coffee prices were between $1.05 and $1.10 a pound.

Temperatures went down to about minus four degrees in several areas of Parana and neighboring Rio Grande do Sul state, the weather bureau said here. Snowfalls were reported in both states. It is winter in most of Brazil.

A spokesman for the Parana state agriculture secretary said in a telephone interview about 200 million coffee trees of the state's 700 million had been damaged.

The spokesman said it is too early to determine the impact of the losses on Parana's coffee crop this year. He said some of the trees may have suffered only minor damage.

In February, the Brazilian Coffee Institute estimated its 1978-79 crop would be 20.7 million 132-pound bags, higher than 1977-78 crop but below normal crop levels before the devastating July, 1975, frost that caused a sharp ride in world coffee prices.

Gloomy Outlook for B.C. Not True, Wolfe Claims

The Conference Board in Canada's gloomy economic outlook for B.C. for the rest of the year misrepresents the true provincial situation, Finance Minister Evan Wolfe says.

In a letter sent Monday, Wolfe told the Ottawa-based board that the prospects for growth in B.C.'s economy are greater than the board predicts.

The board is an independent economic monitoring agency.

The board in one of its regular forecasts last week said all provinces with the exception of B.C. will experience accelerated economic growth for the remainder of 1978.

It said increasing strength in service industry output will be insufficient to offset the sharp deceleration in goods production.

Wolfe, however, pointed out that the B.C. conomy performed strongly in 1977 and as a consequence, the 1978 figures are measured against a higher relative level of economic activity than any other province except Alberta.

In the board's first quarterly report for 1978, Wolfe said the prediction was for B.C. to outpace the nation for the third year in a row with a real growth forecast of 4.1 per cent compared to 3.7 per cent for 1977.

Now, however, the board has upped B.C.'s 1977 growth to 4.8 per cent. And it drops the predicted growth rate for 1978 to 3.7 per cent.

Apart from this adjustment in the figures, Wolfe says the performance of the B.C. economy so far in 1978 and the prospects for the rest of the year favor a greater growth rate than the board predicts.

Wolfe pointed to a number of factors which he says will lead to a continued strong economy.

Included are: Continued strong lumber production; an improved pulp market; a strong demand for newsprint wirth favorable prices and mills operating near capacity; an employment growth that has outpaced the labor force growth, dropping the unemployment rate below the national average for the firdt time in recent history ; an improved tourist industry recording a 10 to 20 per cent growth and an 18 per cent increase over the same period last year in the total value of factory shipments.

"These indicators hardly suggest a slowdown for B.C., in 1978," Wolfe said. "In fact out expectation is for a growth of between 4.5 per cent and 5 per cent."

"Not 'till after we've gone on Mr. Toad's Wild Ride."

The Bridge Expert

It is an obvious fact that the queen, jack and ten of any particular suit are all equivalent in value, and are tied for third place behind the ace and king. But, at times, it can make a heck of a difference which of these three equivalent cards declarer plays — as was demonstrated in today's deal.

Neither side vulnerable.
South deals.

◇ J 9 7 5 4 2
♣ A 7

WEST	EAST
♠ Q 10 8 6 5	♠ A 7 4 2
♡ 7 5 3 2	♡ 9 6
◇ A 6	◇ Q 8
♣ K 4	♣ 9 8 6 5 2

SOUTH
♡ A Q J 4
◇ K 10 3
♣ Q J 10 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Six of ♠.

West's opening spade lead was won by East's ace, and a spade was returned, South's king taking the trick. Having only six sure winners, declarer was not happy about his situation.

At trick three he led the queen of clubs, which West covered with the king, and dummy's ace won the trick. With three club winners now in the till, declarer's total had just reached eight. But he never did make his ninth trick for West, when he later took his diamond ace, and cashed his three spade winners.

Actually, even if one were to look at all four hands, it would be quite difficult to see how declarer could have fulfilled his contract. Technically, he couldn't if the West defender took the winning position. But I think declarer could have made his contract.

Put yourself in the West seat. Suppose that, at trick three, South had led the ten of clubs instead of the queen. Would you have covered the ten with the king if you didn't know the South hand? In all probability, you wouldn't. And if you didn't, South would now have four club winners, for his next lead would be a low club to dummy's ace, felling your king.

But when, in the actual play, declarer chose to lead the club queen in taking the finesse, West's covering of the queen with the king was automatic; and, of course, declarer was now restricted to just three club tricks.

Thus, since declarer intended to take the club finesse, was not the lead of the club ten, instead of the equivalent queen, the correct play?

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, August 16th
By SYNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are going in right direction — if advancement, prestige represent goals. What seems indecision, inaction, backward crawling is part of overall pattern. Obstacles will be removed once you show that they can be hurdled. Clarity is just around the corner!

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Movement, communication, deciding course of a relationship — these are on your personal schedule. Gemini, Virgo, Sagittarius persons — and the number 5 — figure prominently. You add to knowledge — you could receive a "revelation."

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Family, home, budget — these dominate. Finances of partner, close associate or mate command more-than-usual attention. Be aware of lending rates, leases, clauses. Something is being "covered over" — get answers to inquiries. Protect self in money and emotional clinches.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Go slow, time is on your side — play waiting game. The more meticulous you are, the better — someone wants to skip the fine print. Don't cooperate! Be thorough. Read between the lines and be legally aware. Pisces, Virgo individuals figure prominently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Emphasis on basic responsibilities. Relationship is involved — and if you don't know it, you're in for a surprise. Capricorn, Cancer persons figure in scenario — and so does the number 8. You will have opportunity to verify, proves a thesis.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accent on significant reversal of policy. Member of opposite sex, children, speculative venture are all a part of your personal scenario. You reach beyond what was originally designated as a limitation. Personality, creativity shine.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Independent approach brings desired results. Stand tall for principles — get appraisal in connection with land, home, property. Welcome suggestions from older individual. Leo, Capricorn and Aquarius persons figure prominently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Emphasis on trips, ideas, neighbors, relatives — you get intuitive flash and it could unlock door of oportunity. Utilize knowledge of astrology, psychology. Size up situations, persons. Powers of observation comes into play.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Accent on money, personal possessions, element of timing or luck. Overall view brings results. Narrow concepts limit, promote loss. The choice is your own. Gemini is in picture — and so is another Sagittarian. Social event could lead to interesting contacts, friendships.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Lunar cycle high; make personal appearances. Be direct, independent, confident. You make marvelous new contacts. Your views are vindicated, prestige soars. Now you can be confident, celebrate, wear a colorful ensemble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): You get dream or "secret message." Puzzle is resolved as you "wake up" with answers. Associate, intrigued with numbers, can prove of immense aid. Know it and don't permit pride to keep you from asking for a helping hand.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Wish comes true. Lunar position accents friendship, romantic interlude. Taurus, Libra, Capricorn persons figure prominently — and so does the number 6. Family member makes concession. You're presented with token of affection.

IF AUGUST 16 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are spirtual, somewhat introspective, courageous, temperamental and you have tendency to brood. Pisces, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. Big, important changes occur in October — you "escape" from restrictions that have amounted to a trap. You are unique, an individual to your fingertips. You are more susceptible to drugs, including alcohol, than the average person. You are glamourous, self-indulgent and a fighter for principles.

Traditions Crumbling On the Job

For many years — ever since mass production dominated the U.S. economy — the ways of work seemed cast into an iron mold. But life patterns are changing, and so are job styles. By the time the 21st century opens, a day's work for a day's pay may be taking some remarkable unconventional forms.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American workplace, says one top corporate official, is a staunch bastion of tradition.

"People change and products come and go," he says. "But on the job it's nine to five Monday to Friday, New Year's to Christmas."

And so it has been. It was 40 years ago that Congress legislated the 40-hour week and despite high hopes and much talk the average still hovers around 39.

Yet, there's evidence that many traditional work routines are being elbowed aside on the road to the 21st century.

By the year 2000, job conditions will reflect basic trends in the workforce itself: an older, more self-assured group than today. More women will be active in dual career families where the working father will share housekeeping responsibilities.

The workforce will carry lofty expectations of its due, both on the job and off.

New jobstyles will reflect those changes and expectations. Though part of the workforce will remain tied to eight hours a day, five days a week, millions will find themselves in the thick of these trends:

—The work week will shrink. The U.S. Chamber of Commerce says employers should expect the four-day, 32-hour work week for most workers by 2000. Increases in vacation and holiday time will also sustain the growth in leisure time.

—With more than one breadwinner at home, fewer jobholders will feel trapped in undesirable jobs.

—Workers wonderlust will grow to epidemic proportions. Experts say U.S. workers will shift jobs eight or nine times, and many will change careers two, even three times, before retirement.

—More workers, but still a meager minority, will opt out of the rat race, choosing to adopt simpler lifestyles and jobstyles.

—Employees who remain to punch a clock will seek, and receive, greater participation in the decisions that affect their jobs.

—Retirement will be a gradual process, rather than the abrupt dismissal at 65 that marked recent decades, with phased-retirement plans and post-retirement careers.

"In primitive times," says Fred Bost, a researcher for the National Manpower Commission, "work took up 33 per cent of the average person's lifespan. It dropped to 20 per cent in the last century and has since dropped to about 14."

The United States of the 21st century is expected to be further along.

Work will take a backseat to family or leisure. Probably both. Already, attitudes to work are changing.

One study shows that only one out of five persons today says that work means more as a source of satisfaction than leisure. Most — 60 per cent — say that while they like their work, it's not their major source of satisfaction.

The work ethic is slipping.

"Hard work leads to affluence; affluence leads to new lifestyles, new lifestyles diminish the work ethic," says Clark Kerr, president of the Carnegie Council of Policy Studies in Higher Education.

Imaginative and expanded use of part-time work opportunities will likely provide a key shift in 21st-century work arrangement.

Already, more than 20 per cent of the U.S. workforce hold part-time jobs. In some auto plants, where a majority of the workforce has a chronic ailment known as the Friday Flu, plant officials have given up psychoanalysing and hired some Monday and Friday workers.

DISSIDENT ON TRIAL

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Soviet dissident Alexander Podrabinek went on trial today on charges of defaming the state in a dossier he compiled alleging forced psychiatric treatment is used against dissenters.

He faces a possible three-year labor camp sentence.

Friends said the hearing began in the morning in the town of Elektrostal, 64 kilometres east of Moscow in an area barred to foreigners,

FOURTH EXCHANGE FOR MIX-UP MUMS

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — A baby mixup that lasted two months ended today when two tearful mothers reluctantly exchanged infant girls for the fourth time.

The mixup began in mid-June when the two women gave birth at haifa's Ramban Hospital. Each was given the other's baby following a series of mistakes by the maternity ward staff.

When the mixup came to light and attracted national attention, each woman refused to part with the baby she had, and the health ministry as well as the hospital named committees to investigate.

The committee determined that the babies had been switched three times in the hospital before the mothers were discharged. The first switch, as a result of switched identity tags, gave the mothers the wrong babies. A few days later a nurse realized there had been an error and put things right. Then another nurse, belatedly discovering the earlier mixup, gave the mothers the wrong babies again.

Although the health ministry has not completed its investigation, a spokesman for the committee said its findings are conclusive. They are based on blood tests of the babies, all four parents and all living grandparents.

Despite this evidence, it took the committee several hours to convince the mothers to part with the children they had been caring for since June. Finally they agreed, and the switch was made as the two women wept and hugged each other and the babies.

The names of the women have not been disclosed although one of them gave telephone interviews.

"I will always feel that this is my daughter," she said a few weeks ago. "Even if they prove that she is not mine, I will never be sure. I will feel as if I have two little girls."

The committee accused five maternity ward doctors and nurses of carelessness and negligence and recommended disciplinary action against them.

A lawyer for one of the couples said he expects the health ministry to find the hospital liable for damages because of the parents' "anguish, confusion and suffering."

U.S. Blacks Given Cards To Leave Ghetto

TOWSON, Md. (UPI) — Baltimore County Executive Theodore Venetoulis says he has ordered the county's police chief to investigate charges that police issued black residents passes so they could walk in certain areas at night.

"Activities of this type are appalling and will not be tolerated by our administration," Venetoulis said Monday. "I have instructed the chief of police to take charge of a full-scale investigation and if the charges are true to find out exactly who is responsible.

"We will prevent these isolated incidents from ever occurring again in this county," he said in ordering the investigation by police chief Cornelius Bahan.

TAX BILLS BURNED IN TEXAS

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — About 100 angry taxpayers burned a barrelful of tax notices Monday to protest a recent property revaluation.

"The power to tax is the power to destroy and we are seeing this power badly misused," said Ray Britton, leader of the Concerned Taxpayers of Ector County.

The protest Monday night was aimed at the City Council, which recently approved a revaluation that might add an extra $1.5 million to county tax rolls.

Protests began last week when about 400 citizens said the revaluation meant tax increases of from 50 per cent to 500 per cent for some property owners.

City councilmen say the revaluation is necessary to equalize property values.

Executive Kidnapped

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Five armed men kidnapped a Swedish executive from his downtown office during the lunch hour Monday.

Schel Bjork, technical director for Telefonica LM Ericson of Sweden was taken from his office at gunpoint and driven away in a late-model automobile with no shots being fired.

Police reported no ransom note was left behind and no group has asserted responsibility for the abduction.

Bjork, 35, had lived in El Salvador for five years.

It was the second kidnapping in a week in this small Central American country.

Lebanese Army Retreat Reported

BEIRUT (AP) — Several Beirut newspapers reported today that much of the 650-man Lebanese army battalion sent to establish the government's presence in southern Lebanon has retreated northward.

An army spokesman minimized the reports, saying: "The battalion is still there. If a dozen soldiers leave or another dozen join it, the fact remains that the battalion still is at Kaoukaba. I wonder why such a fuss is attached to internal military movements.'

President Elias Sarkis sent the troops south to link up with the United Nations peacekeeping force manning a buffer zone north of the Israeli border. Ultimately the Lebanese were to take over positions along the border held by Christian militiamen commanded by a renegade Lebanese army officer, Maj. Saad Haddad. But the militiamen have blocked their advance for two weeks.

The battalion is the first government military force in the south since Palestinian guerrillas chased the Lebanese army out in 1973. The guerrillas moved north during the 1975-76 civil war but the army, meanwhile, broke up as its Christian and Moslem members joined the rival sides in the war. After the 1976 armistice in central and northern Lebanon, the guerrillas began returning to the south and fought the Christians there until the Israeli invasion in March drove them north again.

The battalion has been bogged down for two weeks at Kaoukaba, in southeast Lebanon on the edge of the UN force's area of operations.

Kaoukaba is 40 kilometres from the Tibnine, the town at which they were to link up with the UN troops. It is 18 kilometres north of the Israeli border. The Lebanese government is trying to get the U.S. government to press Israel into urging the Christians to let the battalion advance.

GARDENING

Hedges Ready for a Trim

By JACK BEASTALL

The trimming of hedges is done in April and August of each year. There is a reason for selecting these two months.

The regular hedge plants make a certain amount of new growth in May and September. This new growth quickly covers the scars of pruning so that the plants are not unsightly over a long period.

Small leaved hedge plants, such as the various species of Privet and the Lonicera nitida, are trimmed with the regular hedge shears.

A good job depends on good quality tools properly sharpened and cleaned, and the ease with which they can be operated.

For many gardeners this means taking the shears to a shop which specializes in the sharpening of lawnmowers, scissors, and shears.

There are two angles to the cutting blades of shears which must be maintained at exactly the correct number of degrees otherwise operation can be difficult and the cuts damaging to plants.

All cutting blades, even those of hand secateurs, become coated with plant sap which discolors the blades, leaving a dried rough surface on the metal which tends to tear the fibres of the plants and makes cuts which are slow to heal.

Washing the blades in warm water, drying, and rubbing with a fine grade of wet emery paper and water will restore the brightness of the metal, but care must be taken to remove only the grime, especially on the inner sides of the blades.

Providing the blades are not badly nicked, the short cutting bevel can be touched up by draw-filing. This maintains a reasonably straight edge without changing the angle of the bevel.

Nicked blades require careful grinding on a bench grinder to true the edge, after which the bevel has to be reground to the correct depth and angle.

There is a slight curve in each blade from the centre bolt to the tip. If this curve has flattened the blades tend to spread instead of cutting. This happens when the shears are stored with the blades closed. Reshaping is a job for a professional.

Hedges should be three times as wide at the bottom as at the top. The sloping sides are necessary for the lower portions to receive enough bright light to maintan foliage to ground level.

Hedge plants with large leaves such as laurel cannot be properly trimmed with hedge shears. The shears will cut through the leaves and the cut edges will turn brown, becoming more unsightly until the damaged leaves finally drop.

This type of hedge has to be trimmed with hand secateurs, each projecting growth being cut back the correct amount.

Secateurs also are needed for coniferous hedges until a tight mass of foliage has been built up, after which hedge shears can be used.

With coniferous hedges each plant has its tip removed when the desired height has been reached. All plants may not reach that height in the same period of time.

Holly hedges can be trimmed now unless they are of the informal type and berries are wanted for later cutting.

Informal hedges consisting of flowering shrubs are usually severely trimmed directly after flowering and it is considered best not to prune again in August because the new growth made during fall could be severely damaged in a winter cold spell.

Any long growths which have developed since the spring trimming can be shortened, but general trimming all over is not advised now.

ONE OF A KIND GENUINE leather chair, purchased in 1946 when returning home from overseas on U.K. Sicily and Italy. Beautiful shiny tan colour with arms almost black from constant use for relaxing after a hard day's work. Matching ottoman included. Why am I selling this jewel? Because I'm carrying a steel souvenir in my back which finally necessitated two major back operations six months ago when a very talented surgeon removed this German shell fragment from four vertibrae in my backbone and replaced them with two Canadian steel rods which are now holding me together. This is a very painful situation and so I bought a recliner chair with a place in the back where my poor aching back can rest without hurting. It's going to break my heart but it's got to go. Best bid by August 24th takes it. May be seen at Apt. 214 531 West Bay Terrace or by phoning 384-3275. It would make your den or rec room. — Russell G. Shearer.

They've laid you by the sea. But your blue eyes relfect more Heavenly blue.
Your once deaf ears — still deaf to plashing wave —
Now hear a tune more true.
You will outlive the blue glass mountain peaks that watch you as you sleep —
Mysteriously, the Shepherd you still love, has taken to His fold another sheep.

Pins Swallowed

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — A Missouri penitentiary convict killed himself by swallowing three large, opened safety pins, Warden Donald Wyrick said. Wyrick said a cellhouse officer found Raymond Rummell, 35, dead in his cell Sunday evening, and x-rays revealed the safety pins in his stomach. Wyrick said Rummell was serving a 15-year sentence for second-degree murder.

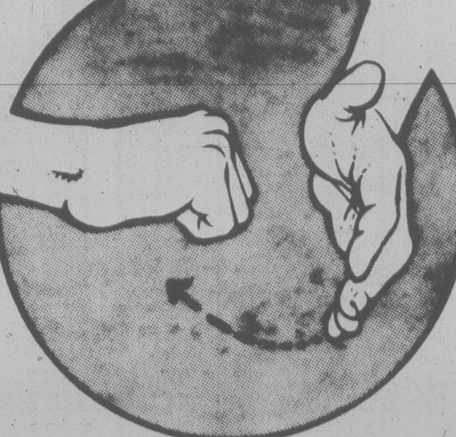
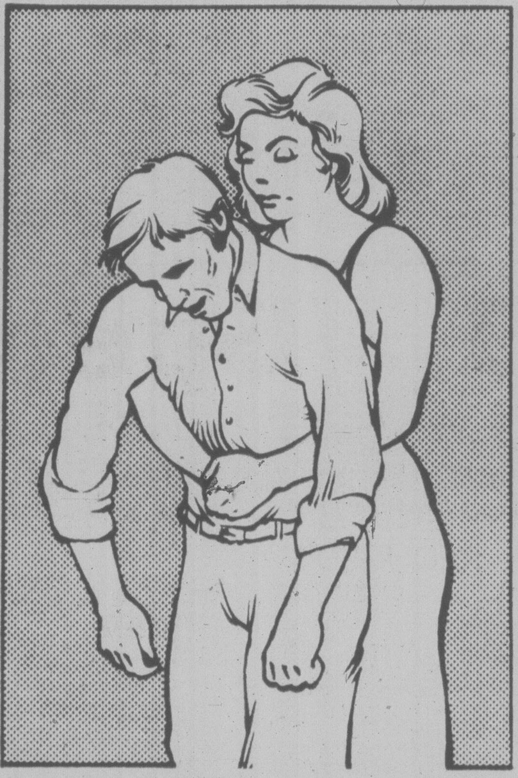
Choking . . Five Minutes Until Death

By JANE BRODY
New York Times

NEW YORK — A woman was having lunch with a friend in a San Francisco restaurant when she suddenly got up from the table and without a word, tottered to the ladies' room where she slumped to the floor and died. The autopsy revealed that a large piece of hamburger had blocked her bronchial tubes, asphyxiating her.



RESCUE of a choking victim is performed by standing or kneeling behind and them placing a fist at the top of the abdomen just under the rib cage. Grasp fist with the other hand and give a quick upward thrust.



A 33-year-old man had had several drinks before his steak dinner in a Florida restaurant. He collapsed at the table; the rescue squad and the physician in the emergency room where he was taken assumed that he had suffered a heart attack. In fact, this victim of a "cafe coronary" had choked to death, a large piece of meat wedged against the opening to his windpipe preventing him from breathing.

Each year 2,500 to 3,900 Americans suffer similar fates. Choking is the sixth leading cause of accidental fatalities in the U.S., more common than deaths in air crashes and by firearms. In children under the age of six, choking is the leading cause of accidental death in the home.

A person who cannot breathe has only about four or five minutes before death or irreversible brain damage. There is no time to summon a physician or ambulance. On-the-spot rescue is essential.

Through the years, a number of first-aid remedies have been suggested for victims of choking, ranging from sharp raps on the back to plastic tweezers to cutting a hole into the trachea. In most cases these approaches were unsuccessful. Some could be downright dangerous.

Four years ago, a controversial surgeon from Cinciannati proposed, on the basis of studies of dogs, an entirely new approach, one that could easily be taught to the general public. The method, known as the Heimlich manoeuvre after its inventor, Dr. Henry J. Heimlich, who is now at Xavier University in Cincinnati, has been since learned by thousands of American children and adults.

In the current issue of Emergency Medicine, a magazine in which Heimlich published his first proposal for the technique, he reports that at least 2,500 lives were saved by it, most of them by lay persons. He has personally received reports of more than 1,000 successful uses of the method and other physicians have reported an additional 1,500 successes.

While it cannot be said with certainty that every one of these cases involved persons whose airways had been completely blocked, and would have died without the Heimlich manoeuvre, it's clear that it has saved many lives.

The technique is easy to learn (according to one report, a four-year-old used it to rescue his two-year-old sibling, who had choked on a piece of chicken skin), and analyses of many hundreds of cases has shown that it can be properly and safely applied by lay rescuers of all ages.

The method can even be used by the victim, and to save persons whose lungs have filled with water as they have begun to drown. The technique, which has been modified slightly since it was first described to reduce the risk of injury, is basically this:

The rescuer places his fist with the thumb against the victim's abdomen, slightly above the navel, but below the rib cage.

He then grasps his fist with the other hand and presses into the abdomen with a quick, upward thrust.

The thrust pushes up the diaphragm and forces a large volume of air up from the lungs to the site of the obstruction. The resulting pressure and flow of air expels the obstructing object.

The manoeuvre can be repeated several times if it doesn't work at first. If the victim is standing, the rescuer stands behind him to apply the manoeuvre. If the victim is seated, the rescuer kneels or squats behind the chair.

If the victim has collapsed on the floor, a different hand position should be used.

Place the heel of one hand on the abdomen just below the rib cage and cover it with the other hand. Then sit astride the victim at the thighs and, with the victim's face turned upward, apply the technique.

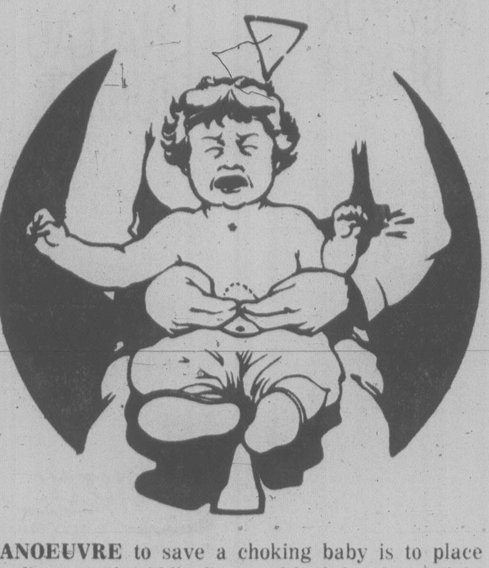
If the rescuer is too small or too weak to reach around the victim from behind, or if the victim is obese, the maneuver can be performed effectively only if the victim is lying on his back.

When rescuing an infant, instead of a fist, use the forefinger and middle finger of one hand to apply the abdominal thrust; to rescue yourself, place your fist in the correct position, grasp it with the other hand and do the upward thrust.

To prevent breaking ribs and injuring internal organs, it is extremely important that the rescuer not squeeze or hug the victim. The chest should not be compressed. Also, if the victim is lying down, the rescuer must straddle him, not kneel alongside. It is also important not to panic and to take a few seconds to assess the situation before attempting a rescue.

If a person's airway is completely blocked, he will not be able to speak, breathe or cough normally. He may motion frantically and have a terrified look on his face.

In a few minutes, he may turn blue and lose consciousness, but don't wait for the victim to collapse to attempt a rescue. A person who is suffering a heart attack will, unlike a victim of choking, be able to talk and breathe at first.



MANOEUVRE to save a choking baby is to place forefinger and middle finger of both hands on abdomen above navel, below rib cage, and give a quick upward thrust.

The circumstances are also a clue: Most choking deaths occur while the victims are eating or are in or near a dining area. In one study of deaths in Florida restaurants, 55 of 56 persons who died suddenly had choked on food. Only one "cafe coronary" was actually a heart attack.

In the typical case, the choking victim was talking or laughing while eating and had consumed a fair amount of alcohol. To further help identify a choking victim, Heimlich suggests the use of a "universal sign" the victim grasps his throat with his hand if he is choking and cannot talk or breathe.

However, if the victim is coughing, his windpipe is only partly obstructed and he can get in enough air to prevent death. In this situation, wait a minute. If it becomes obvious that the victim is weakening and cannot clear the obstruction himself, apply the Heimlich manoeuvre.

Heimlich is convinced that whether the obstruction is partial or complete, the victim should not be slapped on the back. However, the choking rescue taught by the American Red Cross and endorsed by a National Academy of Sciences committee on emergency procedures includes four back slaps (between the shoulder blades, using the fleshy part of the hand) before applying the Heimlich manoeuvre four times.

The academy committee cited one study that indicated that the back slaps produce a sharp spike of pressure in the windpipe that dislodges the obstructing object, which can then be expelled by the abdominal thrust.

According to Heimlich, however, scientific evidence supporting the effectiveness of backslapping is nil. He believes it can sometimes cause a partial obstruction to become complete. This, indeed, happened to a child who had choked on a peanut-butter sandwich. He was bent forward and struck on the back, causing his airway to become totally blocked.

The Heimlich manoeuvre was applied successfully after he lost consciousness, but the child suffered irreversible brain damage and has been in a coma for two years.

Laval Escapers Captured

MONTREAL (CP) — Police have recaptured the last two prisoners who escaped July 11 from the maximum-security Laval Institute during a bloody shootout in which a guard and a convict were killed.

Pierre Vincent, 33, who has escaped from prison four times, was captured Monday night by Quebec provincial police in another gun battle. Vincent and a policeman were wounded.

Jacques Massey, 36, who escaped with Vincent and two other prisoners, had been captured earlier Monday.

Police said Vincent was wounded in the shoulder and stomach as police threw in teargas and stormed the east-end apartment where he was hiding.

Provincial policeman Gilles Lamothe was hit in the stomach with a .22-calibre bullet. He underwent surgery today, and police said he was out of danger.

Vincent is expected to leave hospital in three or four days to appear in court, police reported. Another man in the apartment with Vincent was arrested, and is to face unspecified charges.

Massey was stopped on the Champlain Bridge over the St. Lawrence River. He was armed with a .38-calibre pistol but offered no resistance, police said.

Massey was serving 12 years for armed robbery, kidnapping and two previous escapes.

Vincent was serving 34 years for armed robberies and his previous escapes. Police characterized both men as extremely dangerous.

Vincent escaped from Laval Institute, then called St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, in 1972, but was captured in minutes. In 1974, he escaped and was captured the same evening. In October, 1974, he got out with the notorious Richard Blass, who was later killed by police, and Jean-Paul Mercier. Vincent was not captured until Jan. 9, 1976.

In the latest breakout, 29-year-old guard Guy Fournier and 41-year-old convict Jean Lachapelle were killed. Three other guards were wounded.

Two other convicts who escaped on July 11 had been captured earlier. Andre Charrand, 23, was captured after a brief shootout when he and fellow escapee Ghislain Gaudet, 27, were surprised July 19 camping near Montreal. Gaudet got away into the woods, but was picked up the next day in the St. Lawrence River, clinging to a log.

DERBY DIDN'T GO TO POT

KENORA, Ont. (CP) — The smoke went out of the eighth annual Smoke and Fish Derby after drug officers took precautions to prevent the awarding of the derby's usual first prize—a pound of marijuana.

Although no attempts were made to sneak in the traditional reward, Constable Bob Gruzuk of the provincial police said police found 37 reasons for laying other charges.

While most were boating violations, the officers also laid 13 liquor charges, four for possession of narcotics and one of possession for the purpose of trafficking. The derby was held at a Lake-of-the-Woods site, 16 kilometres south of Kenora, during the weekend.

Last year, officers compiled enough information to intercept the first prize as it was being transported by boat to the site of the event. Charges of conspiring to traffic in marijuana were laid against organizers then.

Gruzuk said the first prize now is money.

Immunization Clouds Tests

Canadian Press

Confirmation of suspected polio among 85 persons quarantined in Oxford County is being complicated by positive reactions to polio immunization, the county's medical health officer said Monday.

Dr. William Butt said vaccination causes a positive reading, even though the person might not have polio. Laboratory tests are the only reliable way of confirming polio and take a long time, he said.

Four persons in the Woodstock area, in Oxford County, have been confirmed as paralytic polio victims.

Dr. Butt said that for now, the only way to confirm the one or two additional cases of polio he suspects among those quarantined is to check for symptoms.

Two cases of polio also have been confirmed in southern Alberta and one has been found in Chilliwack. None of the victims had been immunized against polio. All are members of Dutch-Canadian religious groups whose members frown on immunization.

In the Halton Region, near Hamilton, three families who had direct or indirect contact with the Ontario victims have gone into voluntary quarantine to await test results from a provincial laboratory.

Dredge Trial Told Of High Bids

TORONTO (CP) — The former vice-president of Marine Industries Ltd. testified Monday that Gerard Filion, while president of the company, was involved in an arrangement in which two supposedly competing companies were to bid high on a $7.95-million dredging contract in return for work as subcontractors.

Filion was present at several meetings in which the deal was made between the company and representatives of McNamara Corp. Ltd. and The J. P. Porter Co. Ltd., Roland Thibault testified.

Thibault told the Ontario Supreme Court jury Filion told him he was confident cooperation by the three companies would preclude most other competitors from bidding on the Beauport Flats contract.

Filion is among 11 men and nine companies charged with conspiracy to defraud public agencies of about $4.28 million by rigging bids on dredging contracts between 1969 and 1975. Marine Industries, McNamara and J. P. Porter are among the defendants.

Testifying under the Canada Evidence Act, Thibault said he and Filion attended a meeting with Louis Quinlan of McNamara Corp. a few days before the tender date. It was agreed then that if Marine Industries was awarded the contract, 30 per cent of the work would be subcontracted to McNamara.

In return, McNamara would deliberately bid high, Thibault said.

The evidence act prevents Thibault's testimony from being used against him in future court proceedings.

He testified that, during the meeting, Quinlan said his company had an agreement with Canadian Dredge and Dock Co. Ltd. to pay Canadian Dredge and Dock two cents a cubic yard for Beauport.

Thibault said there was no talk of why the payment was to be made, but it seemed to be understood by the parties that Canadian Dredge and Dock would bid high.

At a later meeting in Filion's office, the original agreement was amended to give Canadian Dredge and Dock 30 per cent of the profit from Beauport rather than 30 per cent of the work, he said.

The Beauport contract, one of seven counts in the indictment, was awarded to Marine Industries but the amount of work to be done was later cut by the federal government.

Thibault also said that he, Filion and other dredging company representatives met twice in 1969 to try to split the country into east and west sections to reduce competition in the industry, but reached no agreement.

The trial continues.

Polish Joke Wasn't Funny

WINNIPEG (CP) — The editorial staff of Czas, a Polish-language weekly newspaper published in Winnipeg, is hopping mad about a bogus issue published while they were on vacation last month.

Lech Fulmyk, president of Polish Press Ltd., says the July 22 issue of the weekly contained fake articles contrary to the paper's anti-Communist editorial policy.

In an interview Monday, he said he believes the edition was planned to coincide with the anniversary of the Communist takeover of Poland.

Among the items that appeared in the July 22 issue were a front-page picture of a bare-breasted woman, an advertisment for a non-existent tour of Spain, Italy and France, and several articles that discredit Czas correspondents and the paper's editors.

Police are investigating the forgery, but it was not known Monday where the paper was published or how many issues were printed and distributed.

Editor-in-chief Jerzy Mroczowski described the fake edition as "an outrageous and insolent provocation directed against the Polish independence movement active in the West."

He accused the present government of Poland of being involved in the forgery and described the incident as "nothing but one more desperate move of the disgraced regime."

EDMONTON (CP) — Workers at the Canada Packers Ltd. plant here returned to work Monday along with those in four other Canadian cities, ending an eight-week strike and lockout.

The Edmonton workers returned to work even though they had earlier rejected a contract settlement accepted in the other cities.

The 700 employees, members of Local 243, Canadian Food and Allied Workers, had threatened to hold study sessions to protest the company's policy of taking back workers only as needed.

"We are going back and will live by the agreement," said a union spokesman. "We decided our workers had been out long enough."

The Edmonton local was the only one to reject the contract settlement voted on Friday, saying the wage increase was not large enough to keep up with the cost of living.

The contract calls for a 60-cents-an-hour wage increase a year. The union had asked for between 80 to 90 cents an hour more.

About 200 workers returned to Canada Packers Monday and the rest were expected to be on the job by Wednesday.

Meanwhile, striking workers at the Swift's Canadian Co. Ltd. plant in the city were to vote today on the same contract offer along with other Swift's workers across the country.

Canada Packers locked out its employees in response to the strike at Swift's.

Tories Panting for Election Call

By RON CLINGEN
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Conservative MPs and candidates — more than 200 strong — emerged into sweltering summer heat from a day-long caucus Monday claiming they are ready and waiting for a late fall election call by the prime minister.

Leader Joe Clark insisted it would be "more damaging" for the Liberals to wait until spring than to go to the people at the polls this fall.

"It would be most imprudent if I didn't get ready for the next possible date," Clark told reporters shortly after delivering a closed-door pep talk to his caucus.

The policy session and rally had barely ended when Clark boarded an early-evening plane out of Ottawa for St. John's, Nfld., where today he began a three-day pre-election campaign tour of the Atlantic provinces.

Clark reiterated his urgings that Prime Minister Trudeau call Parliament back from its summer recess this month or in early September, to draw up a new budget.

"If he is unwilling to do this, he should at least give the people an honest statement of our budgetary position," Clark contended.

At a news conference, Clark warned the country's deficit could soar almost twice as high as the $10.9 billion estimated.

The Opposition leader said latest figures showing a $4.5 billion deficit for the first three months of the year indicate the total deficit could climb to $15 billion or even $18 billion before the year ends.

Clark said the federal government's failure to win provincial support for his constitutional reform plan has jeopardized its prospects for a meaningful revamping of the British North America Act.

All 10 provincial premiers condemned Trudeau's constitutional package during their annual meeting in Regina last week. However, Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney, the conference chairman, admitted "nothing is non-negotiable."

The Tory leader claimed neither the premiers nor the Canadian people are opposed to amending the constitution. Rather, he said, they are upset at the federal government's unilateral way of dictating what the changes should be.

Building Workers Ratify In Squeaker

Unionized construction workers have ratified a two-year contract with 850 employers by 81 per cent.

The agreement only squeaked through the first step of the union ratification procedure, however, when five smaller unions turned it down.

Under the union bargaining council's constitution, all strike and ratification votes must be approved by the membership of 12 of the 17 unions before the all membership ballots are considered. Then a simple majority of all ballots is necessary.

The contract provides for an 81-cent-an-hour wage increase retroactive to April 30, followed by another 81 cents an hour in 1979, which is a 12-per-cent pay raise over two years.

Construcion Labor Relations Association, representing the contractors, has not finished ratifying the agreement but president Chuck McVeigh said Monday that he did not anticipate any problems.

It is the first year that the unions have negotiated under the auspices of a joint bargaining council.

The Operative Plasterers' and Cement Masons' International Association, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, the International Brotherhood of Boilermakers, the International Union of Elevator Constructors and the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental ironworkers rejected the agreement.

The council was formed after Labor Minister Allan Williams asked the provincial labor relation board to look into imposing one on the strike-prone industry.

Construction wage rates including holiday pay, pension contributions and other benefits such as medical, tool and training payments now will range from $12.63 for construction laborers to $15.05 for inside electricians.

Actual hourly pay rates minus benefits were $9.97 for laborers and $11.85 for electricians before the increases were negotiated.

Skagit Talks Resume

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia will be "getting back as soon as possible" to discussions with Seattle City Light in seeking a way to avert flooding of the Skagit Valley in B.C., says deputy environment minister Ben Marr, the province's chief Skagit negotiator.

He said in an interview Monday that B.C. is studying a response received in May from Seattle City Light to a B.C. settlement proposal made last September.

"We will be making back a comment to them fairly soon, but no specific date has been set for discussions," he said.

The city-owned power utility has a 1967 agreement with the province to flood the Skagit Valley by raising the Ross Dam on the Washington State section of the river by 37 metres.

In increasing City Light's power output, the raising of the dam would flood more than 5,000 wilderness acres of the B.C. part of the Skagit Valley.

Since making the agreement, under which B.C. receives $34,000 a year from Seattle, two successive B.C. governments have bowed to opposition to the deal from environmental groups and have been seeking to negotiate out of it.

The United States Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) issued an order Aug. 2 denying any rehearing or reopening of the project, which received approval from FERC's predecessor body, the Federal Power Commission (FPC).

Following the FERC order, Seattle Mayor Charles Royer expressed the hope that the ruling would spur B.C. to settlement terms, and said that otherwise Seattle would proceed with the project. He suggested B.C. had not been negotiating seriously.

Marr said Monday that B.C. has caused no delay in negotiations, noting it took Seattle about eight months to respond to B.C.'s proposal of last September.

"All the way through we have tried to respond as fast as we could to any possibility of resolving this," he said. "There has been no delay on our part."

He said the FERC ruling makes little difference to negotiations because it confirms—as it was expected to—the previous authority given for the project by the FPC.

Costs Up 80%

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine cost of living was up 6.6 per cent in July and has risen 80.7 per cent since Jan. 1, the economy ministry announced.

Death Suspect Cites God's Order

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Delta man charged with the hammer-murder of his wife and two sons June 7, 1976, told a neighbor moments after the triple slaying he was acting on instructions from God, a B.C. Supreme Court jury was told Monday.

Insanity is the issue, Crown Councel Wallace Opal said Monday at the trial of Ronald William Dearden, charged with the murder of his wife Marlene and their six- and seven-year-old sons.

Edgar Wood, a Riverview Hospital psychiatric nurse who lives across the street from the Deardens, testified he heard a noise at his front door just after midnight June 7, and opened it to find the Dearden's daughter Sandra, 2½, seeking to come in.

"Ronald was right behind her coming across our lawn and he said to me 'the family. . .I killed the family. . .Marlene and the boys . . .with a hammer,' " Wood stated.

"I took Ronald by the wrists into the livingroom and we sat down," said Wood. "He told me that God had told him to do it. Then he told me that he had set the house on fire."

He said the accused was barefoot at the time, his eyes wide and he was gasping and shaking noticeably.

Mrs. Wood told Justice K. S. Fawcus that as she was phoning police she heard a muffled explosion and saw flames shoot from the Dearden's home.

Her husband said he took the accused outside minutes later and turned him over to police when they arrived.

Delta police Constable Hugh Davies said Dearden told him: "I killed them."

"I asked him how he did it and he said 'with a hammer', and then he said 'just take me away, get me out of here,' " said constable Davies.

The trial continues.

"Sure I like pants but it's so nice to wear a dress again"

And dresses have never looked better. Shapes have never been as feminine. And this shirtdress is a prime example of the femininity that's happening in dresses today. It's loose . . . but not too. It still gives a suggestion of shape . . . my own. And the detailings are done with such simplicity. A little mandarin collar that I can turn up at my whim, a full circle skirt to swirl around in — and the newest option, the roll tab sleeves. I can wear them up or down. Now, isn't that ease? And simplicity. What's more this sensational shirtdress comes in a color combination of cognac with taupe and brown. It's the kind of dress that makes me glad that I'm a woman. For sizes 8 to 16, in polyester/rayon, 60.00. Just part of my look I'm putting together Piece by Piece — at Eaton's.

MD Faces Murder Charge?

The Crown is considering a charge of first-degree murder against a Richmond doctor who allegedly decided to withhold nourishment from a severely deformed infant.

Al Hoehm, chief prosecutor in the South Fraser Region, said a baby with massive brain deformities died in Richmond General Hospital May 24 after being denied attention for 17 days.

Hospital administrator Hugh Ross declined to comment on details of the case.

Meanwhile, a local spokesman said hospital policy in the Victoria area would prevent an incident like that in Richmond taking place.

Dr. Ray LeHuquest, medical administrator of the Royal Jubilee Hospital, said today it is hospital policy to give newborn malformed infants or malformed babies admitted to the hospital all the care needed to maintain life.

"As an example, on the fifth floor of the Eric Martin we have severely mentally and physically handicapped children and the staff work very extremely to bring these kids along," LeHuquet said.

Hoehm said the baby in Richmond was born May 7, suffering from a condition called amniotic band syndrome, in which tissues in the mother's womb become wrapped around the fetus.

He said the baby had only a brain stem at birth.

He said police began investigations shortly after the baby's death and a report was submitted by Richmond RCMP on June 21.

He would not say if the Crown is considering laying charges against the parents, who are reported to have approved the doctor's actions, or against other doctors and hospital staff involved in the alleged decision to withhold nourishment.

"We haven't yet finished our over-all investigation over whether a parent or doc-

SCIENTOLOGY CHARGES

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A federal grand jury today indicted 11 members of the Church of Scientology, including the wife of founder L. Ron Hubbard, on charges of stealing government documents.

The indictmentsalso charge the church with recruiting members "to infiltrate various agencies and departments of the United States."

9.8% INFLATION RATE

July Price Rise Highest Since '75

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer prices rose at their fastest rate in more than three years during July as sharply higher food prices once more fueled inflation, Statistics Canada reported today.

The consumer price index, the most widely used inflation measure, was up by 1½ per cent after rising nine-tenths of one per cent in June. The last time it rose as strongly was in June, 1975.

As a result, the 12-month inflation rate in July was 9.8 per cent, up from 9.2 per cent in June. It is the highest inflation rate since November, 1975, one month after the government imposed wage and price controls.

Fresh fruit and vegetable prices were up by 17.8 per cent in July and are about 45 per cent higher than a year ago. The monthly increase largely reflects the replacement of depleting domestic supplies of apples and potatoes by higher-priced imports, Statistics Canada says.

Beef prices, which had jumped by more than 10 per cent in each of the two previous months, were up by 3.9 per cent in July. Beef costs about 66 per cent more than a year ago.

There were also price increases for poultry products, margarine and some cereal and bakery products.

The Anti-Inflation Board recently released its own report on food prices, saying it expected prices to level off for the rest of this year. Its findings were based on a more current survey than the consumer price index. However, its conclusions were later challenged by supermarket spokesmen, who said they saw no reason why food prices would level off although they might rise more moderately.

Aside from food, higher costs for shelter and increased hotel and motel charges were the other main factors in the July increase in prices. Some North American and imported autos cost more, and dental fees were increased in some regions.

The consumer price index stood at 177.7 in July, compared with 175.1 in June and 161.8 in July a year ago.

That means a standard basket of consumer goods and services that cost $177.70 in July could have been bought for $175.10 in June and for $161.80 a year ago.

The purchasing power of a 1971 dollar had dropped to 56 cents by last month.

Sinclair Stevens, Progressive Conservative finance critic, said the inflation figures make it more imperative that Prime Minister Trudeau recall Parliament and present measures to deal with the slumping economy.

If Trudeau has an economic recovery plan such as he promised on national television two weeks ago, this is the time to present it in detail, Stevens said.

He noted that Canada had a loss in its merchandise trade with other countries during

Dollar Keeps Sliding

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar's tailspin continued today on the world's money markets, with the U.S. currency hitting new record lows against the Japanese yen, the Swiss franc and the West German mark.

The price of gold, reflecting the dollar's weakness, soared to new highs of $216.125 an ounce in early trading in Zurich and $216 in London. The previous highs, on Monday, were $213.625 in Zurich $214.625 in London and $215.25 in New York.

Meanwhile in Montreal, the U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds at noon today was unchanged at $1.1399.

The British pound broke through the $2 (U.S.) level for the first time since March 5, 1976. It rose from $1.9797 in late trading Monday to $2.0020 but later dropped to $1.9978.

The rise of the pound brought a mood of excitement in London, as it was an illustration of how the currency has improved since the crisis days of 1976 when it fell below $2 in March and then went further down to $1.55 seven months later.

It had closed Fridey at $1.9917 in New York and overnight edged up to $1.9985 in Hong Kong.

In Zurich, the dollar was quoted at 1.5545 Swiss francs at midmorning, down sharply from the previous low of 1.5810 at the end of business Monday.

In Frankfurt, the battered U.S. currency was trading at 1.9172 West German marks, another sharp drop from the previous low of 1.9510 marks late Monday.

It was the fourth day in succession of new lows for the dollar against the mark and Swiss franc.

In Tokyo, the dollar plunged to 181.80 yen, 2.50 yen below the previous low Aug. 2, and closed at 182.85.

"If you think this is low, wait until next week," said one Tokyo trader.

Grits Packed Bar Group?

The Canadian Bar Association committee which Monday announced a controversial proposal to drop the Queen as head of state may have been "hand-picked to bring in a particular recommendation," Victoria lawyer John Goult said Monday.

Goult also said that Jacques Viau, Canadian Bar Association president, made contradictory advance statements about what the committee would recommend.

At the time the committee was formed, Viau was reported as saying it would recommend abolition of the monarchy but when challenged by Goult he said in a letter the committee should not be making any recommendations on changes to the monarchy.

"The committee now has made the very recommendation he said it would not consider," said Goult.

A political breakdown of the 15-member committee would "find almost all of them are Liberals," he added.

In its report the bar association's constitutional committee said the Queen should be replaced as the head of state by a person appointed by a Commons majority.

Replacement of the Queen with a Canadian is necessary for the promotion of confidence, pride and a strong sense of Canadian identity, the report said.

The bar association's committee would also abolish the Senate and transform it into a body filled by provincial appointees. The federal government, which now appoints all senators, could send members to the new chamber but they would have no vote.

Former prime minister John Diefenbaker also described the proposal as hypothetical nonsense.

"The Queen could not be removed except by a vote of the House of Commons and the Senate, and the Senate would never vote for abolition," he said after release of the committee's report.

PEKING — Since 1970, according to an official New China News Agency commentary released Monday, Israel has had a powerful secret ally who has contributed thousands of people to swell its small population and man its army.

The ally in question is none other than the Soviet Union, a country the rest of the world thought was one of Israel's bitterest foes. But this, says the commentary, is just sham and double sham.

"In its contention with the United States for hegemony in the Middle East," wrote the anonymous correspondent, "The Soviet Union, while handing out the signboard of 'support' for the Arab people in their struggle against Israeli aggression, has been establishing contacts with Israel in many ways, ranging from concealed collusion to the open exchange of visits."

But the real proof of an alliance, apparently, is all the people the Soviet Union has sent to Israel to help it wage aggression against the Arabs.

Thousands of Soviet Jewshave requested to emigrate to Israel, often bringing persecution on their heads by doing so. However, if you follow the logic of the Chinese argument, that too is a sham.

The agency quotes Israeli ministry of immigration statistics to prove its point (which reports a total of 130,000 Soviet Jews who have emigrated to Israel).

'This is not the whole of the crime to which they are committed. According to former Israeli deputy premier Yigal Allon, Israel plans to accept one million Soviet Jews, so there are prospects of still bigger nefarious dealings between the Soviet Union and Israel."

The agency attack comes at a time when China is making new diplomatic initiatives in the Middle East to try and counter Soviet influence there.

UVic Vice-President New Head of SFU

University of Victoria vice-president Dr. K. George Pedersen has been appointed president of Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, effective Jan. 1, 1979.

SFU said today he has been given a renewable contract to Aug. 31, 1984, at an initial salary of $63,000 a year.

He replaces Dr. Pauline Jewett, the first woman in Canada to head the administration of a large co-educational university.

Jewett was to have remained in office until Aug. 31, 1979, but with successful completion of the search for her successor, she asked for and received an early release.

In October last year Jewett failed to win the New Democratic Party nomination in the newly-created federal riding of Burnaby.

Pedersen, 47, an academic whose special interest is educational administration, has been at the University of Victoria since 1972. He joined as dean of the faculty of education and was appointed vice-president in 1975.

His education background includes a teaching diploma from the Provincial Normal School in Vancouver (1952); a Bachelor of Arts from UBC (1959); a Master of Arts from the University of Washington (1964), and a doctorate from the University of Chicago (1969).

PEDERSEN

Pedersen spent 13 years as a teacher and administrator in North Vancouver schools, serving as vice-principal and principal at both the elementary and secondary levels.

He left North Vancouver in 1965 to obtain his doctorate and to work as a researcher and teacher at the University of Chicago.

In a telephone interview from Burnaby today, following the announcement, Pedersen said he was delighted that his appointment had been unanimously recommended by the search committee and endorsed by the SFU board of governors.

"One couldn't ask for a better reception than that," he added.

He said he is sorry to be leaving UVic because "I have become terribly fond of that institution."

"I am awfully pleased with the academic progress it is making at the present time," he added.

Married, and the father of two teenagers, Pedersen likes jogging and golf for recreation.

Both Canadian Pacific Ltd. and Canadian National Rail recorded substantial profits for the first six months of the year, the firms reported from their Montreal headquarters.

CP's profit was $152.8 million, or $2.12 a share, for the six months ended June 30, up from $126.4 million, or $1.75 a share, for the corresponding period in 1977.

Most of the profits come from CP Investments Ltd., with $96.9 million, from $85.7 million, while CP Ships reported a loss of $8 million, almost double the loss of $4.6 million for the first half of last year.

CP Rail made profits of $41.2 million, up $8.7 million from the first six months last year. A statement said the improvement was wholly attributable to the second quarter when freight volume was six per cent higher than that of the first quarter which was down.

CP Air reported a profit of $4 million in the first half, up from a loss of $4.3 million last year.

CN registered profits of $61,190,000 for the first six months of 1978, the company said in its first of financial reports to be published on a quarterly basis.

The increase of $56 million over the corresponding period in 1977 resulted largely from government legislation June 30 to recapitalize the firm.

Buses Will Cost $2M Next Year

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Municipalities in the Capital Region will have to raise $2 million for the first year they take over the local transit system from B.C. Hydro.

That figure will rise to about $5 million annually when the full share of the bus system operating cost is borne by the local governments in a five-year phase-in cost-sharing formula revealed Monday by Municipal Affairs and Housing Minister Hugh Curtis.

For the first two years beginning in the fiscal year 1979-80, the provincial government will pick up 75 per cent of the costs.

The provincial share falls to 60 per cent after 1983-84.

The annual operating cost for the region is projected at between $11 million and $13 million in the first year rising to between $16.4 and $19.6 million by 1983-84.

The two local representatives on the 10 member Urban Transit Authority (UTA) — Ald. Bill Tindall of Victoria and Mayor Mel Couvelier of Saanich — welcomed the initial large provincial share.

The larger than expected provincial share is the best news since harness racing came to Sandown, Tindall said.

At the UTA's inaugural meeting in Victoria Monday, Tindall said the 75-25 split "looks like the relief we are looking for to avoid a property tax levy."

Municipal representatives in the Vancouver and Victoria areas had been worried about how much the transfer of transit systems would cost the local governments.

Under the jurisdiction of B.C. Hydro, all transit losses are spread throughout the entire province.

Couvelier also expressed relief and at the proposed formula and also noted the fact that researchers predict Greater Victoria can pay for its system solely through a gasoline surcharge of three cents a gallon up to 1981.

After that time, the mill rate will likely have to be increased rising to about 1.2 mills by 1983-84.

It is also projected a $12 annual household power levy will have to be tacked on following 1983.

Mayor Jack Volrich of Vancouver was elected acting chairman of the UTA.

Several of the representatives expressed concern that another provincial bureaucracy is being set up with about 65 civil servants and a budget of $2.4 million annually.

But Curtis reminded the board that about 22 of the positions already exist in the

After 42 Years Jail, His Goal: a Boys Town

Arthur Meunier did time with the likes of 'Creepy' Karpis, Vito Genovese and the Birdman of Alcatraz

By DEREK SIDENIUS
Times Staff

'I lived only to kill and destroy'

A former cellmate of such notorious criminals as Al "Creepy" Karpis, Vito Genovese and the "Birdman of Alcatraz" is spearheading a drive to develop a Boys Town on Vancouver Island.

Art Meunier said in an interview a group of 14 concerned citizens including himself is looking at possible sites, including 50 acres at an undisclosed location in the Cowichan district.

Meunier, who has spent 42 of his 53 years behind bars, said the group, which is in the process of incorporating as a society — Boys Town B.C. — intends to launch a national campaign to raise funds for the project.

He hopes to raise between $45 and $50 million over the next 10 to 15 years to develop a town for boys who are orphaned or rejected by their families.

Inspired by Father Flanagan's Boys Town created in the 30s near Omaha, Nebraska, Meunier said his model would eventually become home for as many as 2,000 boys aged six to 17.

The boys would run the town under the guidance of a board of directors comprising teen-age representatives and adult members.

Vocational, educational, technical and spiritual help would be offered.

Meunier said money he earns through speaking engagements, a yet-to-be-published biography written by Province reporter David Virtue, and a possible film of his life, will all be invested in the venture.

Meunier has been working on the idea for more than eight years coincidental with a religious conversion he experienced in 1970. It represents, he said, retribution for the years he has wasted in jail.

"I've lived such a life of rejection," he said. "I just can't stand by and see kids rejected. That's a crime in itself."

Born and raised in Moncton, N.B., Meunier was orphaned at the age of three when his parents died in a boating mishap.

He was placed in a foster home where his foster parents, impoverished by the depression, taught him to steal coal and groceries.

One day when he was 11 he was arrested by police and when they brought him home his foster mother was so enraged he'd been caught she beat him on the head, breaking his jaw and nose. She hurled him out on to a snowbank and told him never to return.

Meunier said he didn't know where to go so went back to the police station. They didn't know what to do with him either. And so he ended up in nearby Dorchester prison.

In the 42 years that followed Meunier said he was never out of prison for longer than three or four days. His fellow prisoners became his family. They were the only ones who cared. He was lost without them.

He acquired a reputation for being a tough, recalcitrant inmate, given to violent outbursts. Once, he said, he stole 40 pounds of cyanide and was going to use it to wipe out the staff at a prison in Indiana but police caught him before he could get the chance. Another time he stabbed a guard in Michigan.

"I lived only to kill and destroy," he said.

Prison officials considered him sociopathic and invariably placed him in solitary confinement.

He served time in 105 institutions throughout Canada and the United States on charges ranging from fraud and forgery to theft.

His worst experience, he said, was a term at the federal prison at Kilby, Alabama — the "Devil's Island of U.S.A." For 31 months he was confined to his cell, shackled by the neck.

While there, he said, he had a gall bladder attack and two inmates who were professional nurses operated on him with a razor blade to remove the gallstones.

Although he never had any formal education, he turned to books in 1963, taught himself to read and write and eventually completed grade school and a university program in penology.

He said he knew Creepy Karpis, who achieved notoriety as the only man J. Edgar Hoover ever personally arrested.

Bob Stroud, the Birdman of Alcatraz, also was his friend.He said he was at Stroud's bedside when he died in the Springfield, Mo., hospital prison.

He served time in a cell next to Vito Genovese, after whom the Godfather was modelled, and knew many of the Mafia heavies, including Lucky Luciano and Joe Valachi, the first Mafia figure to reveal the inner workings of the organization to U.S. authorities.

He was in Millhaven the same time as Harold Ballard, owner of the Toronto Maple Leafs and convicted embezzler.

"A normal guy," he said. "Everyone liked him because he had money."

In 1976, a reporter for a small newspaper in Minnesota wrote a Christmas story about Meunier's life. It was picked up by the national press and overnight, Meunier became something of a celebrity.

When he was discharged from prison in March, 1977, television crews from the major networks were waiting to record the event.

He was deported to Canada and the press followed.

He's appeared twice on Canada A.M. and was a guest on CBC's Front Page Challenge. He's discussed penology, particularly as it relates to juvenile offenders, with innumberable officials in Ottawa, including several cabinet ministers, he said.

He's spoken to scores of groups across the country and has been invited to be the main speaker at the Calvanist Youth Federation meeting at Queens University in Kingston later this week.

But it's all to one end, he said — to establish a Boys Town in B.C.

"I think I survived all those deplorable years for just that," he said.

Officials Dubious On Hotel Scheme

By MARK HUME
Times Staff

Civic leaders were skeptical today about a proposal by developer Henry Eng to build a hotel and convention centre on the west side of the Inner Harbor.

A number of aldermen expressed doubts the development will ever get off the ground, largely because of traffic and servicing problems to the site which is immediately south of the Johnson Street bridge.

Eng's plans for the 6.3-acre site he leases from the province have been kicking around for months with little apparent progress.

On Monday, however, a spokesman for Eng announced a 99-year lease had been signed for the property, replacing the previous short-term lease and bringing the project a large step closer to reality.

But Ald. Bill McElroy said: "I don't think they're all that serious about building. They've got a lot of hurdles to jump over yet.

"My personal feeling is that he (Eng) is holding out all these plums in order to secure that 99-year lease from the province."

McElroy said the site became much more valuable when it had a long-term lease attached to it.

He said that if the project were to go ahead, however, Eng would have to solve the sewer and traffic problems that would be created.

A hotel and convention centre adjacent to the bridge would need an access to Esquimalt Road.

"That is one of the worst streets for traffic accidents and problems in the city," said McElroy.

He said 22,000 vehicles per day go by there and there's an average of 43 accidents in that stretch every year.

"Can you imagine the headaches if there was a major hotel there adding to the traffic flow?"

McElroy also said servicing of the lot would be extremely expensive "and I don't see why we should pay for it."

McElroy is in charge of council's traffic and transportation committee.

Ald. Bob Wright said he's heard a lot of talk about the project but "I'll believe it when I see it."

He said putting together a proposal for a large development is a great way to get a 99-year lease with the province.

"But if he's serious and wants to build a hotel and convention centre over there I'm not going to stand in his way — more power to him," said Wright, chairman of council's land use and planning committee.

Ald. Bill Tindall, in charge of downtown economic development, said Eng had passed a major hurdle in signing his lease with the province but "there's a long road ahead."

Tindall pointed out that although council has approved the project, subject to a long list of conditions regarding traffic and servicing, it has ranked the site low on its priority list.

Earlier this year council endorsed an advisory planning commission recommendation which listed the Eng site as seventh over-all as a location for a civic centre.

George Giles, responsible for the Capital Commission, said the proposed project has the full approval of his department.

Trio Held In Theft At Gallery

Victoria police have arrested three juveniles and recovered most of the $12,000 worth of electronic equipment stolen from the legislative press gallery over the weekend.

Insp. Angus Stewart said the boys, two aged 14 and one 15, were picked up Monday night.

They will appear in family court charged with breaking and entering and theft.

Stewart said two portable Teleram computer terminals, worth about $6,000 each and owned by the Vancouver Sun and The Province newspapers, were found in one boy's homes.

Six tape recorders, some pocket radios, a camera and a set of binoculars also were recovered.

Officers hope to find the rest of the stolen goods, some of which were dumped near the Legislative Buildings.

Stewart said the thieves entered the building Saturday afternoon during normal visiting hours and lowered the equipment in broad daylight out of a third storey window in the press gallery.

He said they put the equipment in sacks and rode off with them slung over their bicycles to their homes about two miles away.

Police aren't sure what the boys intended to do with the equipment although Stewart said one of them is something of an electronic whiz.

Job Downturn Starting Already

There are growing signs Victoria is in for an unusually severe winter of unemployment, Canada Employment Centre regional manager Stan Purdy said today.

"Last winter was bad but this year will be worse. I don't know how much worse it can get."

The downturn is already starting, in the midst of the tourist boom.

The evidence:

— In July the number of people in the region on unemployment insurance rose to 11,866, up from 9,761 at the same time last year. The dollar payout was over $3 million, up from $2.4 million last year.

— At the beginning of August there were 13,500 looking for work in Victoria, up from 12,000 at the same time in 1977.

— Only 50 per cent of the young people entering the labor force in the Victoria area are able to find work this summer during the peak of the tourist boom.

— The tourist flow will decline within a few weeks and there are not enough major new industries starting here to take up the slack.

"As far as the winter season is concerned, things are getting worse, not better," Purdy said.

To head off these worsening conditions, he said, the region should be doing two things: working harder to attract new industries and acting now to organize tourist events for the fall-winter-spring season.

Purdy said extending the tourist season would be the easiest route to cushioning the blow of the winter slump.

"It isn't too late to do something now about this. This is very important to the Victoria economy."

The summer tourist season has been good, he said, but Victoria is developing a pattern of summer boom, winter bust, and the highs and low periods will become more severe unless more attention is given to off-season tourism and the development of non-polluting industries.

Things will be tougher here this winter than in Vancouver, which has a more diversified economy to help cushion the blow.

Purdy said it is easy to forget about the coming winter because things are so good in Victoria right now. In July, for example, jobs were coming in to the Canada Employment Centre at the rate of 150 a day, up from a daily average in the range of 70 to 80 during April, May and June.

But the region must plan ahead or it will face severe problems this winter.

Nursing Home Curb Asked

The James Bay Lodge nursing home should not be permitted to accept senile patients who can wander away, a coroner's jury has recommended.

The body of Roy Frederick Harris, a 66-year-old resident of the lodge, was found July 25 in the Inner Harbor near the foot of David.

Harris had wandered away from the lodge and either slipped or jumped into the water and drowned.

The jury also reccomended that a facility be established to handle that type of patient.

Coroner Edmond Jorre de St. Jorre said he will send the recommendations to the attorney-general.

The lodge is not permitted under its operating licence to restrain any resident without the expressed permission of the person's physician.

McDermott: $47,000 Took Flight

It cost Canada $47,000 to fly convicted bank robber and jail escaper Jon McDermott half way around the world and back.

McDermott, 32, who fled to Australia after escaping from William Head prison in 1974 while serving a 12-year term for bank robbery, was flown back to Canada under RCMP escort last January.

He was sent to the B.C. Penitentiary to serve the remainder of his term.

But McDermott was freed after applying for parole in June and was immediately deported to his native Australia.

His wife, Denise, said Monday her husband was told the cost of the extradition and deportation proceedings, together with the cost of flying RCMP officers to Australia and all the air fares plus the cost of keeping him in jail, came to $47,000.

Mrs. McDermott, who said she and her 18-month old daughter — who have been living on welfare since flying back to Canada from Australia — are hoping to join McDermott in about two months.

She said she was not told her husband had been deported to Australia.

"I called the penitentiary at the end of last week to arrange a visit and they told me then he had been flown to Sidney a week earlier," she said.

Here's the Score on Our Wine Drinking

Something else to think about until the beer strike ends — British Columbians are still Canada's biggest drinkers of wine.

We are hardly drunken sailors when it comes to imbibing, though. We swallowed just over two gallons apiece in the past year. Eliminating those under age, it works out to about two glasses a week.

Does this confirm the claim made so often by our minister of consumer affairs that wine is the drink of moderation?

Perhaps. The report from the Canadian Wine Institute counts only commercial sales, and there are a lot of people making their own wine these days, but even then consumption is still insignificant when compared with such grape-loving nations as France and Italy.

The beer strike will have to go on much, much longer for Canadian drinkers to approach their level of wine consumption — 50 or 60 times ours.

The report also points to a painful irony for Canadian oenophiles: consumption of Canadian wines has increased over the years to a respectable 16 million gallons a year, but palates trained on fizzy varieties named for fanciful varieties of wildfowl thirst for more sophisticated stuff.

Consumption of imports stands now at 19 million gallons annually. It was only 2½ million gallons in 1964.

If you ever wondered how tough it is for handicapped people to get around, you'll have the chance this week to find out first-hand.

The Greater Victoria Handicapped Action Committee will run an obstacle course in Hillside Mall Friday and Saturday to give people an awareness of what it's like to be blind or confined to a wheelchair.

Committee spokesman Elly Bowerman says anyone can take part.

The group is hoping to attract some dignitaries to start the event. Among the names mentioned are Mayor Mike Young, Premier Bill Bennett, and Human Resources Minister Bill Vander Zalm.

The course moves to Mayfair Mall Sept. 1-2.

The committee will sponsor an art exhibition at Emily Carr Art Centre, 207 Government, Sept. 18-29 featuring works by handicapped persons.

A raffle will be held of two paintings and a lamp with the proceeds going towards a variety of art programs for the handicapped.

Four bronze plaques, depicting events of special significance to the city, will be unveiled at 1:30 p.m. Friday on the Causeway at Belleville by acting mayor Bill Tindall

One will be in honor of John Guzzwell, who single-handedly circumnavigated the world in his sailboat Trekka, leaving Victoria on July 10, 1955, and returning on Sept. 12, 1959. The plaque has been sponsored by the Thermopylae Club.

Another plaque will depict the sidewheeler tug Isabel, built in Victoria in 1866 for Capt. Edward Stamp. The plaque has been donated by Stamp's descendant Capt. Gordon Mesley.

A third plaque will honor Capt. Will Gardner of Gardner Tugs and Scows, who had six tugs in his company. The plaque has been provided by his son, George M. Gardner of Seattle.

The fourth plaque has been provided by Victoria city council and marks the arrival of the city's first black settlers in 1858.

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market continued to decline in active mid-afternoon trading today despite a preponderance of gaining issues.

Trading halts issued about 11:30 a.m. continued in shares of Simpsons, Ltd. and Simpsons-Sears Ltd. at the companies' requests pending an announcement.

In earlier trading, Simpsons was up ⅛ to $6⅞ a share. Simpsons-Sears Class A shares last traded at $8½ a share.

Controlled Foods International Ltd. rose ¼ to $6½ a share on the sale of 4,300 shares after falling back from a new high of $6¾ a share following a one-hour trading delay at the opening.

The company has declared a special 90-cent tax deferred dividend on common shares payable Sept. 1 to shareholders of record Aug. 25.

Among other industrials, Great Lakes Paper dropped 1¼ to $32¾.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market fell today, dragged down by fears about the declining dollar.

The market has weathered a good deal of negative news in recent weeks without slumping, but analysts said the depressing dollar news combined with the previous news to push the market down.

Texaco notched its second straight day atop the most-active list, dropping ⅜ to $26. The company said Monday it had made the first find of natural gas in the Baltimore Canyon area off New Jersey, but warned that it was not yet sure of the commercial significance of the discovery.

Also active were LTV, off 1¼ to $12; Boeing, down 1⅜ to $71; and Eastman Kodak, which fell ⅝ to $64⅜.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally higher in moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange. Volume at 2:30 p.m. EDT was 413,000 shares traded, compared with 306,700 exchanged up to the same time Monday. Bank of Montreal climbed ⅛ to $23¼, St. Lawrence Cement A ⅝ to $17, Macmillan Bloedel ⅛ to $22⅝, Imperial Oil A ¼ to $21¼, Hudson's Bay Co. ⅜ to $23⅜ and Interprovincial Pipe Line A ⅜ to $17. CP Ltd. tumbled ⅛ to $21¾, Alcan ⅜ to $35⅛ and Seagram ¾ to $28¼.

London

LONDON (CP) — Prices moved moderatley lower near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was down 2.5 to 511.1 an hour before the close. Leading industrials and oils declined, while gold shares dropped with the lower bullion fixing. Canadian stocks eased.

Canadians Earning More

TORONTO (CP) — The Administrative Management Society, a non-profit organization in the United States, says Canadian office workers are earning more than their U.S. counterparts for the third straight year. Figures from the society's annual Office Salaries Directory show the average weekly Canadian salary for 12 clerical jobs is $191, up from $178 in 1977. The comparable U.S. figure is $176, up from $165. The figures do not take into account different currency values.
